IF NOT VOLUNTARY

Congress Might Force Action In Rail Arbitration

WASHINGTON (AP) — If the railroad unions and management fail to agree on voluntary but binding arbitration of their prolonged work-rules disputes, congress may set up such a program, on a compulsory basis.

This possibility arose Saturday while attorneys for the five on-train unions discussed an agreement which could put a final end to the month-long threat of a nationwide rail strike. A walkout is now on the docket for Aug. 29.

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz on Friday afternoon announced tentative acceptance of his proposal that the key issues—firemen's jobs and train crew makeup—be settled by a special six-man arbitration board to include two members of the public.

STRONG HOPE

Although Wirtz noted that the unions' acceptance was a conditional one, this break stirred strong hopes that a mortal blow had been delivered to the strike threat.

But after hours of conferences between Labor Department officials and the disputing parties, Wirtz emerged Friday night to tell newsmen "We're by no means home" because of the lack of agreement on the conditions asked by the unions.

The unions are asking a signed agreement to cover arbitration of the two main issues and to set up procedures for the nonarbitrated settlement of lesser issues.

When these conditions were disclosed Friday night, J.E. Wolfe, chief negotiator for the railroads, said they cast doubt on the unions' sincerity and might prove an insurmountable obstacle to settlement.

But attorneys for the unions sought Saturday to shape an arbitration agreement to be signed by both parties. Wirtz expressed

British Yacht Slips Away On Rescue Voyage

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP) — Two planes of the Jamaica defense force intercepted the British yacht Nana on Saturday and turned her back from an apparent attempt to pick up anti-Castro refugees in Cuba.

The yacht had slipped out from Kingston Harbor without clearance from customs about 3:30 a.m. Harbor officials had reportedly been holding her because she had insufficient lifeboats and other life-saving equipment on board.

Earlier this week, the U.S. State Department in Washington warned the British owners of the Nana against inaugurating a refugee ferry service between Cuba and Florida ports.

The State Department reminded the owners that despite the fact that Britain maintains diplomatic relations with the Havana government the U.S. ban on money dealings with Cuba prohibits "persons subject to the jurisdiction of the United States from engaging in any unlicensed transactions" with or in behalf of Cuban nationals. The owners of the Nana do not have a U.S. license, the State Department said.

Derber has made an agreement with the Cuban government for the release of 1,200 Cubans, including leading opponents of Castro.

Quick Trial For Jimenez Is Forecast

Vacations Halted By 15 Judges Of Supreme Court

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — The 15 magistrates of the Venezuelan Supreme Court canceled their vacations Saturday to speed up the embezzlement trial of ex-dictator Marcos Perez Jimenez, extradited from the United States. He could get almost 17 years in prison if convicted.

Informed sources said the magistrates planned to start the trial procedure immediately and possibly would call on Perez Jimenez in prison Monday to present him with the first document—the arrest order.

PLUSH JAIL

The 49-year-old former strong man president was in an air-conditioned, television-equipped cell in the general penitentiary at San Juean de Los Morros, 50 miles southwest of Caracas.

Venezuelan law allows a prisoner any comforts he can pay for.

Perez Jimenez has the right to hire three defense attorneys, plus all the legal assistants they want, to counter the government's case prepared by the attorney general's office. The rumor is that he plans to retain some former legal officials of his five-year regime, overthrown Jan. 23, 1958.

He faces charges of embezzlement, extortion and corruption and bribery of public officials.

President Romulo Betancourt, elected to succeed Perez Jimenez, says the latter stole at least $13 million while in office. A recent court suit in Miami, Fla., produced allegations that Perez Jimenez was worth $700 million or more.

Army Exercise Called Success

SPARTANBURG, S.C. (AP)—The general who commanded Operation Swift Strike III said Saturday the massive war game was completely successful from an over-all military viewpoint.

"Our only regret is that 12 men lost their lives," said Gen. Paul D. Adams, director-controller of the exercise and chief of the strike command.

Gen. Adams met with newsmen at command headquarters here. Thousands of Army and Air Force vehicles had already started moving on the highways, returning men to their home stations after three weeks of field operations in the Carolinas and Georgia.

Ban Treaty's Handling Ires German Ally

Bonn Asks Airing Of Any Future Talks With Reds

BONN, Germany (AP) — Angered by the big power handling of the limited nuclear test ban treaty West Germany moved Saturday to have any further proposed discussions with the Soviet Union aired in the North Atlantic Council — where the Bonn government has a voice.

A Foreign Ministry spokesman said Bonn asked the United States to take the step after talks at the Geneva disarmament conference about stationing ground observation posts in Western and Communist countries to guard against surprise attacks.

The North Atlantic Council, composed of representatives from the 15 members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, meets next in December.

NOT CONSULTED

West Germany's press officer, Karl Guenther von Hase, complained Friday that Bonn was not properly consulted about the limited test ban treaty before it was negotiated by the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union.

A belief had persisted in government circles that West German interests were disregarded since the Communist East German regime was allowed to become a signatory to the pact. West Germany had feared this would offer international recognition of the Communist regime.

West Germany finally agreed to sign the agreement after assurances from the United States that signing of the treaty would not mean recognition of the Red German regime.

A few hours before Von Hase spoke, U.S. Ambassador Charles C. Stelle told the disarmament conference in Geneva that the United States would accept Soviet proposals for stationary ground observation posts to guard against surprise attack.

The question whether West Germany had been consulted arose at once. West Germany is not represented at the Geneva conference. Gerhard Schroeder, the West German foreign minister, has taken a strong stand that any such posts must be mobile.

Happy Pop

When you see a policeman wreathed in smiles, it can usually be accredited to one of three things — he's just been given an extra day off, a scheduled parade has just been canceled or he's just welcomed in the old bird, "Stork."

Wearing a smile that covered his face around Monroe City Hall Thursday night was Patrolman Willie Watson, who'd just welcomed in a "bouncing baby boy." The youngster, named Kevin Earl, weighed in at 8 pounds, 6 ounces.

West Berlin Officers Halt Demonstrations

Mob Is Angered On Anniversary Of Youth's Death

BERLIN (UPI) — Club wielding West Berlin police Saturday night quickly dispersed a crowd of 80 demonstrators marching through the city toward a main square on the first anniversary of the death of Peter Fechter, who died on the Communist Wall and became a martyr of East German brutality.

One demonstrator was injured by a policemen's club, authorities said.

Twenty - five West Berlin policemen intercepted the procession on Buelow Strasse in the American sector as the crowd marched on the sidewalk.

Police, in line with the tightest new security measures, acted swiftly to prevent disorder on the anniversary of the death of the refugee when riots were feared.

NO FIGHTING

The 80 demonstrators ran when police went into action and there was no fighting.

The incident took place three miles from the wall. At the wall itself the tighest security measures ever were enforced to maintain order.

Police had reports that West Berlin rowdies who rioted for four hours Tuesday night would try it again on the first anniversary of the slaying of Fechter, 18, who bled to death at the wall.

The crowd of 80 gathered before police barriers erected 100 yards from the U.S. Army's Checkpoint Charlie.

Held back by the barriers the demonstrators shouted "down with the wall" and "down with Ulbricht," in a reference to East German Communist leader Walter Ulbricht.

Then it paraded away from the wall toward Nollendorf Platz, a main square.

Way Seems Smooth For Test Treaty

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite some rough waters whipped up by the Senate Preparedness subcommittee, the limited nuclear test ban treaty appears to be sailing smoothly toward overwhelming ratification.

Administration witnesses, with unanimous backing of the military Joint Chiefs of Staff, have built up in five days of hearings last week, what even some of the fence sitters describe as a strong and effective case for the pact to ban tests except underground.

COMPATIBLE

The sum of their testimony is—as the military chiefs concluded in a joint statement—that while there are military risks and disadvantages in the treaty the broader advantages make it compatible with the security interests of the United States."

Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, the Joint Chiefs' chairman, made it clear that the military endorsement was based on assurances that approval of ratification by the Senate will be accompanied by:

(1) Aggressive continuation of weapons development by underground testing, (2) maintenance of modern laboratory facilities and a readiness to resume atmospheric testing should the Soviet Union abrogate the treaty, (3) a continued build up of defense forces, and (4) improvement of techniques for detecting any Soviet attempt to cheat.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secreary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Dr. Glenn T. Seaborg, chairman of the Atomic Energy Committee, all testified that these safeguards are a part of national policy. Support for this view was also reported to have been provided in secret testimony by Director John A. McCone of the Central Intelligence Agency.

But the Senate Preparedness subcommittee, a unit of the Armed Service Committee, demanded of the administration—with the full backing of the parent group—a detailed blueprint of plans to implement the safeguards.

Sergeant York 'Perks Up' A Bit Saturday

NASHVILLE, Tenn., (UPI) — Ailing World War I hero Alvin C. York perked up temporarily Saturday when he awoke in his hospital room to find his wife and one of his children at his bedside.

Doctors said, however, that York still is "a very sick man."

The ex-Army sergeant, winner of the Congressional Medal of Honor, was placed on the serious list at Veterans Hospital Friday when his temperature rose and he became "unresponsive to surroundings."

York, 75, has been hospitalized here since July 8 for treatment of bed sores. But doctors said his latest decline in health was apparently the result of previous ailments.

York has been plagued by illness since 1942. He is paralyzed on the left side, has suffered heart attacks, respiratory ailments, hemorrhaging and a bladder condition.

The Yorks were married in 1919, when the tall, rugged soldier returned from Europe and was hailed as a national hero. He won his Medal of Honor for killing 25 Germans and capturing 132 others in one day.

6 Suffocate In Wisconsin House Blaze

NAGARA, Wis. (AP)—Six persons, including a paper company executive, four members of his family and a neighbor girl, suffocated early Saturday when fire broke out in the first floor of a home in this northern paper mill community.

The six bodies were found on the floor of upstairs bedrooms in the home of Howard Comstock. The fire was confined to the first floor of the seven-room frame home, which was filled with smoke.

ONLY SURVIVOR

A 19-year-old son, who had decided to spend the night with friends, was the only survivor in the family.

The victims were Comstock, 41, production superintendent of the Kimberly-Clark Co. plant in Niagara; his wife, Marjorie, 39; their children, Paula, 15; Christine, 10, and Peter, 7, and the neighbor, Mary Jo Schelfhout, 9.

Robert Comstock, 19, was staying at the home of the plant manager, Robert Thompson.

Robert, who was in shock after learning of the deaths, told authorities that his parents had entertained guests until about 2:30 a.m. Firemen theorized that a cigarette had been left on a lounge chair in the living room and that it smouldered for more than an hour. The alarm was turned in about 3:45 a.m.

Earl Lake, a watchman at the Kimberly-Clark plant, which is across the street from the home, reported the blaze. When firemen arrived, flames had engulfed the front porch and living room.

The bodies were found in four bedrooms after firemen brought the blaze under control.

Mary Jo's father, Donald Schelfhout, a maintenance engineer at the plant, rushed to help firemen fight the blaze.

He did not know his daughter was in the burning home.

Lookout Posts Pact Is Possible

GENEVA (UPI) — Western disarmament experts said Saturday the Soviet Union may agree to an East-West exchange of static observation posts to guard against surprise attacks because Moscow believes it could prevent the posts from being used for espionage.

Conference sources said agreement on such posts would be similar to the recent partial nuclear test ban treaty because it would get around the Kremlin's constant fear that the West is trying to unearth Soviet military secrets.

They added that the surprise attack prevention plan now being considered here would offer only a limited security risk comparable to that of a normal diplomatic mission.

MAYBE 55 DEAD

Scores Are Lost In Sea Disaster

Air-sea rescue operations saved 185, including four U.S. servicemen believed to have been the only Americans aboard.

Two bodies were recovered. The rest of the passengers and crewmen, believed to total about 240, were unaccounted for.

News of the sinking was slow in reaching Okinawa and Shannon McCune, U.S. civil administrator for the Ryukyu Island chain, said the success of the rescue operation was amazing. U.S. military aircraft joined fishing boats in saving survivors.

SAVES TWENTY

One U.S. Army helicopter pilot, Maj. C. A. Wyllie, brought more than 20 persons into the Naha air base. Surface craft picked up most of the others.

The Air Force identified the four Americans as Capt. Finis E. Drinkwater, Phoenix, Ariz.; Airman 2. C. Edward G. Bancroft, Waukegan, Ill.; Airman 2.C. Gary D. Little, East Detroit, Mich.; and Airman 2.C. Robert Ostermiller, Reno, Nev.

An Air Force spokesman said the four, all stationed at Naha Air Force Base, were in satisfactory condition at a U.S. Army Hospital at Camp Kue, Okinawa.

The ferry was a 300-ton vessel converted from Japanese naval duty. Built in 1943, it was used for plane rescue service in World War II.

The vessel left Naha's port, Tomari, at 11 a.m. for Kumejima Island, 50 miles to the west. The manifest showed 199 passengers and crewmen. Okinawan police said about 40 additional passengers were unlisted, having gone aboard just before the lines were cast off.

Medical History Made By Just Staying Alive

WELLSTON, Okla. (AP) — Edith Helm makes a bit of medical history just by living a normal life.

Mrs. Helm, 28, was the first woman to receive a kidney transplant. She has not only enjoyed perfect health since that operation in 1956, but has had two children, even though doctors once advised her against it.

"I wanted to have a baby, so I did," the petite wife of a Wellston dairy farmer said Saturday.

Mrs. Helm was 20 and recently married when doctors first discovered she had an incurable kidney disease. That was shortly after Richard Herrick, 31, had had the first kidney transplant in medical history at Boston's Peter Bent Brigham Hospital. He got a kidney from his identical twin brother, Roland.

"I was glad to give my kidney," she said when the sisters were interviewed by a Tulsa Tribune reporter.

TO NEW ORLEANS

Oklahoma Youths End River Journey

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Joliet and Marquette explored the mouth of the Arkansas River as far back as 1673. But today in New Orleans, two Oklahoma youths stand a little taller for their 1,100 mile trip down the river from Muskogee, Okla. to here.

The Arkansas, the largest river which flows into the Mississippi-Missouri system, became a challenge to Bill Swan, 19, and John Cordell, 18, both of Pryor, eight years ago.

Cordell's father journeyed down the waters 20 years ago in 29 days, and that prompted the boys' desire for the trek.

The youths, in a 16-foot flat bottom fishing boat, made the trip in 14 days. Swan, a University of Oklahoma pre-med student, said "We were fortunate to have good weather and except for the wakes of ships in the Mississippi—it was smooth sailing."

Cordell sported a dark tan from the sojourn and his lips were slightly craked. But other than the smarting lips, the boys were in good shape.

Cordell, a diplomacy student at George Washington University, said the nights on the sandbars were "quiet except when a string of barges churned too close and sent a large wave toward their nocturnal habitat."

One experience near Baton Rouge brought a grin to the adventurers.

While passing above the Louisiana capitol, a cold rain started to fall and the only way the youths could stay warm was to jump in the river a-la-Huck-Finn.

Swan said "the river water felt like a steam bath compared to that cold rain."

Their 16-foot craft was out of scale when it meandered round the Crescent City and touched down at the foot of famed Canal Street.

They had to take the boat through the industrial locks to Lake Pontchartrain where it was placed on a trailer to be driven back to Pryor.

Atheist Has A Hard Time

STOCKTON, Kan. (AP)—"Maybe there ain't no heaven but when you go to church on Sundays and mix with such fine people who believe in it you can make your own heaven on earth."

Thus spoke a long-time resident of this quiet, friendly city of 2,000 in northwest Kansas. He was sitting on a shady street corner talking to an old crony about the coming of an atheist colony to this community.

Neither one liked the idea one bit—a view seemingly shared by many here.

"But," said the old-timer with a shrug of his shoulders, "I guess if they're gonna set up here there ain't a dang thing anybody can do about it. They got a right to believe whatever they want. Maybe it won't amount to much in the long run anyway."

That view, too, is shared by a host of Stocktonians.

Most of the folk will keep a cautious eye on Madalyn Murray, 43, a Baltimore divorcee, and her plans for setting up an atheistic information and educational center "to teach the concept of man living with man rather than man living with God."

An 80-acre tract near here already has been donated by Carl Brown, 77, Stockton atheist and nudist and a former member of the State Legislature.

Mrs. Murray recently won a Supreme Court case to have required prayers and bible reading in public schools declared unconstitutional. Brown, who owns more than 1,000 acres in these parts, helped finance her suit.

Religion is not taught in the public schools here nor is Bible reading required.

Some people here joke about the situation. Many are dead serious, fearing exposure to atheistic beliefs may have an adverse affect on their children.

Hundreds of persons, the largest number from surrounding communities, have signed petitions opposing the center.

"Atheism is ungodliness," said one petition. "We feel this will be a blight and a disgrace on the community."

Local Police Kept Busy On Saturday

Traffic violations and other minor investigations occupied local law enforcement agencies Saturday, with arrests ranging from aggravated battery charges to counts of driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages.

However, a Monroe police motorcycle patrolman sustained bruises and abrasions Saturday afternoon when he crashed into a dog on South Ninth Street while on patrol. Sammy Scott, of 1200 S. 9th St., was thrown from the cycle when a dog rushed into his path, causing the motorcycle to go out of control.

A 17-year-old Negro, Lee Andrew Grant, of 814 Louise Anne St., was booked Saturday for theft. He is being held in connection with a shoplifting incident.

The Monroe department also booked two men before dawn Saturday for DWI and reckless driving. Charles Henry Shipp, 28, of Gen. Del., Hebert, was booked at 2:15 a.m. on those two counts plus one of driving without a valid driver's license. REVISED FIGURES

College Budgets Slated This Week

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The State Division of Administration is expected early this week to receive revised budgets of $38 million for state colleges and special trade schools under the State Board of Education.

A spokesman for the Department of Education said Saturday the budgets, approved by the education board, probably would be forwarded shortly.

The revised budgets put into piecemeal effect a new professors' salary schedule, boosted the pay of college presidents and provided raises for special school superintendents and instructors.

The Education Board voted Friday to increase the pay of the nine college presidents by $2,500 to $17,500 a year, to raise the pay of special school superintendents $2,867 to $12,000 a year, and to raise special school instructors annual pay $300 across the board.

The four special schools for the deaf and blind, Negro and white, are in Baton Rouge, the special school for spastics is at Alexandria.

The Legislative Budget Committee, which earlier pegged the full professors' pay scale at $1 million cost, may have to review some of the budget revisions required by the pay boosts.

All agencies must send budget revisions to the division of administration, headed by commissioner James S. Reily.

But Sen. William Cleveland, Crowley, chairman of the Legislative Budget Committee, said his committee would be concerned with the revised budgets only if money was taken from categories other than personnel services to provide the raises.

Cleveland, reached at his Crowley office, said if money was taken from use for one stated purpose, as approved by the legislature, for use in another purpose "that's when the division of administration would seek our recommendation."

The budget committee acts as financial watchdog for the legislature while it is out of session.

The Board of Education established the new pay scale several months ago. The budget committee declined to approve the entire pay scale as submitted.

The legislature already had made its appropriations for the colleges, the committee said, and it had no authority to act for the legislature on such an overall proposal.

The committee promised to take up with each of the state agency heads, or college presidents, individually each of any proposed transfers of money from one category to another.

Some of the colleges had funds available to put into effect the full pay schedule for professors. Others indicated they would be unable to put more than part of it into effect.

The Education Board put a 50 per cent ceiling on carrying out the schedule.

The Education Department spokesman said, based on funds available, the colleges were putting into effect from 17 to 49 per cent of the schdeule.

The Education Board approved this step Friday when it okayed the revised budgets.

Boys State Group Set To Depart

Around 65 local and area high school senior boys were due to leave Monroe this morning for a nine - day stay in Baton Rouge at the American Legion sponsored Pelican Boys State.

Thirty - five of the boys leaving in this morning's group are from the Fifth Congressional District, with 16 going from Monroe schools and three from West Monroe schools.

C. B. Braun, publicity chairman for the local American Legion post, pointed out that Pelican Boys State is attended by high school boys ranging in age from 15 to 19 who have completed their 11th year of schooling. The youths spend nine days learning duties of various state, parish and city officials.

"The objective of the Boys State is to educate our youth in the duties, privileges, rights and responsibilities of American citizenship. It is wholly a plan for training in the practical mechanics of government," Braun pointed out.

He said Pelican Boys State should be thought of as being a mythical 51st state with a constitution, statutes and ordinances constructed by its citizens (the boys) to govern themselves. The boys actively campaign, with a two - party system, for various state, parish and city offices, and hold the offices they are elected to for a brief time, it was explained. It is a practicable application of our form of government for the youths. Each youth who goes is supported by an American Legion post in his district that helps to defray expenses.

Those going from Monroe include Ronald Bennett, Robert Cavendish, James B. Caverlee, Ellis R. Chadderdon, Johnny L. Elmendorff, Anthony J. Fava, Ronnie D. Factor, William E. Gore, Robert G. Holt, George W. Levert, Oscar N. McNeil, George W. Parker, James C. Ritter, Malcolm H. Smith, Jerry L. Speir and David M. Trousdale.

Attending from West Monroe were Byron Breard, Percy Ford and Bill Watkins. Others attending from this district include James R. Cook, James F. Florence, Bennie L. James, Windsor E. Pipes and Donald M. Quinn, all of Bastrop, Davy R. Daniels, Mer Rouge; Fred Parks, Oak Ridge; William W. Lynn, Bernice; William D. Manning, Spearsville; Martin A. Rights Machinery Will Be Ready For Use In Late Fall

WASHINGTON (AP) — The machinery for putting into effect the off-base civil rights program ordered for the military services by Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara is not expected to be ready before late this fall, officials indicated Saturday.

A storm is blowing up in some congressional quarters and in Southern communities over that permit base commanders, after specific Pentagon approval, to declare communities off limits to servicemen if there is continued racial discrimination.

In the first 20 days following publication of McNamara's directive July 26, 49 letters were sent to him, commenting on his directive and on the report of the report by a presidential "committee on equality in the armed forces." Of those letters, officials said 39 were "generally opposed, 10 in favor." The letters were from individual citizens and did not include congressional or other communications.

The formal directive refers to the use of sanctions against communities — the point which has raised the greater controversy— in its final section. McNamara also discussed this in a memorandum to President Kennedy.

The directive first sets forth the broad policy, saying that discriminatory practices directed against armed forces members — "all of whom lack a civilian's freedom of choice in where to live, to work, to travel and to spend his off-duty hours" — harm military effectiveness. Therefore, "all members of the Department of Defense should oppose such practices on every occasion," the directive states, then specifies that:

1. The Assistant secretary of defense for manpower—Norman S. Paul—is assigned responsibility and authority for promoting equal opportunity for members of the armed forces: he is to "provide policy guidance" and monitor the performance of the three services in carrying out the directive. This portion of the directive also set up the new office of deputy assistant secretary of defense for civil rights — to which Alfred B. Fitt was appointed from his former post in the Army's manpower office.

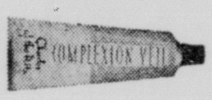

2. The military services shall issue "appropriate instructions, manuals and regulations in connection with the leadership responsibility for equal opportunity, on the off base, and containing guidance for its discharge." The services are told to set up a system for regular reporting on the situation.

3. "Every military commander has the responsibility to oppose discriminatory practices affecting his men and their dependents and to foster equal opportunity for them, not only in the areas under his immediate control, but also in nearby communities where they may live or gather in off-duty hours." Then it says that: "In discharging that responsibility a commander shall not, except with prior approval of the secretary of his military department, use the off-limits sanction in discrimination cases arising within the United States."

Public's Favor On Tax Cuts Sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Kennedy administration obviously hopes to generate a tidal wave of public opinion in the next few weeks to wash away the still strong pockets of congressional resistance to a cut in taxes.

The House Ways and Means Committee provided a solid base for such a campaign when it approved last Wednesday the general design for tax reduction and thereby gave virtual assurance that the measure will come to a vote in the House.

Once the bill is on the floor, there is little chance for any amendments which do not carry the committee's approval. On an all-or-nothing basis, administration officials believe the House will accept the package although the Senate will be free to make major changes, or shelve the whole thing.

"I have always said the Ways and Means Committee was the key," a high Treasury official said. "I think we'll stick with the committee bill when we go to the Senate. I believe it'll get through although the Senate may insist on some changes.

"Now that the man in the street can tell what form the tax reduction is likely ot take," he added, "I think there will be a lot more public pressure behind it. Now, each taxpayer can tell just about how much a cut will affect his tax."

The bill would cut tax rates an over-all 20 per cent, with the largest whacks at the bottom and top of the income scale.

For months Treasury officials have been saying the major threat to tax legislation was that it might become snagged on a civil righs filibuster. This is still their view.

The timetable of the Ways and Means Committee chairman, Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., calls for a final look at some of the language in the bill—but no substantive changes—in the week beginning Aug. 25, presentation of the measure on the floor in the week beginning Sept. 1 and a vote the following week.

Chairman Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., of the Senate Finance Committee has taken a pessimistic tone in discussing the bill's chances of passage. So have Republican leaders who argue that federal spending cuts should precede or accompany tax reduction.

As it stands, the bill now represents the thinking of Mills and his committee at least as much as that of the administration.

The adminisration's revised plan was presented to the committee by Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon last Monday. Although the Treasury formally denied reports that there had been a prior compromise between the administration and key committee Democrats, the new plan zipped through the committee in two days. Reliable informants said a prior meeting between Mills, Dillon and other Treasury officials paved the way. Dillon has made 63 trips to the Capitol since the bill was introduced in February. Other Treasury men have made almost daily trips.

The measure would provide a net reduction of almost $10.8 billion, including $8.6 billion for individuals and $2.2 billion for corporations, in two stages, beginning Jan. 1, 1964. About two-thirds of the individual tax reduction and half the corporate cut would take effect on the next year's income.

The measure started out with a "tax reduction and reform" label, even though a great number of items which the administration placed in the latter category have been tossed overboard.

President Kennedy originally proposed a tax reduction of $13.6 billion, offset by some $3.3 billion in revisions to make the net cut about $10.3 billion.

BRITISH TRAIN ROBBERY

'Army Is Enlisted In Search Of Loot

LONDON (AP)—Scotland Yard mobolized an army of weekend birdwatchers, hikers, wild flower buffs and picnickers Saturday to help in the hunt for the loot from Britain's great train robbery.

The police believe the robbers may have panicked after making off with their $7 million haul and scattered the money into the British countryside. And that's where Britons go by the thousands on their summer weekends.

Detectives checked with the British army for a lead to the mastermind of the robbery. Items originating with the army were among the dozens of articles found at lonely Leatherslade farm, to which the gang withdrew after ambushing the Glasgow-London mail train nine days ago.

The bandits obviously pulled out of the farm in haste and when police, acting on a tip, moved in last Sunday they felt the gang could not have left more than a day before.

Detectives visited several army camps in Buckinghamshire and other counties near London. Police did not disclose what articles they were checking up on. Early this week they asked the public to report sightings of an army-type truck and Land-Rovers—the British version of a jeep—as possible getaway cars.

Fingerprint and other experts have ascertained that about a dozen members of the gang used Leatherslade farm as a hideout. The bandits are believed to have numbered perhaps 20 or 30, and Detective Supt. Malcolm Fewtrell said that "not all of the gang went to the farm."

A sizeable quantity of canned food was found at the farm, 18 miles from the robbery stite at Cheddington. Fewtrell said this indicated "the bandits planned a much longer stay at the farm than they had."

With a reward of about 10 per cent posted for return of the loot, the hunt was attracting plenty of amateurs.

Most successful so far were John Ahern, 53, a clerk, and Esa Hargrave, a friend he was driving to work on his motorcycle. The engine of his motorcycle overheated in Redlands Wood near Dorking, south of London, and they stopped.

They found two suitcases stuffed with money and ran to flag down a car. "We wanted witnesses," said Mrs. Hargrave. Then they notified the police, who took it to a bank. It totaled $282,520 and brought the amount recovered to $678,179.

Target-Skirting Phone Cable Set

NEW YORK (AP) — A deep-running underground cable that spans the country, skirting potential target areas, will be completed next year, the American Telephone and Telegraph Co. announced Saturday.

The Sun said the project is designed to provide transcontinental communications which will be calamity proof, including all effects of a nuclear explosion, short of a direct hit.

Congress Might Force Action In Rail Arbitration

confidence in the cooperation of carriers and unions in working out the agreement to clear the way for a final settlement.

Wirtz, in a letter to both sides, said he is sure that the disputants will exercise "the fullest good faith" in working out "satisfactory procedural disposition" of the issues other than those slated for binding arbitration.

In his letter, addressed to Wolfe and the union presidents, Wirtz hailed the acceptance of arbitration of key issues—even though qualified by the unions—as "an act of momentous statesmanship (which) will be marked in the future as a key decision in the preservation and strengthening of collective bargaining."

As a step toward setting up the arbitration, the Committee of General Chairmen of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, AFL-CIO, authorized the union president, H. E. Gilbert, to sign an arbitration agreement.

The chairmen, who have been here since last Tuesday awaiting a possible agreement on which to vote, then left for their homes.

The lack of a clear-cut agreement for voluntary settlement of all issues through a combination of binding arbitration and direct bargaining shifted the spotlight back to Capitol Hill—where Congress is eager to be rid of the politically painful necessity of legislating to prevent or cut short a strike.

At present, two propositions are before the commerce committees of each branch. They are:

—One offered by President Kennedy under which the Interstate Commerce Commission would rule on work-rules issues during a two-year, no-strike period while the parties continued negotiations for a permanent, negotiated settlement.

The carriers approved this in hearings but the unions opposed it vigorously as compulsory arbitration by an agency they contended already is on record in favor of management on the vital manning issues.

—A substitute resolution offered by Sen. Clair Engle, D-Calif., and based on a suggestion advanced by George Meany, AFL-CIO president, with the backing of the rail unions.

ATTY. GEN. GREMILLION

Gremillion Running For Re-Election

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Atty. Gen. Jack P. F. Gremillion announced formally Saturday he will seek his third consecutive term as an independent candidate in the Dec. 7 Democratic primary.

Gremillion promised to work in cooperation with the future governor and his administration.

Gremillion recently was named the nation's outstanding attorney general by the National Association of Attoneys General. He has served as attorney general since 1956.

He said he is running on his record of accomplishments.

"Since I was first elected attorney general," he said in a speech, "I have sought to serve the people of htis state in a nonpartisan fashion, promoting the common interest of our citizens and carrying out my duties with dispatch, courtesy and efficiency."

He said Louisiana is faced with many important problems and current litigation which will continue into the next administration.

These, he said, include the civil rights issues, reapportionment, tidelands, and many types of federal encroachment on states' rights.

He said 1964-68 will be critical period for Louisiana.

"During these trying times, he said, "Louisiana will need a chief legal officer with experience to handle the most important legal problems our people will face."

During his eight years in office, he said, there has been a great increase in requests for official interpretations of state laws and in the number of lawsuits filed and tried.

"Our workload is increasing constantly," he said, "and all requests receive the prompt attention of my office."

"The people of Louisiana have learned," he added, "that there has never been a delay in taking care of their legal business during my administration."

Crawfish Seen As New Income Through State

A program featuring crawfish and their potential as a new industry in the state will be presented on Channel KLSE—TV by the promotion organization of the Louisiana Department of Agriculture and Immigration at 11 a.m. Monday, Frank McDermott, agriculture department marketing specialist, announced.

Long known as a delicacy in Louisiana, the crawfish is beginning to find its way to more and more tables outside the state. With the recent increase in cultivated ponds together with improved transportation to market, distribution of crawfish is growing, McDermott reported.

The crustaceans also are beginning to be more widely recognized as a supplementary source of income. Many Louisiana rice farmers have added to their income in the past few years by rotating their rice fields for increased production, McDermott said.

About $750,000 was added to farmers' income last year through raising crawfish in South Louisiana rice fields after harvest by reflooding the fields. The domestic amount does not take into account crawfish caught in canals, bayous and swamplands, he explained.

This crawfish raising industry also can be successfully done by northeast Louisiana farmers provided soil and water are of a suitable type, the marketing specialist declared.

As production and distribution grow, the Louisiana crawfish may someday become a gourmet's delight throughout the North American continent, rivaling the crab and famous Maine lobster, McDermott said.

The television will give crawfish recipes used by South Louisianans and also will feature McDermott and Carl H. Thomas, biologist of the U. S. Department of Agriculture and Soil Conservation Service.

When Frank Bruscato of Monroe is presented his master's degree in chemistry at U. of Mississippi at Oxford today, Nick Bruscato and other members of the family will be there to see him.

"Frankie", a graduate of Northeast Louisiana State, where he majored in chemistry, and Pasadena City College (a junior college) where he majored in music, once considered a career as a racehorse jockey and spent a year under the famed trainer, Tennessee Wright, with the T. A. Grissom Stables at Lexington, Ky., before he left the saddle because he was "overweight", and then spent six months in the army in Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., before entering Northeast State.

Mrs. Charls Johnson, 312 Medorah Dr., West Monroe, said the items were found by two neighborhood boys, Buddy Williamson and Henry Wood, as they were out bike-riding Saturday afternoon on the road. The owner of the glasses and purse can claim the items after proper identification by contacting Mrs. Johnson at FA 5-9028.

A police spokesman said clubs were used when the crowd disobeyed orders to disperse. The spokesman said all demonstrations need police permission and the demonstrators had none.

The crowd was marching away from the wall toward the heart of West Berlin when police moved in. The police action reflected a new policy of cracking down hard on demonstrators to prevent disorder.

A crowd of 50 youths also marched down the Kurfuerstendamm, West Berlin's main street shouting "freedom for the zone."

The U.S. Army sent an alert squad of 10 combat clad soldiers to Checkpoint Charlie and perhaps as many as 1,000 West Berlin police stood guard nearby.

Final Week Photos Come In A Deluge

The handsome, soft-eyed colt of a registered Arabian champion show horse, IBN Skorage, owned by D. E. Lester Jr. of Natchitoches, is the subject matter in the first place winner in Class D, animal life and pets. The picture was taken by Syl Breard, 400 Eason Place, Monroe, who also had the third place winner in Class C for award money totalling $7. He previously won three firsts and one second place.

His third place Class C picture is captioned, "Ferry Boat," and shows a ferry boat at mid-stream. On the stream banks are moss-draped trees.

L. A. Henderson, 700 Hilton St., Monroe, had second place winners in Classes C and D, and third place in Class B, for $8 in prize money. In previous weeks he won two firsts, two seconds, and four thirds. Henderson's winners depict, in Class B, "Don't Touch," a cactus on the Arizona desert being visually examined by his wife; Class C, "Desert Oasis," scene recorded in Arizona in May of this year, shows windmill on desolate stretch of land which has sparse vegetation and is quite arid in appearance. A spot in the background which appears to be water, is actually sand. The sky is filled with fleecy clouds; Class D, "Drifting," beautifully plumed white duck drifting sleepily in lagoon.

Other winners, with $3 going to second place and $2 to third.

Class A, second place, "Whisper My Secret To Me," attractive baby holding onto dog and with head close to the canine's ear as if whispering. Taken by Carroll R. Rountree, 2411 North 9th St., West Monroe, who previously won a first and two second places. Third place, "Her First 'Grown Up' Bathing Suit," small girl in bathing suit standing before mirror. Her reflection can be seen clearly in mirror. Taken by Madge Kelly, P.O. Box 4460, Monroe, who previously won a third place award.

Class D, third place, "Mother and Son," Hereford type cow and calf together in pasture, taken by Richard G. Lowery, Haile, who previously won a first, two seconds, and two thirds.

The category drawing the most entries during the contest was that of babies and children. However, last week, Class D, animals and pets, had the largest number of entries, with Class C, scenes and table tops ranking next, and Class A in third place. This week, scenes and tabletops ranked first, and Class A second in volume of entries. Class B, teneager or adult activities, drew the fewest entries in the competition.

In a few days, the amateur photographers whose pictures are being considered as possible grand prize winners will be contacted to see if negatives are available, since these must be sent with entries in the national contest. Various details of signing release forms and entry forms will also be worked out prior to announcing grand prize winners.

Contest judges were pleased with the unusual amount of good pictures submitted in the contest, and said that the winning pictures here compared very favorably with those in other cities where similar contests were conducted.

Meredith Probably Slated

OXFORD, Miss. (AP)—Barring unforeseen developments, James H. Meredith will receive his bachelor's degree today from the University of Mississippi.

Meredith, 30, a slightly built Negro from Kosciusko, Miss., became the first known member of his race to attend the 115-year-old university last fall when he was enrolled under force of federal arms.

Gov. Ross Barnett, who last fall tried repeatedly to block Meredith's admission, attempted last week to prevent Meredith from receiving a degree.

But the State College Board, ruling body of Mississippi's public institutions of higher learning, voted 6-5 to allow Meredith to receive his diploma.

At issue was a statement Meredith issued last June after a sniper assassinated Negro leader Medgar W. Evers at Jackson, Miss.

Meredith called for a "general boycott of everything possible by Negroes" as a protest against the racial situation in Mississippi.

"A Negro's life is not worth the air it takes to keep it alive in Mississippi," he said.

Barnett, in seeking to stop Meredith's graduation, contended the statement violated a university rule against inflamatory pronouncements.

Members of the State College Board said they feared Ole Miss would lose its accredition if it denied Meredith a degree because of his statement.

The Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, the accrediting agency, has had the Ole Miss situation under review since last fall—considering the possibility of undue political influence.

Even after the board refused to stop Meredith's graduation, one possible barrier remained: Meredith's grades.

They have been a closely guarded secret, but he failed one course last fall—algebra—and reportedly was having trouble with a trigonometry course in summer school.

The barrier evaporated, however, when the university faculty met Saturday and approved the awarding of his degree.

The faculty group didn't specify what kind of grades Meredith made, but simply approved his graduation. A source close to the faculty said there was no discussion when Meredith's degree application came up.

Although the faculty group did not say so, the approval of Meredith's degree application would indicate he passed the trigonometry course.

The entire Meredith case—from the riot that preceeded his enrollment last fall to his expected graduation—has become a major issue in Mississippi's gubernatoria campaign.

Lt. Gov. Paul B. Johnson Jr., a candidate for governor, attacked the college board decision. Johnson, like Barnett, has been charged with criminal contempt by a federal appeals court for his part in trying to prevent Meredith's enrollment at the university.

Johnson's opponent in the second Democratic primary Aug. 27, former Gov. J. P. Coleman, said Saturday night the lieutenant governor was trying to use Meredith to be elected governor.

"My opponent has based his entire campaign on the stand he said he took at Ole Miss., Coleman said. "But his actions were partially responsible for giving the federal government an excuse to put troops and marshals in the state."

The graduation exercises will see about 440 students receive degrees. Meredith is gaining a bachelor of arts degree in political science.

The commencement also is noteworthy in that Ole Miss will award degrees for the first time to two Roman Catholic nuns. They are Sister Mary Michaelene Nylen, of Grand Rapids, Mich., who gets a B.A. in chemistry; and Sister Mary Tanchita, of Jackson, Miss., a doctor of education in educational administration.

Cold Drug Ban Is Asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U. S. Food and Drug Administration proposed Saturday a ban on some 50 to 75 prescription cold cure drugs containing antibiotics.

A spokesman said a seven-man panel of outside medical experts had concluded that there is no evidence that these antibiotics have any value in treating the common cold or its side effects.

In a notice in the Federal Register on Saturday the FDA announced a 30 - day period during which it will receive comments on the proposal.

The action was taken under authority of the 1962 amendments to the Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act, which extended FDA control over most antibiotics.

Earlier this week, it was announced that the FDA had ordered drug manufacturers to prove their claims for antibiotics in a wide variety of compounds such as throat lozenges, nose drops and sprays, which in general can be bought without prescriptions.

Saturday's proposal affects similar prescription products where antibiotics are used in combination with cold remedies.

He said the seven - man panel of experts, headed by Dr. Harry Dowling of the University of Illinois School of Medicine, had concluded.

1. "There is no acceptable evidence that any antimicrobial agent —such as antibiotics — is of any value in the treatment of the common cold or any other upper respiratory viral infection."

2. "Antimicrobial agents are of no value in preventing bacterial complications in patients with the common cold who are otherwise healthy and therefore should not be used."

3. "The antibiotics in a drug which includes analgesics, antihistamines and possibly decongestants would have no effect on the cold itself and there is insufficient clinical evidence to show that it would be of value in the prevention of complicating infection of the cold. The symptomatic relief that may be provided by the other ingredients of such a preparation is no justification for any such product to contain an antimicrobial agent."

Other members of the panel were: Dr. Paul Beeson, Yale University School of Medicine: Dr. Maxwell Finland, Harvard University School of Medicine; Dr. William Jordan, University of Virginia School of Medicine: Dr. Edwin D. Kilbourne, Cornell University School of Medicine, and Dr. Carl Schmidt, University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine.

MOBILE CLASSROOMS

Court Considered In Rights Battle

CHICAGO (UPI) — Civil rights groups Saturday considered court action in the flaming dispute over use of mobile classrooms in predominately Negro neighborhoods on Chicago's South Side.

State Rep. Charles F. Armstrong, a Chicago Democrat, said integrationists would use a new state law sponsored by him to seek an injunction against the Chicago Board of Education.

Armstrong's law, which went into effect July 1, forbids "erecting, purchasing or otherwise acquiring buildings for school purposes . . . in such a manner as to promote segregation and separation of children in public schools because of color, race or nationality."

Armstrong said "I think the mobile classrooms violate this law."

Civil rights demonstrators the past two weeks demonstrated at the construction site of mobile classrooms. Although more than 160 persons were arrested, and several persons, including policemen, were injured, the school board has refused to halt the construction.

The demonstrators insist the 800 children who would use the mobile units could attend nearby predominately white schools until a new school is built in the Negro neighborhood.

Although the school board refused to halt the construction, it did vote to take a head count of students in public schools to determine the number of whites and Negroes at each school.

Friday, usually - calm Mayor Richard Daley lashed out at demonstators who picketed the home of school board President Clair M. Roddewig, whose wife was ill at the time.

Daley also said he has been subjected to pressure from many persons and groups during his political career "and no group will pressure me into doing anything I think would be unfair and unreasonable to all the people of Chicago."

In other racial developments:

—Negro leaders in East St. Louis, Ill., indicated satisfaction with a negotiated settlement between the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) and city banks and savings and loans associations which provides for the hiring of Negroes by the institutions.

But Virgil Calvert, a justice of the peace, who is a leader of a citizen's civil rights committee, said renewed agitation would begin Monday to place more Negroes in city jobs. And Negro leaders planned to meet with area grocery firms and the school board to question hiring practices and to inquire into the Board of Education's policy of distributing new equipment throughout the school system.

—Seven Negro teenagers were found guilty in Richmond, Va., Saturday on charges of trespassing. The youths were arrested during a sit-in at a downtown restaurant Friday night. They were fined $25 each.

—In New York City, Peter J. Brennan, head of the City Building and Construction Trades Council, made a charge of racial discrimination in reverse Friday. Brennan said it would be unfair to "jump" Negro and Puerto Rican applicants over whites on waiting lists for apprentice jobs. The state has demanded that one Negro applicant be accepted as an apprentice by a sheet metal workers local, but union officials have refused to place him ahead of 100 white applicants already on the list.

—Negro author James Baldwin announced in a Paris, France, newspaper that he would be available at a Paris address Saturday to discuss the Aug. 28 civil rights "march of Washington" to Americans and interested Frenchmen.

PROUD OF PROGRAM

Guidance Work At NLSC Cited

Northeast Louisiana State College is "proud of its intensive guidance and testing program" for entering undergraduates, Dr. Fred J. Vogel, director of student services, said Saturday.

"We feel that Northeast freshmen get the best career guidance possible," he declared.

Taking the battery of tests is an entrance requirement at Northeast and college officials use every resource available to make the results as meaningful as possible.

The present testing series, under supervision of H. R. Sigler, director of testing and guidance at NLSC, began in March and will conclude on the opening day of freshman orientation activities. A record number of new students have been tested already and more are expected on the two testing dates yet to come, Aug. 3 and Sept. 16.

"More than 95 per cent of Northeast's new students for the coming semester have already been tested," Dr. Vogel said. "Our sincere appreciation goes to the high school officials throughout the state who cooperated in making this effort possible."

Northeast testing teams went to the students with the testing program during the spring. Sites of the tests given on high school campuses included Istrouma in Baton Rouge, Fortier in New Orleans, Bolton in Alexandria, Byrd in Shreveport, Mer Rouge, Ferriday, Bastrop, Lake Providence, Winnsboro, Delhi, Oak Grove, Jena, Tallulah, West Monroe, Ouachita Parish in Monroe, Farmerville, and Neville in Monroe.

During the summer other tests have been administered on the campus here.

In addition to revealing individual aptitudes, the test series have brought many parents to the campus with their children. Each student tested is brought back to the campus for an interpretation of his test. Consequently, they and their parents have come to know college officials and to learn what test results mean in terms of curriculum selection and career choices.

"It is all-important that we do our utmost to help the entering student get off to a good start," Dean Vogel emphasized. And continuing research is being conducted to determine achievements in this respect.

Jackie's Sis Is Star Of 'Coming Out'

The introduction to Newport society of Janet, 18, half-sister of First Lady Jacqueline Kennedy, touched off a weekend of partying here. The biggest party of all, was the Venetian Ball, with 880 to 1,000 guests invited to dance until dawn in honor of Janet at the 75-acre Hammersmith Farm, home of her parents, Mr. & Mrs. Hugh D. Auchincloss of Washington.

The rambling, gray-shingled 19th century Victorian summer home on Narragansett Bay was a beehive of activity as New York decorators and caterers culminated months of planning to give it the flavor of Venice, the city of gondolas, music and romance.

The gay decor included two huge marques with Venetian canvas tops—one for dancing and one for dining—set up on the lawn overlooking the water.

The musicians were provided with the costumes of gondoliers and told to emphasize sentimental Italian tunes. All of the young girls received a golden mask on a stick and their escorts were given authentic straw hats, worn by gondoliers in Venice and imported from there especially for the ball.

A 40-foot gondola, with red and black velvet trimmings, provided the bandstand background for Meyer Davis and his orchestra. Davis had played Friday night for the Newport coming-out Blue and Silver Ball of Janet's close friend, Josephine Pearson Taylor, Camden, S.C.

The Auchincloss' invited some 300 guests to dinner first and a list that reportedly came close to 1,000 for the ball beginning at 11 p.m. and traditionally continuing until dawn—with pancakes and scrambled eggs featured at the buffet tables.

A who's who of society from Newport, Washington, Boston and Philadelphia gathered for the event, including ambassadors and Janet's two roommates from Miss Porter's exclusive boarding school at Farmington, Conn.

As house guests and sharing the excitement with Janet were her two 18-year-old schoolmates, Susan Clark, whose own debut is next Saturday at the home of her parents, Mr. & Mrs. Stephen C. Clark, Cooperstown, N.Y., and Patricia Starr, daughter of the Ogden Starrs, Far Hills, N.J., and Antigua, British West Indies.

She had her hair done specially in a high pouf so she could wear a circlet of lilies of the valley in it.

Together with her mother, who picked a yellow silk gown embroidered with white beads for the occasion, and her stock broker-father, in formal attire, a receiving line was arranged in front of a floral-decked fireplace in the downstairs sitting room.

The debutante party for Janet, long on the social celandar, was held despite the tragedy of the death of President and Mrs. Kennedy's infant son, Patrick Bouvier Kennedy, eight days ago. The Kennedys personally requested that the party go on as planned and they arranged to send a bouquet to Janet—something she was not told about in advance.

Mrs. Kennedy, now recuperating at her Squaw Island summer home, near Hyannis Port, Mass., on Cape Cod, had been a debutante here in Newport, too.

Mrs. Auchincloss is the mother of Mrs. Kennedy.

New Registration Procedures Easier

New procedures will greatly simplify fall registration at Northeast Louisiana State College, Registrar Lake Oxford has announced.

Forms to be completed by students will be reduced to half the number used in previous years. And each student will complete only one class schedule card, as compared to four in the past.

Most returning students have already taken the initial step toward enjoyment of the new simplified system by indicating to the registrar's office their intent to re-enroll this fall, Dr. Oxford said. As a result, their individual registration packets will be ready for them when they show up for registration.

"This is highly important to the success of our new system," Oxford emphasized. "All who plan to enroll in the fall who have not already advised us of their intention to enroll should do so as soon as possible to avoid unnecessary delays during registration."

MALES ONLY

Another fall registration change affects only male students registered for Selective Service. "If you fall into this category we will need your Selective Service number and the address of your local Selective Service board," he added.

This is the result of a Selective Service policy change, calling for colleges to notify local boards of students' eligibility for deferment.

Registration for the fall term at Northeast will be held on Sept. 18-19. Participants in freshman orientation will arrive on Sunday, Sept. 15. Dormitories will open for upperclassmen on Sept. 17.

Governors' Meet Could Start Smoke

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (UPI) — Indications are the annual Southern Governors Conference opening here Sunday will produce considerable smoke but little fire on the touchy issue of civil rights.

With such hard-line segregationists as Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama and Gov. Ross Barnett of Mississippi in attendance there is bound to be some bombastics over the subject, but the more liberal governors — by Southern standards — will call the official shots.

Passage of any resolution by the conference, which traditionally tip-toes around the race issues, will require a three-fourths majority. With such relative-moderates as North Carolina's Terry Sanford, West Virginia's W. W. Barron and Kentucky's Bert Combs in the majority, this segment could easily block any move not to their liking.

This means that any racial pyrotechnics coming out of the meeting likely will be the result of statements made by various governors off the conference floor, rather than any official action by the group.

The first line of defense among the "moderate" majority of the attending 15 governors of Dixie and border states will be the resolutions committee — a group hand-picked by Chairman Orval E. Faubus of Arkansas.

It would take a two-thirds vote of all the governors, or 10 votes, to force a resolution out of the committee, with 12 votes still needed for final adoption.

Wallace has announced plans to submit five resolutions condemning use of federal troops to enforce school desegregation orders, the Kennedy administration's civil rights program and the Aug. 28 civil rights march on Washington.

The Alabama chief executive, attending his first Southern Governors Conference, will probably wait to sound out sentiment among his colleagues before deciding how far to press his campaign.

All of the governors except Henry Bellmon of Oklahoma are Democrats, and thus there will be no repetition of the partisan squabble over civil rights which marked the national governors conference at Miami Beach last month.

Faubus' arrival at conference headquarters in the Greenbriar resort was delayed for several hours as a result of a highway accident Friday night involving his car. He was not injured.

Faubus will not preside at a formal meeting until the opening general session Monday. Sunday's program includes only a briefing and planning session for governors' aides, and a skeet shoot and reception.

Other states represented at the meeting, by delegations ranging from 6 to 24 persons, include Delaware, Tennessee, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, South Carolina, Texas and Virginia. Only Maryland and Missouri among member states will not be represented by their chief executives.

Floor action on civil rights—if there is any — will not come until the closing business session Wednesday morning when the resolutions committee will report. New officers also will be elected at that meeting.

Six Persons Die In Auto Crash

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—Six of seven persons in a car and pickup truck died Saturday when the vehicles met headon on a straight, level stretch of road and burst into flames.

The crash occurred just before noon on Highway 13 half a mile south of Nendota Heights, a suburb south of St. Paul.

Sole survivor was Jeanette A. Johnson, 44, Stillwater, Minn., who was in critical condition with burns and leg injuries. She was alone in the truck.

Killed in the car were four members of a Bedford, Ohio, family and their vacation hosts from Savage, Minn. The victims were Robert M. Ely, 45; Christine L. Ely, 41, his wife; Richard Ely, 8, heir son; Donna Ely, 14, their daughter; Gerald A. McKenney, 44, Savage, the driver, and Verlie McKenney, 39, his wife and sister of Mrs. Ely.

The highway patrol said the Ely family had arrived Friday night. The two families were driving to nearby White Bear Lake, Minn., to visit relatives.

Two Americans Are Killed In Viet Nam Crash

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (UPI) —Two American fliers and a South Vietnamese crewman were reported killed when a U.S. B26 bomber slammed into a mountainside during a combat mission against Communist guerrillas Friday, military sources said Saturday.

The two Americans, an Air Force captain and a first lieutenant, apparently became the 103rd and 104th Americans to die in Viet Nam since the American aid program to South Viet Nam began in 1961.

Of the 102 others who lost their lives 76 were killed either in battle action or in what the Defense Department called "combat associated accidents." The others died from automobile accidents, natural causes or suicides.

You Can't Chase Them From Earth

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Prostitutes are people and can't be banished from the earth, Municipal Court Judge Fred L. Donnally said Friday in dismissing such a charge against a 21-year-old girl.

The judge attached the constitutionality of a city ordinance banning known prostitutes from the city. The girl was one of the first persons arrested last April under the then new city ordinance.

The judge said the girl was merely standing on a street when arrested.

Gambling Out If Elected, Says Coleman

By DUDLEY LEHEW
Associated Press Staff Writer

Former Gov. J. P. Coleman wired editor E. P. Wilkes of the Gulfport Daily Herald Saturday gambling" would be totally stamped out" if he was elected governor.

Coleman sent the wire after the newspaper charged in an editorial Coleman and Lt. Gov. Paul Johnson were neglecting state issues in the campaign.

The major issue has been the Kennedy administration.

Coleman said he agrees "state issues should have been given much more consideration by the candidates for governor."

The Ackerman attorney said he "tried to pitch my campaign on that basis but as you know was prevented from doing so.

"For example, another newspaper in the state (The Clarion Ledger) has persisted in the myth that Kennedy's name is on the gubernatorial ballot, which it is not," Coleman said.

Johnson told audiences at Eupora and Louisville Saturday Coleman has consistently placed the national Democratic Party loyalty above the interests of the state of Mississippi.

Johnson, who scheduled a talk in Biloxi Saturday night, said Coleman, when faced with a choice of serving the best interests of the party or those of his state, "has taken the party every time."

Coleman told Wilkes he would halt gambling and "the operators know this and I would think that everyone should know that they are fighting me actively at this time."

The lieutenant governor promised voters his election would insure the economic and industrial progress of the state and would "be expanded and carried on without upheaval, slowdown or turmoil."

The Daily Herald said "too much time has been devoted to the Kennedys.

"The Kennedys are not the only issues in this race and the people deserve to hear from the two runoff candidates for the governorship on state issues."

"The people are entitled to know the programs of the two candidates with reference to the teaching profession and the schools, industry, old age benefits and welfare, taxation and budgets, agriculture, tourism and law enforcement."

The Daily Herald has not endorsed any candidate for governor.

FORMER KOREAN Premier Song Yo-Chan is jubilant as he leaves prison in Seoul Saturday. He was released pending trial on various charges, including ordering the summary execution of a subordinate army officer and two enlisted men when he commanded a divisyion in the Korean war and or raping and executing a Communist woman spy caught in the war. Korean General Released From Prison

SEOUL, Korea (UPI) —Retired Lt. Gen. Song (Tiger) Yo Chan was released from prison Saturday, a week after he was jailed for criticizing the ruling military junta and one day after he was charged with rape and murder.

Song was released from Mapo Prison after the Seoul District Criminal Court granted a writ of habeas corpus. Before his release he was questioned for several hours by Korea's Central Intelligence Agency.

As he walked out of the prison gates he waved a victory sign with his fingers to the waiting crowd and his family and said, "I am sorry that I caused worry to the people."

Song was arrested by the CIA last Sunday three days after he published an open letter criticizing Gen. Park Chung Hee, head of the ruling junta, for seeking to hang onto power.

Park announced Friday night he will run for president in the Oct. 15 elections and predicted he will win.

Saturday about 15,000 persons gathered in Seoul in an anti-government rally to hear opposition politicians attack the junta for its policies regarding Japan and its intentions to hang onto power.

The four-hour rally was jointly sponsored by five opposition parties as a prelude to a full-scale election campaign against Park.

There were no disturbances but police stood by in case. The meeting ended when rain started falling.

Song was charged formally with the execution of a native army officer who disobeyed orders during the Korean War and for the shooting of student rioters during the 1960 revolution. At a hearing Friday the government charged that he raped and murdered a Communist woman guerrilla captured during the war.

Song argued, however, that the real reason for his arrest was his publication of an "open letter" criticizing Park.

Rusk Will Take Vacation Soon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk will take a vacation next week.

The State Department press office said he will spend the time in Washington and New York, and possibly a day or so at Camp David, Md., the presidential retreat in the Catoctin Mountains north of Washington.

STUDENTS, EDUCATORS

Buddhists, Diem Struggle Widens

HUE, South Viet Nam (AP)—Educators and students of Hue University were caught up Saturday in cross-currents of the struggle between Buddhist leaders and the government of President Ngo Dinh Diem, a Roman Catholic.

The government dismisssed the university's rector, the Rev. Cao Van Luan. He is a Roman Catholic reputed to have taken a moderate attitude toward student demonstrations backing Buddhist calls for increased religious freedom and social justice.

About 200 of the university's 2,800 students took to the streets in a demonstration on Father Luan's behalf. They marched with banners declaring they will boycott classes unless he is reinstated.

Police broke up the demonstration. One student got cut on a cheek. He said a policeman hit him with a bayonet.

A group of Hue University professors called at the U.S. consulate with an open letter stating that 40 faculty members of the six-year-old institution would resign.

The letter, addressed to "students of the nations of the world," said the 40 were deeply moved by the suicide by fire of two Buddhist monks in Hue and "by the indifference the Vietnamese government has shown in the last 3½ months, particularly the replacement of the rector."

Father Luan had been the university's rector since its inception in 1957. He is reported to have left for Da Nang, on the South China Sea 60 miles southeast of Hue.

The reason for his dismissal was not announced.

The Roman Catholic archbishop of Hue, the Most Rev. Ngo Dinh Thuc, is a brother of the president.

Students seeking return of Father Luan had a talk with a government delegate, Nguyen Xuan Khoung, at the latter's home. Khoung ordered police and newsmen away, but was reported to have told the students he will go to Saigon, 400 miles south of Hue, to see what can be done.

Buddhist leaders are trying to get international intervention for their cause, already marked by five ritual suicides. They have cabled pleas to President Kennedy, U.N. Secretary-General U Thant and Buddhist organizations to take a hand, saying further sacrifices and bloodshed are in prospect.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy will have a hand in rollout ceremonies for the biggest military transport plane to be produced in this country, the C41. The first of the giant jets comes out of a factory in Marietta, Ga., next Thursday.

The Pentagaon announced Saturday that Kennedy would speak by closed circuit television from Washington that day to workers and guests at the Lockheed plant, where the "Starlifter" C141s button opening a hangar door at Dobbins Air Force Base from which the plane will be rolled onto the ramp.

SEEK MISSING PLANE

YOKOHAMA, Japan (UPI) — A massive search was underway Saturday for a DeHaviland Helon plane which disappeared with 19 persons aboard on a flight from Hachijo Island to Yokohama. The plane, chartered by a group of Japanese businessmen, carried 16 passengers and a crew of three.

The Season Of Misery Arrives

It's bad enough to have hay fever, but psychologically the situation is made even worse because many nonsufferers think it is something of a joke. Millions of Americans know to their sorrow — especially at this time of the year — how wretched someone can feel when he is sneezing his head off with hay fever. This article sums up the red eye — stuffy nose situation and tells what is being done about it.

By J. W. DAVIS
Associated Press Staff Writer

A time of great misery has come once more to America.

It is the height of the hay fever season, when millions suffer red eyes that itch and stuffy noses that run and sneeze.

There is some relief at hand — medicines, air conditioning, mountain trips and ocean cruises can help — but hay fever is still rampaging.

There is now a National Allergy Month, timed to coincide with the high mark of the hay fever onslaught, Aug. 15-Sept. 15.

MONTH PROCLAIMED

The month was proclaimed by the Allergy Foundation of America, with headquarters in New York City, a national voluntary health agency established to unite the public, the medical profession, research scientists and public health workers in a campaign against allergic diseases.

Hay fever is the big thing, numerically, in the allergy army.

It is an inflammation of the eyes and nasal passages caused by sensitivity to some particular pollen, dust or other substance.

Monroe Morning World
SUNDAY FEATURES
Monroe, La., August 18, 1963 1-B
Editorial — Spotlight — Sports

Hay fever can strike in the spring or summer but fall hay fever, usually due to ragweed pollen, is the most widespread.

Surveys by the United States Public Health Service indicate that more than eight million Americans suffer from hay fever and asthma. Asthma is a complication of hay fever.

COMPLICATIONS

The allergy foundation says:

"Hay fever can produce serious complications; nasal polyps and infections of the ears, nose, throat or sinuses are common. One in three hay fever sufferers develop asthma, which may lead to permanent bronchial trouble, and damage to the lungs and heart, crippling the victim permanently.

"The severity of hay fever depends on the amount of pollen in the air and a person's degree of sensitivity.

On a cool, cloudy, windless or rainy day, the average sufferer may have a few symptoms. Then the weather may become hot, dry, sunny and windy, raising invisible clouds of pollen or molds, and his hay fever will return in full force. Some people are susceptible to cold or dampness; their hay fever may become worse on cool or rainy days."

For some reason, there are people who look upon hay fever as sort of a joke. This may be because even a pretty girl or a handsome man looks ridiculous while sneezing, and a homely person looks worse.

The grimness of the situation, however, is underlined by this fact: In the prevalence of chronic diseases, hay fever and asthma are outranked only by heart disease, cancer and arthritis, or rheumatism.

ALLERGY DEVELOPS

Allergy can develop at any age but children 5, 10 or 15 years of age are more apt to develop allergies than persons in later life.

Allergic disorders themselves are seldom fateful, but the statistics indicate that about 9,000 persons die in the United States each year with asthma as a contributing cause.

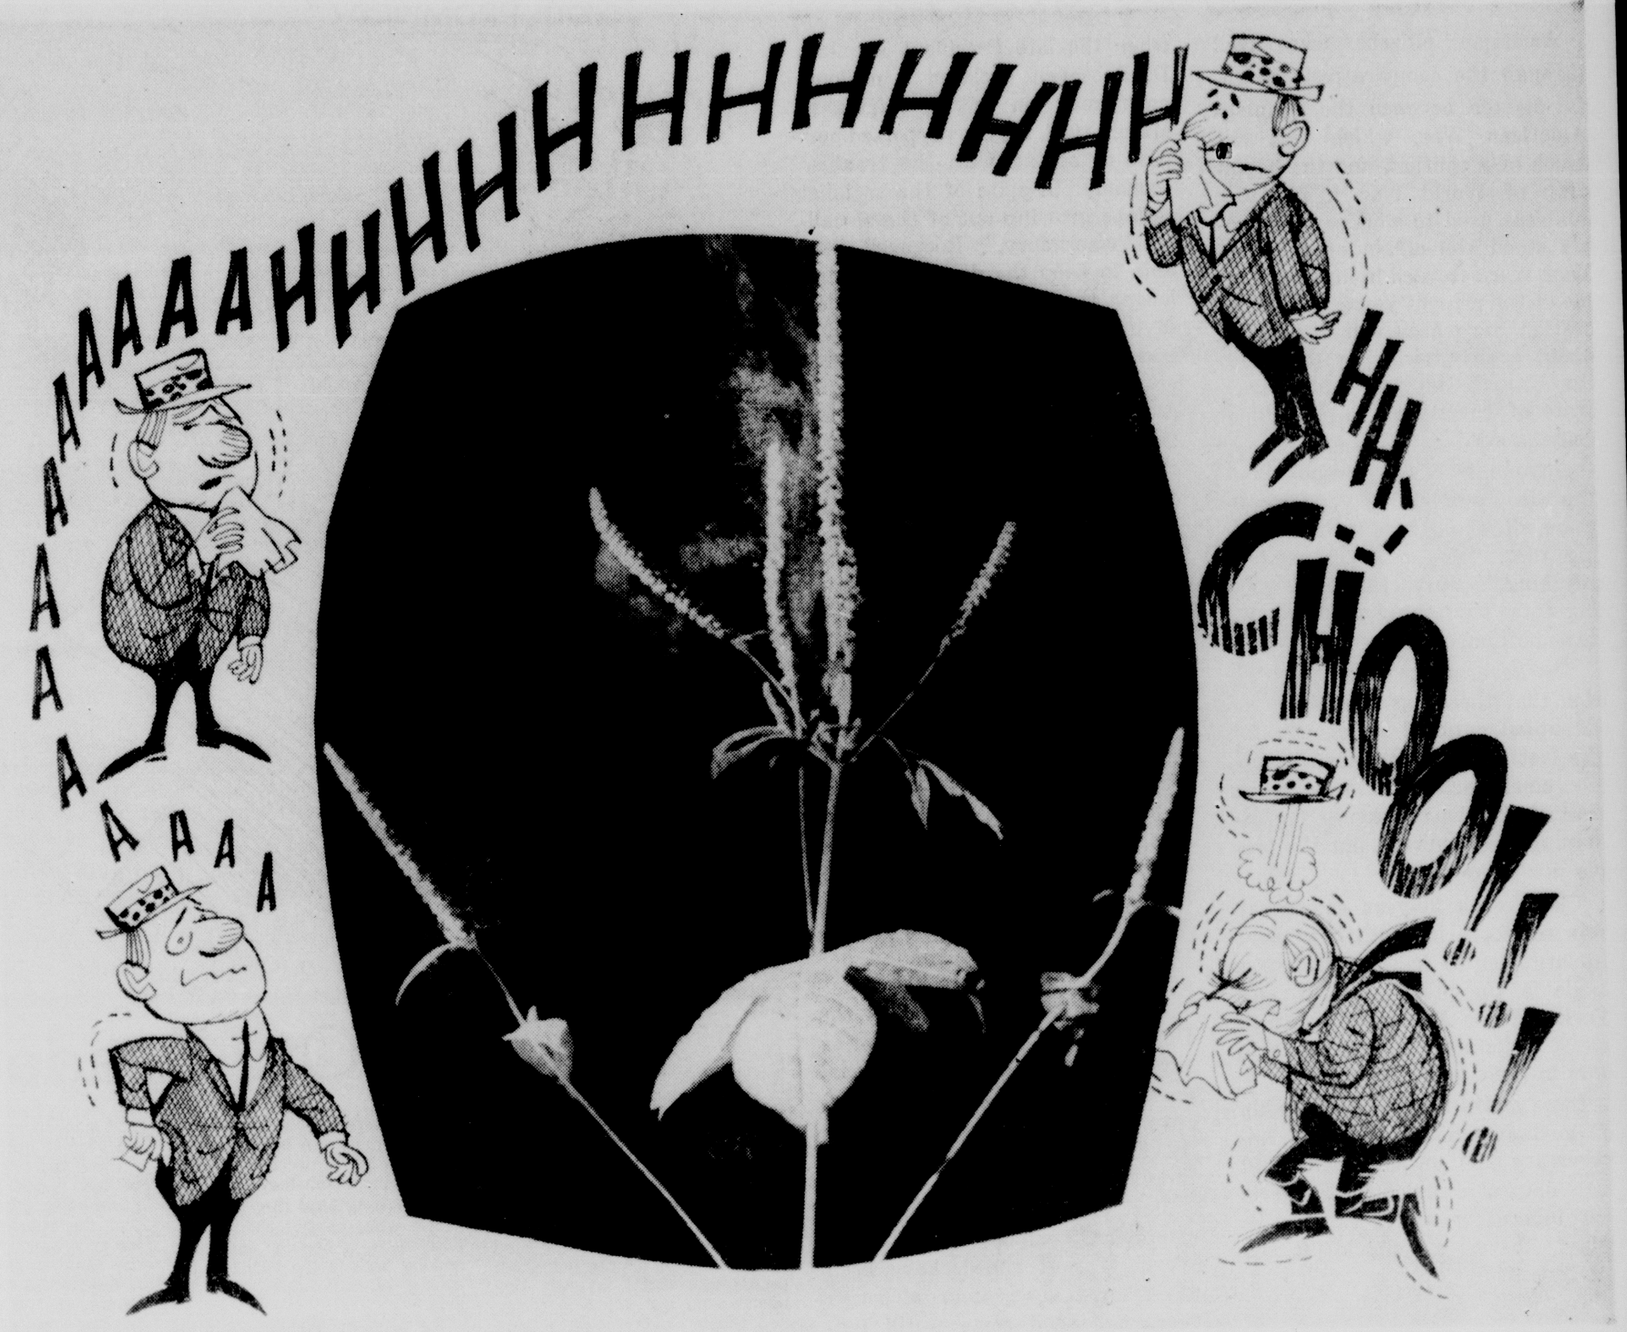

What can be done to prevent or ease hay fever? Answers, from the Public Health Service and the allergy foundation, include:

Your doctor, through patient detective work, may determine just what allergens are causing your trouble. Allergens are the substances which develop the painful sensitivity; they can be pollens, molds, dust, animal skin or hair, feathers, some foods, etc.

Once identified, the offending substances must be removed or evaded as completely as possible. You might have to avoid drives in the country during the pollen season. You might have to give away your dog.

INJECTIONS GIVEN

It may help much to remove pollens from the air, particularly in your sleeping room. Your doctor may recommend an air filter, perhaps in an air conditioning unit, or an electric pollen remover. The air conditioner should maintain a temperature about 12 degrees lower than the outside temperature.

A GIANT RAGWEED sheds pollen in the wind. The wind carries the pollen to humans who are allergic to it, bringing on red eyes, stuffy noses and sneezing. This is hay fever. It can strike in spring, summer or fall, but the ragweed shedding period from mid-August until the first frost is the worst time. There are some people who look upon hay fever as a joke, perhaps because even a pretty girl looks ridiculous while sneezing, but it's no joke to the sufferer. (AP Newsfeatures Photo)

A series of shots will often reduce the sensitivity and prevent further attacks for some time. Usually the injections must be given each year, a few days apart during the months before the hay fever season. Sometimes they can be given during an attack.

Medicines may be prescribed for use as drops in the eyes or nose, as sprays or as pills or capsules. The allergy foundation reports great advances being made in the development of antihistamines, bronchodilators and the harmones.

CAUSE DROWSINESS

Antihistamines can cause drowsiness, a point to consider when the patient has to drive a car or work around machinery, for instance.

The foundation describes as a possibly important advance the injection. However, it said much remains to be learned about the wisdom of this treatment, in addition to its obvious convenience.

In the one-shot method, the allergen is injected in an oil emulsion, such as mineral oil, so that the offending particles are fed slowly into the system. This is a form of immunization.

On the point of trying to run away from the pollen that causes hay fever, the health service suggests that a permanent change of location should be undertaken only on medical advice.

ESCAPE, ENCOUNTER

"You might escape one kind of pollen only to encounter another to which you are sensitive," it said.

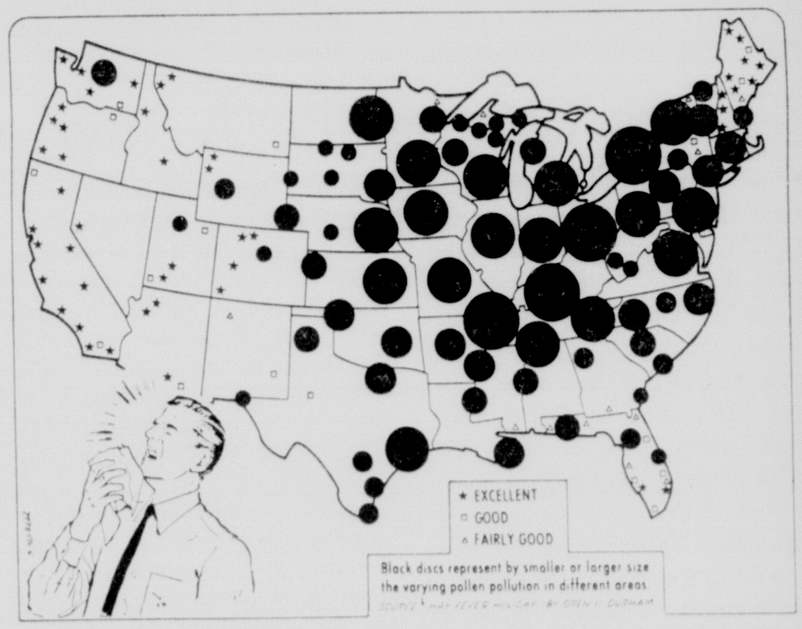

The health service recommends, to victims who are looking for information about the kinds and amounts of pollen in various U.S. areas, a brochure written by O. C. Durham and called "Hay Fever Holiday."

The brochure is available from the American Academy of Allergy, 756 North Milwaukee St., Milwaukee 2, Wis.

Durham has been evaluating hay fever resort areas since the 1930s. The latest 1961 edition of "Hay Fever Holiday" groups scores of communities, state by state, according to their desirability as a place of refuge for hay fever sufferers.

FOUR RATINGS

The ratings are in four stages: excellent, good, fairly good and not recommended. Excellent ratings are given for parts of Arizona, California, Colorado, Florida, Hawaii, Idaho, Maine, Michigan, Montana, New Hampshire, New York, Utah and Washington plus Canada.

The brochure notes there is a tendency for good refuges to deteriorate in quality after they become popular and that in addition to the communities it lists, there are doubtless 10 times as many where no tests have been made that are just as good as the ones that have been named.

And if you have the money and time, the allergy foundation advises you can always leave the country.

"An ocean voyage can remove you from all pollens and a trip abroad from ragweed, which grows largely in North America."

Convicts Hold Outside Jobs While Serving Sentences

By PHIL CORNER

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—On the job, Jesse Ennis looks like any other $50-a-week service station attendant. He pumps gas, checks oil, cleans windshields.

His blue denim company uniform and western-style black boots hide the fact he is a convict, serving three to five years for breaking and entering.

Ennis, 22, is one of more than 560 prisoners enrolled in North Carolina's rehabilitation program called Work Release.

BOLD CONTRAST

He holds an outside job during working hours and spends his off-duty time in confinement. His earnings pay his way through prison, support his wife and three young children and provide him a nest egg for use when he is freed.

Work Release is the showcase item in a state prison reform program which, in less than 10 years, has shifted the emphasis from punishment to rehabilitation.

Begun on a stateside basis in 1957, it has attracted national and international attention and is being tried in Maryland and Guatemala. North Carolina got the idea from a localized system in Wisconsin.

It also has been used for some time in Pennsylvania counties and cities, particularly Pittsburgh and Lancaster. Recently the state legislature approved a bill to permit prisoners in county jail to spend a part of their day in outside pursuits.

"As a dollar and cents proposition, it's a good thing for the taxpayer," the state prisons director, George Randall, says. "But there's also the humanitarian aspect. When a man supports his family, it gives him a degree of self-respect and is helpful in rehabilitation. You can't put a dollar value on giving a man hope and restoring him to the community with a chance."

Penal authorities, thinking of the adjustment prisoners must make someday to outside society, have abolished striped suits and leg irons. North Carolina's prison system has done even more. Its convicts go outside and hold down jobs.

Ennis dropped out of high school in the 10th grade, married early, began a family and ran into financial trouble. That makes him a typical beneficiary of the program. He shares Randall's faith in its possibilities.

DIFFERENT OUTLOOK

"Since I've been here, I've gotten a different outlook on things," he says. "They don't treat you like a convict. They don't hold it over you. It's just like I had come off the streets and gotten a job."

His employer, Emmet Bagwell, has hired several prisoners and plans to keep Ennis on after he is paroled.

Prison reform in North Carolina began in earnest in the middle 1950s under then-Gov. Luther H. Hodges, now U.S. Secretary of Commerce. Gov. Terry Sanford has given its continued impetus.

State policy is predicated on the calculation that it costs 12 times as much to keep a man behind bars as it does to supervise him on parole or probation.

Work Release smooths the parole process. It also attempts to eliminate broken homes, joblessness and lack of money which so often result in prison repeaters.

North Carolina's prison population dropped from a high of 12,046 convicts in December 1961 to 10,668 as of June 1963.

This has enabled the State Prisons Department, custodian of all men serving 30 days or more and all women serving six months or more, to cut its budget for the 1963-65 biennium by $1¼ million. Eleven of 84 prison units have been closed.

Louis Poole, assistant supervisor of inmate employment, says: "We just don't have enough skilled prisoners to fill all the job requests."

Prisoners have worked in the trades as store clerks, auto salesmen, laborers and in many other occupations.

Salaries range as high as $140 a week. The average is between $50 and $60.

SUCCESSFUL GRADS

Successful alumni include a court reporter for the state industrial commission and a mechanic who used his savings to open a business in eastern North Carolina. He now is hiring work release prisoners.

Randall said about 5 per cent of the work release prisoners have been scrubbed from the program, mainly for drinking or slipping off the job to visit their wives. One stole a car and escaped.

Some 6.5 per cent of Work Release convicts have run afoul of the law after gaining their freedom.

Some inmates learn a trade in prison and then gain acceptance into the program. Work Release expects a shot in the arm this October when the prisons department opens a vocational training center.

Poole said skilled Negroes have been fitting in on an equal basis with whites. In most cases, he related, prospective employers do not request workers by race. Only a handful of women have participated.

30-Year Emergency

American citizens who lived through the comparatively peaceful stretch between the Spanish-American War, which was not much of a conflict, and the beginning of World War I, in 1918, doubless used to wonder how people stood the strain of the 100-Year War recorded in history. People of the present young adult generation have been caught in just about such a vise. For 30 years, the United States has been in a state of government - proclaimed "emergency."

Anyone who is nervous about the world outlook has good reason to be, although there is an old saying that, "You can get used to anything." Furthermore, worrying doesn't do any good unless we do something about it.

The government takes the position that there has been an uninterrupted national emergency for the last 30 years. It seems to enjoy emergencies, for the reason that they give an excuse for assuming more powers, but the people don't like them.

Claim of a 30-year emergency was set forth by the government in arguments federal attorneys made in the prosecution in New York and Los Angeles of two men under indictment for having gold bars in their possession.

Laws against private ownership of gold seem unreasonable, unnecessary and un-American. Gold is a natural commodity and it is not inherently wrong to own it. Why, therefore, should it be against the law?

The 1917 "trading with the enemy" act authorized the president to regulate gold supplies "during the time of war or during any other period of national emergency declared by the president."

The 30 years of tension began when the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt declared a national emergency on taking office in March, 1933, for the purported purpose of coping with the troubled economy. In spite of the socialist actions growing out of the so-called "emergency," Roosevelt was able to keep the depression going longer than any other depression in the history of this country. It was only when the United States entered World War II that the economy was able to get back on its feet. Two more Roosevelt declarations kept the "state of emergency" going until the start of World War II and it was continued until April 28, 1952. After that, former President Harry Truman declared an emergency over the undeclared Korean war, which is still in the "armistice" stage, because of the government's refusal to win the war. The government says this continues to be an emergency and, if not, there is Cuba.

Long - drawn - out "emergencies," after things are as safe and stable as they are likely to be, are mere excuses to give the executive branch of the federal government more authority than it has under ordinary circumstances.

One former top official in the United States was once quoted as saying, "If there is no national emergency, it behooves the government to create one, so it can use the extraordinary powers derived therefrom."

Most of the so-called "states of emergency" since 1945, when World War II ended, have been government - created, although there has been some world tension. Even so, we could have got along better without them and still could. Now that the New Frontier is so goody-goody with Russia, what makes it think there is still an "emergency?"

'There Oughta Be A Law'

Far too many people see enactment of laws as the answer to everything. If anything displeases them they say, "There oughta be a law." There seems to be little doubt that if at least half of the state and federal laws were scuttled, the citizens of this country would have more freedom and little, if any, harm would be done.

One of the disadvantages one faces when he fights further government regulation of business is businessmen who abuse the public confidence. A grandstand lawmaker can always get a sympathetic hearing for a bill that would penalize thousands of honest businessmen as the price for curbing a few deceitful operators.

Some of the laws, enacted so their sponsors can point to legislation bearing their names, are about as sensible as it would be to burn down a huge storehouse of food so that the barren ground thereafter would be safe from fire, because there was nothing left to burn.

The amendment to the national food and drug act which provides a medicine can't be used until it has been proved both safe and effective, comes in that class. Because a few children were deformed by the use of a certain medicine, congress, after use of the medicine had been discontinued, enacted a law that will hamstring medical advancement for at least half a century and may result in the loss of hundreds of lives that could have been saved if the proper remedies had been found through research. This amendment to the food and drug act was never properly considered and resulted purely from emotional arousement.

If throwing the baby out with the bathwater is to become acceptable and if we are to try to stop completely everything of which we disapprove, or which is unsafe, we could solve other pressing problems by the same lawmaking technique.

Most crimes occur at night. Therefore, why not have a national curfew for all citizens at sundown?

Last year 40,000 Americans were killed and hundreds of thousands were injured in automobile accidents. One simple law making it illegal to operate an automobile would prevent such carnage in the future — if the people weren't killed riding horses and bicycles, or walking.

Criminals sometimes slip across state lines or even out of the country and so evade arrest. They would be easier to catch if everyone were prohibited from traveling.

Thousands drown each year who would not if swimming were prohibited, unless they were to fall in accidentally and then they would be almost sure to drown.

Hundreds are killed each year by falls in bathtubs and their lives might be saved if baths were made illegal — although more might die of disease.

Business now is staggering under a mountain of regulations, which consume much of its income, slow its response to market demands and lessen its ability to employ more people and compete in markets here and abroad.

How about a constitutional amendment saying that no new laws can be enacted until they have been proved both safe and beneficial? Such an amendment surely would be as sensible as the one saying medicine can't be tried until it has been proved safe and beneficially effective.

Since 1850, Assateague Island has "moved" 2,000 feet toward the Worcester County, Md., coastline. Tidal action erodes the coastline.

America's first glove maker, James Wilson, walked 250 miles to New Haven, Conn., to learn copper engraving from Amos Doolittle, one of America's first map makers.

Finland has 55,000 lakes.

The unofficial greatest 12-hour railfall was 32 inches in Thrall, Tex., Sept. 9, 1921.

For Awakening

Winnsboro, La.

To the Editor:

Please print the following letter:

My fellow citizens:

No doubt many of you are tired of listening to or reading about people who claim to know how to solve all the problems facing our country today. Well I don't claim to know all the answers, but I believe our problems can be solved by the following:

Let's awaken that sleeping giant, the public, and inform him as to what is going on in this country.

Let's encourage our young people, business men and college graduates to take an active part in politics. Politics is an ugly word to most people, but it shouldn't be. It is as vital as the air we breathe.

Let's get qualified white citizen registered to vote. But before we vote, let's check the record of every candidate for public office. Let's make sure that he is honest, capable and sincere. Let's evuauate him by what he has done in the past, not by what he says he will do.

In order for this nation to regain her place as the symbol of freedom for the enslaved people of the world we must weed out the liberals, socialists and integrationists from public office. The people of this country deserve, and must have, better leaders.

Eisenhower and Kennedy have had their chance and they have failed us miesrably. What manner of men are these who have allowed the communists to set up camp 90 miles from our shores? What excuse can they possibly offer?

The New Frontier has gone over like a lead balloon. The King of Misrule has carried on with "vigah" long enough.

We need leaders who won't appease the communists, who will stop this foreign aid give-away, men who will stop the shameful waste of the taxpayers money, men who will not impose the will of a minority group on us, men who are against federal control of anything.

This battle that we face in saving our country will not be easily won. Our enemies are strong and firmly entrenched. The communists, socialists, liberals, and integrationists are here. They walk among us as surely as the sun rises in the east. They cry extremist or radical right every time they are challenged. And if I am branded an extremist or radical for writing this letter, then I will wear the label proudly, for I believe there is no middle of the road in this fight. One either believes in true Americanism, our ideals and our principals, or he is against us.

Time waits for no one nor for any cause. Our time is running out. We must act now.

I believe that the American people will win this battle. And after we have won this great victory, let's never allow these carpetbaggers to gain control of our government again. Let's never relax our vigil but guard well these portals of freedom.

And if I may borrow this oft-repeated phrase, then this government of the people, by the people and for the people shall not perish from this earth. Let's go.

Let Officials Decide

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity of answering the Rev. Mr. Oliphant's request for a committee on human relations, which appeared in last Sunday's paper.

Since the beginning of the Roosevelt dynasty in 1932 up through today's dictatorship by the Kennedy clan the people of this country have seen more and more of their rights and privileges relegated to bureaus, boards and committees which are appointed and in no way answerable to the people over whom they rule.

I say it is high time that the people wake up and put the responsibilities of decision and policy making back in the hands of the elected officials where they belong.

The people of Monroe put Mayor Howard and the other city officials in office and it should be up to them to make the decisions concerning racial relations and harmony and if those decisions should go against the majority then the majority would have recourse in the next election.

Let Mr. Oliphant lead his flock where he will and as far as they wish to follow, but let the elected officials rule the majority.

J. B. Dawkins Jr.

Oliphant Lauded

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

The concluding paragraph of Rev. Ben Oliphint's letter last week stated: "In carrying out the spirit of the Bishop's letter in this community, a first step could be created by city officials of a human relations committee. Such a committee could be composed of leading citizens of both races and could recommend changes to improve race relations. Let us work while a spirit of good-will and reason prevails!"

Rev. Oilphint, as in the past, speaks up fearlessly. It is only to be regretted that of those recognizing the immorality and un-Christianliness of segregation (and there are many of us), so few have "stood up to be counted."

Let us urge the city officials through this column and through personal letters to follow Rev. Oliphint's suggestion.

Sincerely yours,
R. C. White, Jr.

Cooperatives Defended

Ferriday, La.
Rt. 1, Box 69

To the Editor:

Being a member of the Concordia Electric Cooperative, Inc., Ferriday, La. and the Southwest Miss. Electric and Power Association, Lorman, Miss., makes me a part owner also, therefore, this makes me feel that the remarks of these unjust and misleading editorials and advertisements appearing in the papers are directed at me personally. I can understand why a so-called private electric company would want to destroy its only competitor so it would have a monoply in its integer on electricity, but I can't understand why a newspaper (not yours) would print such unjust and misleading editorials as I read the other day disapproving the co-ops building their own generating plants and stating that they are not needed and that they are a government corporation and calling them R. E. A.

First, I would like to say there is only one R. E. A., which is in Washington, D. C., which was created in 1936 as a banking agency for financing rural electrification for co-ops and private electric companies alike. There are also banking agencies for rural telephones, gas, and waterworks. The co-ops are not owned by the government any more than an F. H. A. or G. I. home.

Now when the R. E. A. was created in 1936, there was only 2500 farms in Louisiana that had electricity. Now I doubt that there are 2500 without electricity.

According to the January 1963 issue of Rural Lines at the present trend in 16 months, 271 R. E. A. borrowers will help 850 projects that will provide jobs for 53,000 and another 40,000 would result indirectly and the average for these 271 borrowers would involve $250 million from private and local financing and only a little over $1 million from R.E.A.

Have you ever stopped to think of how much income taxes the government gets out of these jobs and the interest the co-op pays the government? Now, I wonder if the same people that would like to destroy the Co-op would like to destroy the Federal Depositor Insurance Corp. (F.D.I.C.) that protects their money in the banks from robbers, bank busting, etc. No, I bet they don't and neither do I.

Now there are some agencies such as the A. R. A. and Foreign Aid Programs that we should do away with, but not R. E. A. or F. D. I. C. for they are the goose that layed the golden egg.

Isaiah Levens.

Have Committee

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to publicly ask the author of the article that appeared in your editorial section of August 11, 1963, concerning the formation of a human relations committee in this city, if he doesn't realize that we have had a human relations committe in this town for many years!

This human relations committee is in the form of a fine city council and our very fine and respected mayor, Mr. Jack Howard. Now the methods by which this committee was formed may seem foreign to some people, and I will briefly attempt a simplified explanation of this method.

This committee is formed by a method called voting, and the outcome of this method usually represents the thinking and accepted customs of the majority of our people.

Now I hope that this explanation hasn't been so brief to the extent that it leaves doubt. If this is the case, a more detailed explanation may be found in our city library from a book entitled "The Constitution of the United States of America".

While I am sure that this suggested human relations committee is in no way related to the illegal little biracial committees that have been "set up" by individuals in other cities to try and force the thinking and views of very small minority groups up on the majority, I think it would be well if this gentleman should choose to let the people know in more detailed description just what the ultimate goals of this committee would be.

I have been under the impression that the human relations in this town have been excellent in comparison to any other city in this nation.

With all due respect to this person and to his right to express his personal views, I submit this to your paper for publication.

Sincerely yours,
Vaughn L. Phelps

How Do You Stand, Sir?

By BARRY GOLDWATER

U.S. Senator From Arizona

ACCORDING TO THE propaganda emanating from sources close to the New Frontier, ratification of the partial nuclear test ban treaty is only a "first step" in a continuing American-inspired drive to reduce world tension.

This emphasis hints strongly of some kind of a deal between the United States and Russia about which the American people have not been informed. It very conceivably could involve an eventual non-agression pact between the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the Communist nations of the Warsaw Pact. It also could involve an arrangement whereby the United States would relax its restrictions on trade with the Soviet Union and other Communist-bloc nations.

Diplomacy being what it is, the administration can deny any suggestion of a deal and be technically correct, because nothing has been reduced to writing. However, government spokesmen have ways of giving assurances to the negotiators of other nations as to what course their nation might be expected to follow in the future.

In the immediate future, I suggest you can look for the administration to soft pedal all talk about a possible non-aggression pact with the Communists. The reason for this is that speculation over such a "second step" by the New Frontier would seriously threaten Senate ratification of the test ban treaty.

FOR A NON - AGGRESSION pact with the Warsaw nations would amount to American acceptance of the status quo in Europe. It would mean that we recognized the Soviet Union's right to enslave the peoples of East Germany, Czechoslovakia, Hungary and the rest of the European satellites.

In other words, the non-aggression pact idea which keeps cropping up as a possible "second step" in the administrations' drive would represent a retreat from American policy that has refused to accept the Russian rape of Eastern Europe.

There have been numerous indications of an official move in this direction over the past few months. One has been the apparent reluctance of the administration to issue strong proclamations in recognition of Captive Nations Week. Another was President Kennedy's recent speech at American University where he declared: "At least we can help make the world safe for diversity." And still another is the care with which the New Frontier refrains from taking any action that might irritate Premier Khrushchev.

The idea of increased trade with the Soviet Union as an immediate aftermath of the accord on nuclear testing is a recurring theme in all talk and speculation regarding "next steps" in what amounts to New Frontier efforts to accommodate the Soviet Union.

FOR EXAMPLE, THE Los Angeles Times on July 29 printed a news story out of Hyannisport which stated flatly that "Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's willingness to okay the historic nuclear test ban treaty was accompanied by an 'understanding' that the United States would liberalize trade with Iron Curtain countries." The story, which was attributed to "informed sources" at Hyannisport, went on to state that the United States "is now prepared to open direct trade talks with the Communist - pact nations."

On these and other reports of the same nature, the White House flatly refused comment. However, Mr. Khrushchev's great yearning for increased trade with the United States is well known to anyone who has followed the various East-West meetings. The reason for this is simply that the Soviets stand in great need of machine tools, chemical industry equipment and engineering know-how of all kinds to shore up the industrial side of their campaign for world domination. They want these things from the United States. If they get them in return for quick approval of the test ban agreement, the whole treaty affair will be more a victory for Communist slavery than a "victory for mankind."

How do you stand, sir?

RALPH DE TOLEDANO

$1 Million Draft

UNTIL TODAY, I had never held in my hand a draft for $1 million. The innocent-looking piece of paper was "taken" from a British Guiana bank that handled the transaction. The money came for the Castro Communist National Bank of Havana. It was sent to the Guiana Import Export Corp. (Gimpex), a "front" that transferred it to the Communist-dominated government of British Guiana.

The British government could have stopped this transfer of funds, earmarked for indoctrination, propaganda, arms, and the expenses of Red agents moving between the South American continent and Cuba. But the British did nothing. Both the Macmillan government and the shadow cabinet of the Labor Party would be much happier if they did not have to think about British Guiana at all. No matter what the cost to the Western Hemisphere, Great Britain wants to be rid of the small country. "It's not our hemisphere," says the British Colonial Office with the superior air which has lost it an empire.

The United States, which is far more concerned, takes a hardly more enlightened attitude. With the $1 million draft, there was also evidence of a $120,000 transfer from the Soviet Ministry of Education to Freedom House, the headquarters in Georgetown, B.G., of the People's Progressive Party. Yet Premier Cheddi Jagan, who heads that party and bows every hour on the hour to Moscow, has so far been treated with kindness by the same State Department middle echelon which argued so passionately for Fidel Castro.

THE STRIPED PANTS boys, following a pattern that is so consistently wrong that it raises eyebrows, has refused to give any moral support to the anti-Communist middle-of-the-road opposition parties in British Guiana. They gave Miss Anne Jardim, one of the handful of opposition senators in British Guiana, the cold shoulder (which must have been difficult since she is an attractive 26 year old) on the ground that it would be improper to confer with someone not in the Jagan administration. That they conferred at great length with Harold Wilson, the leader of the British Labor oppositon, seems not to have mattered. After all, he's not fighting the Communists or attempting to keep them from establishing another beachhead in Latin America.

The State Department is also doing what comes naturally by pressing the British to stay in British Guiana but to suspend the Constitution and oust Jagan. Senator Jardim has warned that this would make a hero of the Red would-be dictator and destroy any opportunity for a peaceful solution to the problems he poses.

SHE CALLS INSTEAD for a referendum that would change the present unfair election system. In the last election, Cheddi Jagan's party polled only 42 percent of the vote, whereas the two opposition parties together amassed 58 percent. Yet Jagan's party holds all but a tiny handful of seats in the national legislature. In a referendum on changing this unjust and inequitable system, Jagan would be decisively defeated.

The situation in British Guiana is "desperate," says Senator Jardim. Because of the threat of a Communist takeover, the middle class-which represents the skilled technicians, the civil servants, and the professionals, and those who have the know-how to keep the country going - is leaving as fast as it can. Already five thousand of them, in a population of 600,000, have departed. Unless steps are taken to block the subversive plans of the Jagan regime and its Communist supporters, another 50,000 will leave. The chaos that has marked the departure of Europeans from Algeria will be repeated in Guiana and the Communists will profit further.

AT PRESENT, A steady stream of Castro-trained agents moves from Havana to British Guiana-a major way station–and then into Latin America. Air strips have been reactivated, and the Jagan government is planning to take over air lines - staffnig them with its own people. (Twenty Cuban fliers have already surveyed the country.) Propaganda printed in Georgetown is shipped on Soviet freighters to Cuba and then smuggled into the islands of the West Indian Federation and Jamaica.

The opposition needs help. The support of the American people is important. Money to finance the campaign against Jagan is vital. There are only a few months left - if that long - Miss Jardim says. The Citizens Committee for a Free Cuba (Albee Building, Washington, D.C.), which includes Admiral Arleigh Burke and nuclear scientist Edward Teller, is sponsoring Miss Jordim in this country. Since the State Department and the White House won't help, it's now up to those citizens who don't believe that the answer to all the world's problems will be found when the test ban treaty is signed.

The Week In Focus

In Ole Kentucky

Kentucky is seen as a testing ground between the Democrats and Republicans as a prelude to the presidential election.

The occasion is the governor's race now going on. The election is due in November. In between, the state is expected to receive a generous portion of outside advice — possibly including some directly from President Kennedy and Senator Barry Goldwater.

The reasons: 1—Kentucky is a border state, sensitive to the feelings of North and South on civil rights. 2—Outgoing Governor Bert Combs recently issued an executive order ending discrimination in businesses licensed by the state. 3—Republican aspirant Louie B. Nunn got nowhere trying to hang Combs with Kentucky's uninspired economic showing — but drew blood and cheering crowds when he started promising to rescind Combs' civil rights order as "unconstitutional." 4—Combs' order is similar to the public accommodations section of the White House civil rights bill. What all this adds up to is a hard test of the effect of the civil rights crisis on JFK's chances next year. It's very likely that an all-out White House effort will be made for the Democratic contender Edward T. Breathitt.

Alarming Report

The alarming rise of syphilis among U.S. teenagers is prompting some crash measures to discover the cause. One theory is that more and more cases may be due to homosexuality among teenage boys.

According to a report by U.S. Public Health Service's Dr. Robert Lugar, a just-completed survey in northern California revealed that 70 per cent of a group of boys being treated for syphilis admitted that their contacts were exclusively homosexual. And in 1962, one-fifth of the states reported 30 per cent of their known cases fell into this category. PHS sources say it is the under 20-year-olds who have shot the total venereal disease rates up in the last few years — and almost half of 1962's reported syphilis cases involved persons under 25.

Estimates are that health authorities only learn about one-third of all VD cases.

A New Law In Germany

There is still more fallout from the Keeler case in England. Chancellor Adenauer's government is writing a new youth protection law based mainly on such awkward disclosures as Mandy Rice-Davies now famous line, "Mums knows her Mandy."

Germany's new law will make parents responsible for the activities and whereabouts of their children through the age of 21. Family Minister Bruno Heck says that Britain's promiscuity is primarily the fault of parents, who should be held criminally liable for their daughters' prostitution.

Three top administration officials went to Capitol Hill the past week to give support to the proposed test ban treaty signed by the United States, Russia and England.

The first was Secretary of State Dean Rusk who backed it on diplomatic grounds. He was followed by Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara and Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Implying that the U. S. doesn't need tests in the atmosphere and under the sea, McNamara said this nation has nuclear warheads "in the tens of thousands" and that the test ban would help preserve a nuclear lead over the Soviet Union. He also assured senators the U.S. is determined to maintain a nuclear force that is "manifestly superior to the Soviet Union." Said McNamara: "By limiting Soviet testing to the underground environment, where testing is more difficult and more expensive and where the U. S. has substantially more experience, we can at least retard Soviet progress and prolong the duration of our technical superiority."

TAYLOR

General Taylor testified that the Joint Chiefs of Staff endorsed the treaty without any "arm twisting" by the administration. He also voiced opinion that President Kennedy would carry out "safeguards" to the pact. Gen. Earl G. Wheeler, Army chief of staff, also said he fully subscribed to Taylor's statement that the military leaders okayed the pact if it was accompanied by the safeguards laid down by the administration.

Meanwhile, Dr. Glenn T. Seaborg, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, testified that underground testing will permit a wide range of nuclear weapons development, including warheads for antimissile defense.

Although some of our scientists and senators oppose aspects of the treaty "as dangerous," it is now expected to win Senate approval.

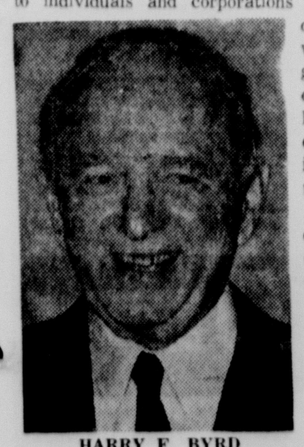

A PRESIDENTIAL study panel has come up with a recommendation for big salary increases for members of Congress, the Cabinet and the Supreme Court. It reported better pay is needed to entice more persons with talent rather than wealth into public service. The group urged that the salaries of Cabinet offices be doubled from $25,000 to $50,000; that members of Congress be raised from $22,500 to $35,000 and Supreme Court Justices from $35,000 to $60,000. Some have pointed out that a raise is not particularly needed to attract persons to those types of jobs; so far there have been plenty of candidates . . .

IT WAS A NARROW squak, but President Kennedy's proposal for a National Service Corps won Senate approval 47 to 44 after it was put on a two-year trial basis with sharply curtailed size and spending limits. However, the project faces an uncertain future in the House . . .

HAND-IN-HAND, the President and Mrs. Kennedy left the Otis Air Force Base hospital on Wednesday. The chief executive took the First Lady by helicopter from the hospital to their summer home on Squaw Island, where Mrs. Kennedy will continue her convalescence from the emergency birth. The son was born 5½ weeks prematurely and died less than two days later. Doctors relayed word that Mrs. Kennedy has made "a very satisfactorily recovery" but ordered her to curtail all of her activities and not to undertake an official schedule until after the first of the year . . .

BACK ON CAPITOL HILL, the congressional log jam on education legislation was eased with House passage of a $1.2 billion "bricks and mortar" college aid bill. However, no general break is in sight. The bill would provide $835 million in matching grants and $360 million in low interest loans over a three-year period to four-year colleges and universities, graduate schools, junior and community colleges and college level technical institutions . . .

THE HOUSE Ways and Means Committee has finished drafting work on a bill that would give tax savings of $11 billion to individuals and corporations starting January 1. The tax cut — spread over two years — would, if approved, be the biggest in history and would exceed by more than $300 million the tax relief recommended by President Kennedy earlier this year. However, Senator Harry F. Byrd has joined Republican Congressional leaders in expressing doubt that Congress will pass a tax reduction bill this year. Byrd, who heads the Senate Finance Committee which considers any tax measure approved by the House, said opposition to any immediate tax reduction has been building up to the point where it is touch-and-go whether any measure could gain majority support within the group . . .

Domestic Issues

IN WASHINGTON, the House has voted in favor of tough new crime laws for the District of Columbia. An opponent said their enactment would mean "the U. S. Constitution would be suspended in the capital city." The legislation now goes to the Senate where present odds are against its approval. Those in favor of the legislation called for its passage as a means of combatting a rising crime rate. Members exclaimed that hoodlums were being "molly-coddled." Said Rep. Joel Broyhill, a Republican from the capital's Northern Virginia suburbs: "They used to say it was dangerous to walk the streets of Washington at night. That's an old chiche now. Now it's dangerous to walk the streets of Washington in daytime" . .

THERE WAS GOOD news on the employment front. The Labor Department said non-farm employment increased to 56.6 million in July, the sixth consecutive month of improvement. However, the number of jobless remained about the same during the first six months, largely because the labor force increased at about the same rate as new jobs became available . . .

IF YOU LIKED that bit of cool weather the past week, an oddball combination of conditions that usually occurs only in the wintertime accounted for it. A suction-like action in the upper atmosphere, coming in the aftermath of a weekend storm, pulled great masses of polar air down from Canada. Simultaneously, clear skies over much of the area allowed an unusually high outflow of heat radiation from the earth. However, the weather bureau discounted any thought that the premature cool snap is a warning that the nation is in for an unusually cold winter . . .

IN HUNTSVILLE, Alabama, Space Expert Wernher von Braun has taken issue with a British scientist's statement that the Soviet Union has withdrawn from the race for the moon. The rocket specialist said that the U. S. will have "to run like ——" to make a luna landing by 1970. British Profesor Sir Bernard Lovell said on a return from a trip to Russia last month, the Soviets had withdrawn from the moon race. . .

SOME PEOPLE still go to jail for their opinions. Dr. Arthur Evans, 43, a Denver physician did just that for refusing to pay that part of his income tax that he figures goes for military spending. On Monday, Evans began serving a 90-day jail sentence imposed by U. S. District Judge Alfred Arraj for contempt after the pacifist doctor refused to comply with a court order to surrender business records to the Internal Revenue Service . . .

A SURPRISING MOVE in Mississippi. Charles Sullivan, who ran third in the governor's race in last week's first Democratic primary — says he will support former Gov. J. P. Coleman in the August 27 runoff against Lt. Gov. Paul Johnson Jr. Sullivan had been expected to back Johnson . . .

IN LOUISIANA, the Public Affairs Research Council reports there has been a continuing improvement in the voting records of legislators. In fact, PAR said, 20 members compiled perfect scores in the 1963 fiscal session by voting on 100 per cent of the roll call votes. Previously, since 1958 only two legislators had compiled 100 per cent records . . .

AND IN CHICAGO, Rep. Robert Taft Jr., of Ohio has suggested that state boundaries be shifted as a means of strengthening the federal system and the U. S. Constitution. Taft also criticized a recent U. S. Supreme Court decision which allowed federal courts to take jurisdiction in reapportionment of state legislatures . . .

FINALLY in New York, Negro sailor Nelson C. Drummoned, convicted of conspiracy to sell Navy secrets to the Soviet Union, was sentenced to life in prison Thursday by a federal judge who said the only reason he was saving him from the electric chair was compassion for his wife and parents. "Yours was a most awful crime," said Judge Thomas M. Murphy as he passed sentence on the Navy yeoman. . . .

Red China and Soviet Russia — the communist giants — continued their fiery dispute the past week. The Red Chinese bared what may be the crux of its ever-worsening quarrel with the Soviet Union — a Chinese charge that Premier Khrushchev went back on a promise in 1959 to supply the Chinese with nuclear weapons and know-how. As long ago as 1960, U. S. State Department experts theorized this was a root cause of the dissension, but neither of the two Red nations ever acknowledged it before.

Meanwhile, U. S. officials discounted the Red Chinese claim. These officials do not believe Khrushchev ever had any intention of helping the Chinese Reds achieve nuclear military power and thus a position of parity with the Soviet Union. The State Department also denied the Red Chinese charge of U. S. collusion to prevent Communist China from becoming a first-class power.

Simultaneously, the Soviet newspaper Pravda hit out at the Chinese, charging them with keeping up tension on the frontier with India. The blast came in a three-prong attack on Chinese policy over India, Cuba and the Moscow test ban treaty.

However, at Geneva, the spirit of the Moscow pact was missing. When the U. S. proposed an immediate agreement with Russia to stop making fissionable material and to use large amounts of stockpiled uranium for peaceful purposes instead of nuclear bombs, Russia rejected it as impractical. And in Paris, France announced it will continue a program of nuclear tests despite the Moscow ban accord because it wants to build up a nuclear stockpile.

IN LONDON, the Soviet ambassador, Alexander Soldatov, said the most important and most urgent problem of the day is the signing of a German peace treaty and normalization of Berlin. "We'd like to settle the German problem on the basis of an agreed decision of the wartime allies." . . .

AT BOSTON, there were reports of a "massive fleet" of Russian trawlers only four miles off the Cape Cod beaches of Nauset and Chatham. The reports were turned in by Boston fishing vessels. Fishing boat captains estimated 50 large Russian vessels were stationed along the three mile limit off the U. S. coast . . .

AT MIAMI, the Cuban Information Service, an exile weekly publication, said the recent drowning of an American student in Cuba may not have been accidental. It said the Cuban underground reported the student, Hector Hill of Brooklyn, "had been a little difficult." He was one of 59 young Americans visiting Cuba over U. S. government opposition . . .

THERE WAS TROUBLE in the Congo Republic. President Fulbert Youlou bowed to the mandate of enraged workers and said he would form a new government and postpone his project for one-party rule in the former French colony. He announced his concessions as thousands of rebellious Africans were reported massing in surrounding townships for a march on the capital . . .

SCOTLAND YARD, working in its usual quick and efficient fashion — has announced the solving of the $7.1 million mail train robbery case. It came one week to the day after it occurred. Police arrested three men and two women with a large part of the loot recovered . . .

MEANWHILE, Portugal remains firm against the "winds of change" in Africa and vowed to defend its African territories against all comers. Premier Antonio de Oliveira Salazar, who has ruled Portugal for more than 30 years, attacked the UN and the drive for African nationalism in an hour-long policy statement . . .

ALGIERS, assembly president, Ferhat Abbas, resigned in protest against Premier Ahmed Ben Bella's government. The resignation was over the arrest of political opponents . . .

Civil Rights Program Could Hurt The Kennedys In 1964 Presidential Vote

EDITOR'S NOTE — The battle over federal legislation in the civil rights field spreads in several directions, but nowhere more tempestously than in politics. What will it mean when citizens, Negro and white, vote next year?

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON (AP) — Politically the Kennedys have been pushed to a civil rights stand they didn't foresee, and would have preferred to dodge.

If the election were to be held tomorrow, they believe President Kennedy might lose all the South and most of the Rocky Mountain region.

Worse, from the Kennedys' viewpoint, is the belief they aren't likely to pick up many more Negro votes, and that, as arguments over the civil rights bill rage, they could lose white support not only in the South but also in the North.

Only a few months ago, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy was saying that only Mississippi and Alabama were likely to defect from the Democratic ticket in 1964.

BIRMINGHAM

Repeatedly, when you ask what brought on this administration drive for new civil rights legislation, you get this reply: "Birmingham triggered it."

No one seems to know why, this is true. In many ways, Birmingham is just another in a long series of racial disputes, North and South.

But whether it was the pictures of police dogs on the attack, or of a burning police car, Birmingham was a convincing and alarming display of how determined each side is.

Because President Kennedy believes the political world has changed, he—who has so carefully avoided any domestic showdown—is backing a civil rights bill that could turn this tepid Congress into a legislative inferno.

The bill—particularly that section which says merchants must not discriminate against customers because of race—has been denounced as Communist-inspired at worst and unconstitutional at best.

Its supporters claim it is but a start toward granting Negroes the rights promised them when they were emancipated 100 years ago.

NEGRO VOTE

John F. Kennedy sits in the White House because of Negroes; almost 80 per cent of those who went to the polls voted for him.

Dwight D. Eisenhower lured all voters, black and white. After he attracted 33 per cent of the Negroes in 1952 and 45 per cent in 1956, the GOP had visions of recapturing those wooed away by Franklin D. Roosevelt.

But New York (14 per cent Negro), Chicago (23 per cent), Philadelphia (26 per cent), Detroit (29 per cent), Baltimore (35 per cent) Cleveland (29 per cent), and, St. Louis (29 per cent) gave Kennedy big majorities.

Negroes could be decisive in in 1964, too, especially if many of them become convinced Kennedy isn't moving fast enough on civil rights. But any switch in allegiance would depend on who wins the Republican nomination, and how he handles his campaign.

Republicans and Democrats had strong civil rights planks in 1960, and Kennedy promised action fast.

One quote will show his campaign thinking: "As a legislative leader, the President must give us the legal weapons needed to enforce the constitutional rights of every American."

"He cannot wait for others to act," he said. "He must draft the programs—transmit them to Congress—and fight for their enactment, taking his case to the people if Congress is slow in acting."

Well, Kennedy isn't the first president to discover that a cold look at Congress is a wonderful antidote for a hot campaign promise.

Kennedy and his helpers decided other legislation should have priority, and the campaign promise of a stiff fight for civil rights legislation was quietly ignored.

You were told that no other administration has loved and done so much for the colored folks: more Negroes named to high office, more fight by the Justice Department for a fair break on such matters as voting.

LOYAL

A high-placed Negro who is loyal to the administration says the Kennedys decided additional legislation wasn't really necessary anyway. "They thought, so far as the average Negro is concerned, what difference does it make?"

Clarence Mitchell, who heads the Washington office of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, says the Kennedys underestimated the temper of the Negroes largely because they were getting bad advice from Negro politicians.

The turning point came the night of May 11, 1963. Bombs were heaved at the home of an integration leader and at a Negro motel in Birmingham — and a dreadful riot was on.

After almost two and a half years in office, President Kennedy finally decided — or was forced—to move legislatively on civil rights.

A prominent Negro, a Democrat, says: "Speaking as a politician, I think the president has timed this exactly right. Speaking as a Negro, I think he's way late."

A civil rights leader says: "I think they got scared. All at once they saw a national situation out of control. You know as well as I that we could have martial law in 100 cities over this country. One Negro told me, 'We're not going to wait any longer, not five minutes.'"

MUCH SOONER

This leader, even though he had argued steadily for civil rights legislation, doesn't believe the Kennedys could have made their move much sooner.

"What would have been the reaction if they had done anything before Birmingham?" he asks. "Even now they're accused of egging the Negroes on."

This perhaps illustrates best of all the split in national thinking.

For while the administration is pointing to the demonstrations as indicators that legislation is needed, here's Gov. Ross Barnett of Mississippi saying: "The attorney general has been personally responsible for helping to put mobs in the streets."

The President and the attorney general, Barnett continued, "have encouraged demonstrations, freedom rides, sit-ins, picketing and actual violation of local laws."

And while Robert Kennedy says privately that, as of now, the South could be lost and publicly says that "The President is going to lose popularity," here's Sen. J. Strom Thurmond (D-S.C.) asking: "Aren't those proposed laws primarily vote-getters for the next election?"

At any rate, precisely a month after that night of rioting in Birmingham President Kennedy was saying:

"Now the time has come for this nation to fulfill its promises. The events in Birmingham and elsewhere have so increased the cries for equality that no city or state or legislative body can prudently choose to ignore them.

"The fires of frustration and discord are burning in every city, North and South, where legal remedies are not at hand . . .

"We face, therefore, a moral crisis as a country and as a people."

JFK CRITICS

Kennedy's critics point out that a moral issue is changeless. It is as wrong to steal on Thursday as it is on Monday, and, although more understandable, as bad to steal during want as during prosperity.

So Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., keeps needling the administration: "Why didn't you need this two years ago?"

Robert Kennedy will tell you that perhaps the nation did need this legislation two years ago, but that it didn't matter because until pressures built up the administration couldn't get a bill passed.

From this summer of our discontent both parties, with their incurable optimism, hope to reap eventual benefits.

For the Democrats: Kennedy might be in trouble if the elections were being held now. Who knows what storms and, let us hope, calms this nation may ride out between now and November, 1964?"

Louis Martin, a Negro and deputy chairman of the Democratic party, says: "Historically, you're not going to be victimized in this country for having been morally right. There's an overriding sense of fair play in this country that is grossly underestimated."

But Martin is busy getting more Negroes registered in northern cities.

For the Republicans: They watch this cleavage among Democrats with interest. To be sure, they have cleavages of their own, but for the party out of power, trouble, any sort of trouble, may mean disenchantment with the administration.

At GOP headquarters a top official sized up Kennedy's racial problems.

"It's likely to hurt him," he said.

A smile flitted across his face.

"I only hope," he said, "they don't call off that Aug. 28 march on Washington."

Snakes And The Old Days At Cape Canaveral Recalled

EDITOR'S NOTE — As a new generation of technicians takes over at Cape Canaveral, one of the pioneers who is about to leave recalls the days when the rockets' red glare meant another explosion, there were more snakes than scientists and a man could have a street named after him just by building a house on it.

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) Only 88 people in the United States knew what Atlas missile No. 10B was to do when it blasted off a launching pad here Dec. 18, 1958.

Hundreds of persons at Cape Canaveral were involved in the launching, but fewer than 10 knew the secret. Most, including the launch conductor in the blockhouse, thought the Atlas was programmed for a military test flight.

RECEIVED SHOCK

They received a shock two hours later when President Dwight D. Eisenhower announced that the entire missile was in orbit as the world's largest satellite. Later, a tape recorder relayed the first voice from space, a Christmas peace message from the president.

One of those who knew in advance was Byron G. (Mac) MacNabb, Cape Canaveral director of operations for General Dynamics Astronautics, the Atlas prime contractor.

The president directed that no one was to know unless it was "absolutely mandatory to the mission," MacNabb recalled. "He said that if word leaked in advance, he would cancel the shot. We had to make up a lot of lies, but we kept it quiet."

The story is one of countless memories MacNabb will carry when he leaves Cape Canaveral this month after eight years of shepherding the Atlas from early growing pains to maturity as the United States' first intercontinental range ballistic missile and as a reliable booster for manned and unmanned space vehicles.

He is being promoted to director of test engineering, with headquarters in General Dynamics' San Diego, Calif., plant.

MacNabb, a flamboyant 53-year-old native of Gary, Ind., admits he is somewhat reluctant to leave the area where he has sunk roots deep, both as a top missile man and as a hardworking, respected community leader.

MIXED EMOTIONS

"I view the move with mixed emotions," MacNabb said. "It's kind of like watching your mother-in-law drive your new Cadillac over a cliff."

MacNabb came to Cape Canaveral, as a one-man advance team for General Dynamics in August 1955, nearly two years before the first Atlas was to fly.

"Things were pretty miserable in those days," he said. "The cape was mostly a desolate piece of land overrun with snakes and mosquitoes. The only missiles being fired then were the old Snarks, Matadors, Bomarcs and Redstones.

"Transportation and living conditions were horrible. Housing was scarce and rents were fantastic."

MacNabb hit on the idea of having General Dynamics buy land, hire a contractor to build homes and, in turn, sell the homes to company employes. MacNabb's home was built on a street named MacNabb Parkway.

"There wasn't even a hotel here," MacNabb said.

Today there are more than two dozen motels in Cocoa Beach.

The target date set five years previously for the first Atlas test launch was April 1957.

"The bosses told me something was going to be fired in April, meaning either the bird or me," MacNabb chuckled. "But because of the troubles we were extremely happy to get the first bird off in June, only two months late."

On June 11, 1957, after a 48-hour technical postponement, the countdown reached zero and Atlas 4A blasted into the sky.

"There was a lot of praying and breath-holding," MacNabb reported.

Trouble developed 24 seconds after liftoff. The range safety officer destroyed the missile in a flaming explosion.

"Emotions were varied on that first test," MacNabb said. "While everyone was disappointed that the flight was not a complete success, we learned a tremendous amount about the bird."

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

Much Material Now Available

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

The book collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library is growing rapidly and patrons are finding more and more reading material which interests them at the various branches of the Library. During the month of July the circulation of books broke all previous records. In that month a total of 60,201 books were borrowed from the Libraries of the Ouachita Parish Public Library System. Of this number 25,001 were loaned at the Headquarters Library, 17,327 at the West Monroe Library, 8,134 from the Bookmobile, 6,943 at the Anna Meyer Branch Library and 2,796 at the Carver Branch Library. The circulation exceeded that of July one year ago by 10,000 books and was more than double the number circulated in July of 1953 - ten years ago. Of course we expected the circulation to increase when more books were made available for the use of the patrons and we are glad that this is proving to be correct. The book collection of the Parish Library system now consists of 86,059 books and we hope to reach the goal of 90,000 by the first of the year.

Among the new titles this week, there are several new books of fiction. "Miss Clare Remembers" is the title of a new book by "Miss Reed." It is another of the quiet stories of English country life and will appeal to her established audience. Readers of Western stories will enjoy "Follow the Free Wind" by Leigh Brackett. For readers of mystery stories there are two new books "Here Lies" by Doris Miles Disney and "Black Sister" by Dagmar Edqvist. A crazy sort of book, which will appeal to younger readers is "John Goldfarb, Please Come Home" written by William Blatty. "One Kiss for France" by Marily Tate is a book written for the feminine audience. "The Third Encouncer" by Sara Woods is a well-written novel of present day life, which should be popular.

The field of non - fiction continues to offer an interesting variety of material. "Good News" by J. B. Phillips is an inspiring small book in the field of religion. "Jesus and the Gospel" by Ernest C. Colwell is an excellent book of sermons. "Night Comes to the Cumberlands" by Harry M. Caudill prints a graphic picture of the depressed areas of West Virginia.

"Financial independence Through Common Stocks" by Robert D. Merritt contains much excellent advice for the investor. "Folklore of American Weather" by Eric Sloane contains much interesting reading. "Political Parties In A New Nation" by William Nisbet Chambers is an interesting account of the growth of political parties in this country. "Man and Dolphin by John C. Lilly is an interesting account of experiments in training dolphins.

"Louis Reitz is the author of the very useful "Biological and Chemical Control of Plant and Animal Pests." Another userful but specialized book is "Industrial Housekeeping, Its Technology and Technique" by Edwin B. Feldman. Bruce Tegner's complete book of self-defense is a book which will interest many men and boys. "Jazz Panorama" by Martin Williams will be of interest to those who like this type of music. An excellent criticism of the works of William Waulkner is "The Art of Faulkner's Novels" by Peter Swiggart.

For a very clear and informative account of conditions in Cuba today, be sure to read "The Cuban Dilemma" written by Ruby Hart Phillips. Many books have been written about the Roosevelt era and this week there is a very thoughtful new one "Franklin D. Roosevelt and the New Deal" by William E. Leuchtenburg. "The World of Mankind" is a very fine book published by Holiday Magazine.

Among this week's offerings are two new biographies of George Washington: "The Horseman of the Shenandoah" by Bliss Iseley is an account of the early days of his career, while "Patomac Squire" by Elswyth Thane deals with his later career. Arthur Link is the author of a new life of "Woodrow Wilson." Of special interest to people in Louisiana is "Alone No Longer" by Stanley Stein. This is an account of the experiences of an inmate of Carville. It details his fight against Hansen's disease and is a story of great courage. It is a book which we can be recommended to all readers.

Several interesting books have been added to the genealogy collection. E. Kay Kirkham has written a very thorough account of American church records available in the various states. There are three books of marriage records of Virginia Counties compiled by Elizabeth B. Wingo. One is "Marriages of Princess Anne County, Virginia, 1749-1821". The other two deal with Norfolk County, Virginia. Volume 1 covers the years from 1706 to 1792 and Volume II covers the years 1793 to 1817.

SIEGE HAS ENDED

Mellon Collection Exhibition Is Over

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Edward W. Bowers can sigh with relief when the Virginia Museum of Fine Arts closes its two massive fronts doors Sunday night.

For Virginians, the closed doors will mark the end of the four-month exhibition of the world-renowned Mellon collection of English art from the 1700-1850 period.

But for Bowers, who is host to the museum's visitors, it will mark the end of a siege of letters and telephone calls from all parts of the United States, Canada and Great Britain.

It also will mark the end of a record-breaking flow of visitors to the museum — more than 70,000 since the display opened in April. Sometimes as many as 1,800 persons have visited the museum each day to view the more than 450 English paintings on display.

As a result, Bowers has had his hands full each afternoon and evening the galleries were open. During the morning he answered letters and phone calls.

"Last week, for example," Bowers said, "there were two calls one morning from Canada." He recalled that one came from a woman in Montreal. She told him she wanted to drive the 1,700 miles to Richmond just to see the Mellon collection and she wanted to know the museum's hours. She made the trip.

Another of Bowers' duties during the exhibition has been filling requests for the Mellon collection catalogs. The two-volume, cloth-bound books have been hailed by leading art magazines in both this nation and in Europe as stepping stones in the field of art chronology.

Last week, as the exhibition drew to a close, letters and requests continued to pile up on Bowers' desk.

Battle Museum Dedication Held

LONE JACK, Mo. (AP)—A battlefield museum was dedicated here Friday on the 101st anniversary of fierce hand-to-hand combat between Union and Confederate troops.

"I tried more than 42 years ago," said former President Harry S. Truman, "to erect a monument to the Lone Jack battle. They didn't think the battle was important then," he said at the dedication.

The museum, a circular stone building, commemorates a battle in which 160 men died but which involved men from this area on both sides.

The Confederate side won the engagement and another skirmish two days later, but a Union drive soon expelled Southern forces from the area.

BOOKS

Butterfly Hunter Collects A Girl

THE COLLECTOR. By John Fowles. Little, Brown. $4.95.

There is no boy-meets-girl romance in Fowles' macabre novel.

Fred Clegg is a grubby little antisocial clerk who collects butterflies. He sees Miranda Grey, a 20-year-old student at an art school and secretly becomes fascinated with her. He shadows her without even speaking to her.

Things might have gone no further. But Fred wins a fortune in a soccer pool, and in his new idleness his warped little mind gradually develops the idea that instead of worshipping his angel from afar, he should worship her from nearby. Without touching her.

For this purpose he acquires a remote old house with a great stone cellar, kidnaps the girl with a cunning trick, and holds her prisoner.

The author makes Clegg the first narrator, and there is a certain morbid interest in following his irrational maunderings. Then is sharp contrast we have the diary kept by Miranda, desperately rational at times.

The narrative itself is overlaid with some of Fowles' observations on the eternal strife between the intellectual and the knucklehead (philistine or bourgeois, if you prefer).

Fowles has written an imaginative book on a murky psychological theme, and he handles it with skill. If you don't mind the sticky abnormalities of Fred Clegg, the book may interest you. And perhaps next time Fowles will turn his obvious talents to a less fetid theme.

Mad Scramble Makes For The Light Reading

THE OID MASTERS. By Thomas Baird. Harcourt, Brace. $4.95.

When a major work by Watteau comes on the market, you can be sure there will be competition for it. In Baird's novel, the scramble becomes thoroughly mad.

An odd old art dealer, Edward Maule, finds himself whipsawed around in this scramble, which soon become triangular.

First there is the ardent collector Arthur Van Zandt, followed by one of his rivals, a Greek shipowner and industrialist, Theodore (Croesus) Cariatis — who may not know art, but who knows a snooty Mademoiselle Angelique. And finally there is Matt McCaffrey, director of a Midwestern museum, who is backed up by his angel Barney Kant. Barney is not very couth, but he has a lot of money.

Complications develop in many directions. Van Zandt's money is controlled largely by his wife Henrietta, a pompous old spook who does not want him to have the picture. Their son Artie and Cariatis' daughter Ursula have found they have one thing in common — frequent visits to psychanalysts; Baird has a lot of fun spoofing the headshrinkers.

That's not all. There is an art restorer named Pearson Tait, kooky as a cucumber, who with the unwitting help of his wife (just back from a fern-hunting expedition in the South Seas) nearly wrecks the whole affair.

The many plot switches have just enough adroitness to sound fairly plausible. The characters are caricatured, but amusingly. There is a scene, in which Artie and Ursula steal off to a motel, that would get a lot of laughs as a stage farce.

All in all, there is not much in this book but entertainment, but there's plenty of that. If you're looking for some light reading with a tang, try this one.

'Duffy' Dies In Hollywood On Saturday

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Ed Gardner, known to millions as Archie, wisecracking bartender on radio and television's "Duffy's Tavern," died Saturday at Good Samaritan Hospital. He was 62.

Gardner became famous in the 1940s for drawling into the phone, in a broad Astoria accent: "Duffy's Tavern. Archie speakin'. Duffy ain't heah."

A hospital spokesman said death came at 9:50 a.m. Gardner had been hospitalized for two weeks with a liver disease. An autopsy will be performed, officials said.

With him when he died were his wife, Simone, and their two sons, Edward Jr., 19, and Stephen, 15.

Gardner, whose Hollywood career began as a producer, often joked about his start as an actor. He originated the "Duffy's Tavern" radio show, but couldn't find a good mug type to play Archie, so he stepped into the role himself.

For years he was known as the prototype of the easy-going, eccentric barkeep, who dispensed practical wisdom, zany advice, understanding and humor along with the cup that cheers.

Duffy himself never showed up at Duffy's Tavern, although he sometimes phoned. Both the tavern and Duffy were Gardner's inventions, and the phone calls, both from Duffy and for him, set the show rolling.

Born in Astoria, N.Y., Gardner was a representative for the J. Walter Thompson Advertising Agency before he became a producer.

He originated the Rudy Vallee-John Barrymore radio show and later directed George Burns and Gracie Allen, Bing Crosby, Al Jolson and Fanny Brice in their radio shows.

Gardner was married to Actress Shirley Booth for 13 years before he wed New York radio and stage actress Simone Hegeman 21 years ago.

NO CAMPING SITE

OSTIGLIA, Italy (UPI) — Two British couples, Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Andrew and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Taylor, discovered Saturday that what appeared to be a special camping site was really the cemetery of nearby Serravalle Po. They were awakened this morning by a grave digger who told them of their mistake.

A Novel For The Women

There's an engaging youngster in this book named Annie, and she is enough of a loyal, persistent, striving and self-sacrificing but determinedly righteous personality to be memorable.

The time is 1927. Carl Brown and Annie McGairy have fallen in love in Brooklyn. (Some will remember that Betty Smith once wrote a very popular novel called "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn.")

Carl has been pushed scholastically by an overambitious mother, so that at the age of 20 he is entering law studies at a Midwestern university. Annie, having just turned the legal age of 18, escapes a dull mother and ominous stepfather, follows Carl to the university and marries him. On both sides, the in - laws are stern.

So the narrative is about young love and the economic struggles of a college student and his worshipping young wife. Carl works desperately at various odd jobs. Annie, with pathetic attempts to make herself into the image of a coed, finds herself intrigued as an auditor in college courses, and almost becomes a writer.

Always there are the pressing economic needs and their crippling corollaries. But integrity triumphs, right down to graduatoin day.

It is a novel that moves rather slowly, and male readers may drop out before it is over, mumbling to themselves. Yet Annie is a "natural," and her spirit grows on you. Her story is worth telling, for sometimes sentimentality is transmuted into a priceless token of humanity's compassion.

Meridian School Burns Saturday

No injuries were reported. Because of the summer season, only a few children were reported in the building.

It was believed the fire started at the top of the building. Three stories of the building were reported on fire.

Follow Smokey's ABC's. Always break matches in two. Be sure all fires are out. Crush all smokes dead out in an ash tray.

CURTAIN CALL

With performances of "Send Me No Flowers," tonight and Monday night at 8:15 p.m., the Summer Theatre Festival sponsored jointly by Northeast State College and Little Theatre comes to the end of its third season.

Anyone who wants an evening of laughter should expose himself to the rib - tickling antics now on view at Strauss Playhouse as George Kimball, in the person of Arthur Griffith, romps in and out of one zany situation after another with his wife, their old college pal, their next door neighbor and the doctor, played respectively by Gail Sawyer, Bill Wells, Beryl Franklin and Bob Evans Sr.

Some of the funniest action takes place in the dream sequences when the characters are imagined in improbable, but hilarious situations of temptation, panhandling and other fantasies. These episodes give Linda Martin, Jackie Hodgson, Bill Brodie and Jack Trousdale a chance to contribute fine comic bits. And Phil Lisotta brings the house down as a cheery cemetery lot salesman.

OUT OF ACTION

Illness cost us the services of Barbara McCoy, assistant to the director, and Doug Shaw who was to play Vito. Richard M. Clark stepped in for the latter and seeing him in his dream sequence is alone worth the admission price of $1.50 for adults and $1 for students. So come on out to Strauss Playhouse tonight or tomorrow night before "Send Me No Flowers" has laughed its way off the boards.

The backstage crew deserves plaudits for keeping up with the many light and sound effects and all the prop changes. Stan Wyatt waves the baton as stage manager with Beryl Franklin's visiting nephews, Mike and Keith, as stage crew, Mickey Burford and Murray Burfford on make-up, Jerilyn Gilstrap on sound, Sue Parkerson and Carolyn Friis on lights and Sue Turner and Linda Martin on props.

The "Send Me No Flowers" set is one of the most stylish we have had and reflects the combined talents of Richard Clark, technical director Raymond Lucero and Craig Morgan of Trend House.

VACATION TIME

After Monday, Strauss Playhouse will be dark for a few weeks. Richard and Pat Clark head for Texas on their annual vacation with Ishtar, their Siamese cat. Raymond is planning to get his military service in back of him before taking up graduate studies at the University of Texas. Right after Labor Day, watch for an announcement of tryouts for the opening show of the 1963-64 winter season. As this will be the 150th major production of Little Theatre history, something spectacular is planned.

As the summer season closes, Little Theatre expresses thanks to all who have contributed to its success. Orchids to summer chairman Larry Shipman, the actors and backstage crews, Northeast State College, Marillyn Taylor, Lady Stahl, Rudy Gandy, the News-Star—World, KNOE-TV, all the radio stations and other news media, Central Savings Bank and Holiday Inn for their bulletin boards, the many firms and individuals who supplied materials and services, and Barbara Easterling and her co-workers on the children's show. You were all wonderful.

LOOKING AHEAD

Looking ahead to the new season, Mary Lee Milam and Jackie Woods have arranged for their workers to make contact with last year's patrons in an effort to get their memberships renewed over the next few weeks. Patrons may also mail their check for $30 to Box 868. We hope that some of last season's sustaining members will see fit to become patrons as the added cost of $15 is tax-deductible and enables Little Theatre to improve its service to the community.

Information concerning all classes of membership — patron, sustaining, regular and student—may be obtained by calling Mrs. Milam at FAirfax 2-3535 or Mrs. Woods at FAirfax 3-0765. Remember, the board has voted to close the membership when a total of 3,000 is reached and with the exceptional season in prospect, this limit could easily be realized.

CAMERA Angles

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

An international color picture competition open to both amateur and professional photographers in over 80 countries has been announced by Eastman Kodak Co. Its goal is the selection and exhibition of 300 color photos in a special display at the 1964 New York World's Fair.

The contest has a theme: "The World and Its People" and any Kodak transparency or color print is eligible if it illustrates the theme and is entered by Oct. 31, 1963. There are no other restrictions.

Each country will collect and judge its own color photos in regional areas. Then the finalists from the more than 1,700 regional winners will be assembled in Rochester, N.Y., by the end of the year for final judging. The 300 selected exhibition pictures will each receive a World's Fair silver medal, a certificate of outstanding achievement and $100. Besides exhibition at the World's Fair, the color photos will be shown around the world.

The contest theme is a stimulating one. It provides incentive for photographers to take a more careful look around them to record the world and its people in colorful, more meaningful pictures.

It might also pay to look through your past color pictures to see if any suit the theme. Your local camera stores should have the entry blanks by now. Get one and join the international picture parade through the universal language of photography.

EASIER LOADING

The move towards easier film loading for both movie and still cameras gains added momentum.

Three new cartridge-loading 8mm movie cameras are announced by Bell & Howell to add to the one which made its debut earlier this year. Each camera in this Autoload line accepts a cartridge which can be preloaded with standard 8mm roll film. This adds the advantages of magazine shooting to the economy of roll film.

The cartridge cameras automatically stop after 25-feet of film has been exposed. Then the cartridge can be flipped over in seconds or exchanged for another type of film, if the occasion warrants.

In the still camera field, Afa A.G. of West Germany is coming out with its own version of the drop-in film cartridge which was introduced by Kodak a few months ago in its Instamatic camera line. Agfa, however, will retain traditional film sizes and standard negative formats.

It is expected that other camera and film manufacturers will incorporate the new film-loading system in their production plans.

ON THE HOUSE

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

The most biting comment that can be made about the unhandyman ability of someone is: "He can't even drive a nail straight." While generally used as an exaggeration, the statement sometimes is true. Not everyone can drive a nail straight.

Occasionally it is due to the penetrating resistance of the particular kind of wood or the type of nail being used. But more often than not it is because the nail was struck improperly — at an angle, instead of with the axis of the hammer head in line with the nail.

There's a lot more to the use of nails than the matter of straight nailing. The following tips may help you to do a better job:

When doing rough work, where extra holding strength is necessary, clinching is often used. This consists of driving a long nail through two boards and then bending the excess of the nail into the wood. When a nail is clinched in the direction of the grain, it is easier and neater. However, when it is clinched against the grain, which requires heavier hammer blows, it will be stronger.

BETTER RESULTS

You will get better results when driving a nail by using a number of moderate hammer blows rather than a few strong blows.

Wood can be prevented from splitting by drilling a guide hole for the nail. In the absence of a drill, use a small nail first, driving it in part way. Carefully extract it and drive the larger nail into the same hole.

It is vital that nails used in soft wood have extra holding power, use cut nails rather than wire nails. Where maximum holding power is desired, threaded nails do the best job. They often are selected for their ability to give good service even when driven into green or partially seasoned lumber.

Where hammer dents may spoil a project, use finishing nails, driving them to within a fraction of an inch of the surface and then using a nailset to push them below the surface. Wood putty or plastic wood can be used to fill the indention.

AT PREMIUM

If space is at a premium, a nail can be started by striking it with the flat of the hammer head rather than the face.

A nail driven into hardwood is often difficult to extract. If you can get the nail started on its way out, place a block of wood between the hammer and the board and then renew the effort with a claw hammer. The added leverage will do the job that sheer strength could not.

When you have to do a considerable amount of repititious nailing, use one of the nail aprons that can be purchased cheaply or obtained without cost from some lumber dealers and hardware stores.

RETIRES TO WINGS

NEW YORK (AP) — Carol Channing is postponing extended tour in Bernard Shaw's "The Millionairess" for another workout on the musical stage.

She has signed for the title role in "Dolly," tune adaptation of "The Matchmaker" due on Broadway this winter.

Miss Channing has been on summer circuit in the comedy and intended to continue her travels until February.

Charles Lowe, her husband, explains the switch is being made because the musical cannot be delayed, whereas the Shaw script "is always available."

TONY BILL IS in a quandry as Jill St. John snuggles on his lap in a scene from the new Technicolor comedy, "Come Blow Your Horn," which opens today at the Jim Theatre. Bill plays Frank Sinatra's kid brother and Jill St. John is their upstairs neighbor.

TEAMING UP FOR THE latest Gidget film, "Gidget Goes to Rome," are James Darren and Cindy Carrol. The picture opens today at the Paramount Theatre.

Stamp News

Two new, attractively designed sets of stamps depicting and honoring worldwide themes have been issued by Nigeria. One set of two stamps in triangular design heralds the 11th World Scout Jamboree which is taking place in Greece this year. The 3 pence gray, green and vermillion features a Greek and a Nigerian Scout shaking hands. The one shilling black and vermillion features a group of Scouts dancing around a camp fire. Each of these stamps also bears the Scouts' emblem and the text: "Eleventh World Scout Jamboree 1963."

The other Nigerian set contains three stamps and is dedicated to the Red Cross Centenary. The three pence shows first aid being administered. The six pensce depicts ambulances in action and the 1 shilling 3 pence shows the silhouette of Red Cross workers giving aid and the hand of a youth. Each stamp bears the International Red Cross Centenary emblem of the ancient oil lamp next to the familiar red cross.

Although most Americans are familiar with the names Sam Houston, Cordell Hull and John James Audubon who will be featured on forthcoming U. S. stamps, few have heard of John Muir who will be philatelically honored this year.

Muir is probably America's most noted naturalist. He is credited with the establishment of Yosemite National Park in California and the preservation of the giant Sequoia trees there. Muir, friend of Theodore Roosevelt, induced the Interior Department to set aside lands in California to protect the Sequoias and wrote many articles and books on the beauty of nature.

Word comes from Czechoslovakia concerning three new sets of stamps. One set of two commemorates the 40th anniversary of the Czech Radio. Another set of two stamps honors the 40th anniversary of the Czechoslovakian Air Lines. Each of these stamps shows one of the latest types of jet planes being used. A third set of two stamps pays tribute to the 1,100th anniversary of the Moravian Empire.

Greece has issued a set of five large - size stamps to honor the centenary of the reigning dynasty. All values have the same design showing the portraits of five kings — George I, Constantine, Alexander, George II and the presently reigning king, Paul.

U.S. Team Crushes Foes In Davis Play

Doubles Give Yanks Lead In Semifinals

By JIM BACON

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Inspired Chuck McKinley and Dennis Ralston crushed Mexico's favored Rafael Osuna and Antonio Palafox in a slashing doubles display 6-1, 6-3, 8-6 and sent the United States into a commanding 2-1 lead in the American Zone Davis Cup tennis semifinals.

The Yanks, knocked out of the Zone title by the Mexicans 3-2 last year, can clinch the series by winning one of Sunday's two remaining singles matches. They're overwhelmingly favored.

In the first match, starting at 1 p.m. PDT (3 pm EST) on the hard courts of the Los Angeles Tennis Club, young Ralston meets his Southern California roommate Osuna. McKinley faces an off-form Palafox in the fifth, and possibly deciding, encounter.

If they beat the Mexicans, the Americans must defeat Venezuela for the Zone title, then play England's European champions and India's Far Eastern kings en route to December's Challenge Round against Australia. Its a long road.

The tempestuous, 21-year-old Ralston, onetime Peck's Bad Boy of tennis and goat of the American defeat last year in Mexico City, was the dominant figure of Saturday's vital doubles.

Facing the team that is rated the world's best, holder of the Wimbledon and U.S. championships, Ralson gave an overwhelming demonstration of smashing, slashing tennis.

Serving powerfully and making few mistakes, he kept the pressure on the dazed Mexicans with his killing overhead and his sharp, well-placed volleys.

It was Ralston who served six double faults in a row and generally collapsed in the 1962 Davis Cup doubles match that caused the surprising defeat of the American team. Mexico went on to the Challenge Round and lost to Australia, 5-0.

McKinley, the Wimbledon champion who was beaten in five sets by a razor-keen, cat-like Osuna Friday, bounced back with a vengeneance. The Trinity College star from San Antonio, Tex., bounded around the court, scrapping for every point, and slugging away at the ball as if he had a personal grude against it.

The Mexicans, normally a poised, sharp - shooting unit, played as if they didn't know what struck them. They had beaten McKinley and Ralston in their last two matches and were strongly favored in this one.

Young Palafox, a student at Corpus Christi (Tex.) University, was unable to snap out of the slump which showed up in his singles match Friday with Ralston, who won it easily in four sets.

Antonio, a strong server and a murderous volleyer and smasher, made error after error on the simpliest shots.

He never has been able to regain form since his training was interrupted just before the American match by the death of his father in Mexico. He lost several days of practice.

The Americans' doubles victory was even more astounding because of its decisiveness.

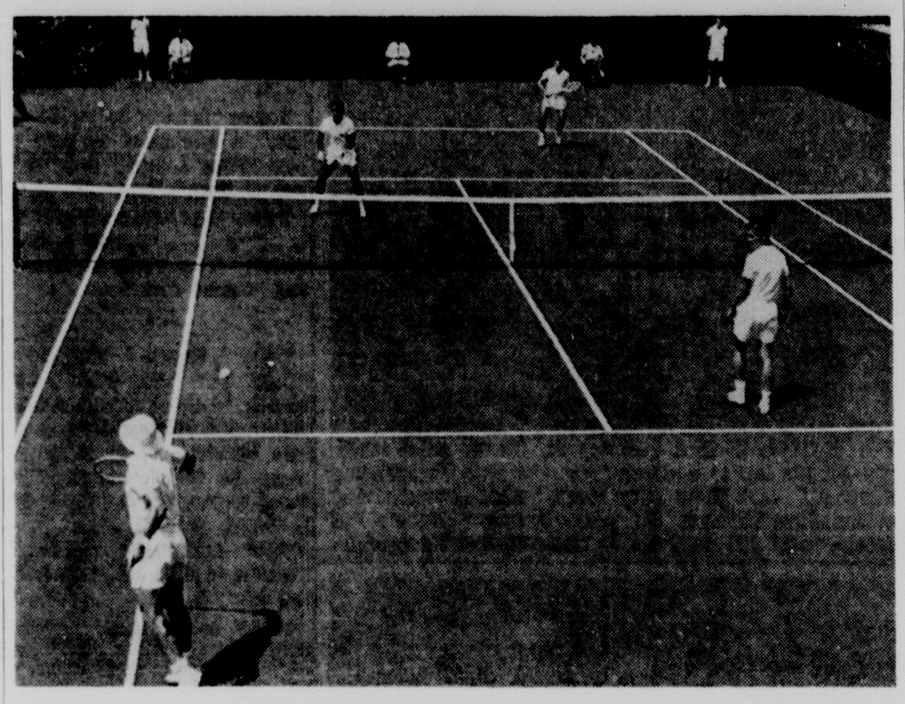

The match required only a total of 76 minutes, with the first set lasting only 17 minutes and the second 19. McKinley and Ralston never dropped a service.

In the opening set, the Mexicans won the first game on Palafox' service. Then the Americans swept six straight games. They cracked Osuna twice—in the third and seventh games—and Palafox in the fifth.

The vital service break in the second set came in the eighth game, on Palafox's delivery. McKinley and Ralston unleashed such a barrage of low, sharp service returns that the Mexicans didn't have a chance.

The third set went with service through the first 12 games and then in the 13th game, with Osuna at the service line, the two teams engaged in exciting exchanges that brought the crowd to its feet.

Finally, the Americans gained the advantage. On the next point, there was a long and brilliant rally. Finally, Osuna moved to the net with a shoulder-high volley which he should have put away cleanly. The ball banged into the net. That was the decisive blow.

Chicago Rookies Combine Talents In Yankees' Loss

CHICAGO (AP)—Pitcher Gary Peters and third baseman Pete Ward, prime candidates for American League Rookie of The Year honors, combined their talents Saturday to lead the Chicago White Sox to a 2-0 victory over the New York Yankees.

Peters, 26-year-old southpaw, checked the world champions' power with a four-hitter. Ward, 24, drove in both the Sox runs with a sacrifice fly in the first inning and with the second of his three successive singles in the fifth.

Starter Al Downing took the loss, leaving him 8-4 and 1-2 against the Sox for the season. Tom Metcalf replaced him in the eighth after Mickey Mantle pinch hit for him and drew a walk, one of four Peters yielded.

Peters collected his eighth straight victory and hasn't been beaten since the league leading Yankees did it in New York July 4. His first triumph over the Yankees padded his record to 13-5 and gave him his seventh complete game in his last eight starts, three of them shutouts.

Peters fanned five, including rookie Joe Pepitone twice, and the only extra base hit off him was Tom Tresh's double in the seventh. The lefty, undefeated in daytime games, boosted his strike out record to 139 in 172 innings.

It was only the seventh time the Yankees, whose edge over the Sox was trimmed to 8½ games, had been blanked, three by Chicago. It was Peters fourth whitewashing job and his earned run average now is 1.88, lowest in the majors.

The Yankees main threat came in the seventh when Tresh led off with his double. Then Elston Howard's sinking line drive was stabbed on the run by right-fielder Mike Hershberger, whose rifle throw held Tresh on second. Harry Bright flied out to Hershberger and, after Hector Lopez had walked, Pepitone fanned to retire the side.

In the fifth, with two out, a single by Jim Lemon and another Nicholson walk set up a run when Ward singled.

Promising Neck Placed On Bench

RENSSELAER, Ind. (AP)—Tommy Neck, promising defensive halfback for the Chicago Bears, has been put on the bench because of torn leg ligaments.

Neck, of Marksville, La., was a rookie last year. Previously he was a member of Louisiana State's defensive unit called the Chinese Bandits.

The Bears' doctor, Theodore Fox, said the leg would be in a cast about three weeks. It was injured in a game against the Washington Redskins Thursday night.

Bunning Halts Angels With 5-Hitter, 6-1

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Slim Jim Bunning stopped Los Angeles on five singles and let only one runner past second Saturday night in pitching the Detroit Tigers to a 6-1 decision over the Angels.

The Tiger right-hander, who pushed his record to 9-12 for the season, had a three-hit shutout going into the ninth when the Angels put together singles by Leon Wagner and Bob Rodgers for their lone run.

John Pennel Reaches High For A Friend

SEATTLE (AP) — John Pennel of Northeast Louisiana State pole vaulted 16-6 Saturday just to help a friend—Brian Sternberg, who lies paralyzed in the University of Washington hospital.

And for the same reason Jim Grelle of Los Angeles ran a mile in 4:04.4, leading a field of five others who were paying tribute to the injured youth in an athletic afternoon billed as "Brian Sternberg Day."

They performed at halftime of an exhibition game between Kansas City and Oakland of the American Football League. A special closed-circuit television hookup carried the day's activities to Sternberg's hospital bed.

Only 13,500 attended and receipts of $30,000 did not meet expenses. Sponsoring Greater Seattle, however, announced it would provide $3,100—the promised minimum—to a fund for Sternberg.

Earlier in the day John Uelses, who had taken Sternberg's place on an American track team, presented him with a special medal struck for Sternberg by the Russians and given Uelses in Moscow.

In their vaulting exhibition Uelses cleared 16-1 and Pennel, trying to beat his own world mark of 16-10¼, missed three times at 17 feet. Keith Forman of Oregon finished second in the mile, trailing Grelle by 15 yards.

After the competition, each athlete stepped to the microphone to voice a get-well wish to Sternberg, who held the world vault record before his accident. And from his bed, via the public address system, Sternberg spoke his thanks to the athletes and the crowd.

Included in the messages of encouragement for Brian was one from President Kennedy.

BRIAN STERNBERG, University of Washington former world record pole vaulter who has been in a Seattle hospital since being paralyzed in a trampoline accident, is presented some 1964 Olympic Games brochures and a special winner's medal given Sternberg by the Russians in absentia at the recent U.S.-Soviet track meet. John Pennel of Northeast Louisiana State College, who holds the present world vault record, and John Uelses, right, of LaSalle College, who replaced Sternberg for the 1963 Olympic team, make the presentations. Chiefs Defeat Raiders 35-21

SEATTLE (AP) — Quarterback Eddie Wilson fired three touchdown passes and plunged for another score Saturday as the Kansas City Chiefs trounced Oakland's Raiders 35-21 in an American Football League exhibition game.

Only 13,000 fans claimed space in the 55,000-seat University of Washington stadium although the game was billed as a charity event for Brian Sternberg, the Washington pole vaulter who was paralyzed this summer in a trampoline accident.

Sponsoring Greater Seattle said it would give the Sternberg fund a check for $3,000 and estimated the $30,000 gross receipts were some $40,000 below expenses.

Bald Tittle Leads Giants

CLEVELAND (AP)—Bald, old Y. A. Tittle capped a fine performance by setting up the deciding touchdown with a pass to the one yard line late in the fourth quarter Saturday and led the New York Giants to a 24-21 victory over the Detroit Lions in the opener of a National Football League exhibition doubleheader.

The Baltimore colts met the Cleveland Browns in the nightcap of the doubleheader before a crowd at Municipal Stadium estimated at between 75,000 and 80,000.

Punts	6-43.5	6-47.5

The Giants, Eastern Division champions the past two seasons, had blown a 17-7 lead and were trailing 21-17 when the 36-year-old Tittle hit Aaron Thomas on a slant pass of about 14 yards that carried to the Lion one. Rookie Nat Craddock bulled over with about four minutes to go for the winning score.

The Giants were sluggish, uninspired and unable to move the ball until Tittle came off he bench in the second period. At that time, the Giants had a minus net gain on yardage and trailed 7-0.

Musial's Single Puts Cards In New Berth

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Stan Musial, playing his last season in the majors at 42, came through with a pinch single in the 10th inning Saturday that put the St. Louis Cardinals into a second-place tie with San Francisco on an 8-7 victory over the Giants.

Charlie James opened the 10th with a single and was sacrificed to second by Julian Javier. Gary Kolb, running for James, scored when Musial singled to left.

Bill White's two-run homer with two out in the bottom of the ninth had tied the score for the Cardinals after Ed Bailey's two-run homer in the top of the ninth had broken a 5-5 tie.

The Willie Mays-Bailey combination brought the Giants from behind to tie the game in the eighth when each hit home runs off Ernie Broglion No. 30 for Willie and No. 15 for Bailey.

Bailey's two-run blast in the ninth came after relief pitcher Bobby Shantz had retired the first two Giant batters.

The Giants were only one out away from victory in the ninth when Billy Hoeft was brought in to face White in a lefty vs. lefty situation. Curt Flood, who had doubled, was on second base with two out. White came through with his 22nd homer off the pavilion roof in right field.

Flood's three-run homer in the fourth inning helped the Cards pile up their early lead against Juan Marichal who was removed for a pinch hitter in the eighth after the score was tied.

TOPS IN MAJORS

Koufax Wins 19th; Bums Defeat Mets

NEW YORK (AP)—Sandy Koufax won his 19th game, tops in the majors, Saturday when the Los Angeles Dodgers downed the New York Mets 3-2 but needed relief in the ninth after he lost the chance for his 11th shutout.

The victory boosted the Dodgers' National League lead to five games over the San Francisco Giants and St. Louis Cardinals, now tied for second. The Cards gained a share of the No. 2 spot by beating the Giants 8-7 in 10 innings Saturday.

Ron Hunt's leadoff homer in the ninth was the first run the Mets had scored off Koufax in 42 innings. The Dodger ace is the co-holder of the major league record for shutouts in a season by left-handed pitchers at 10, a mark he shared with Carl Hubbell of the New York Giants who did it in 1933. The record for right-handers is 16 set by Grover Cleveland Alexander of the Phillies in 1916.

Frank Howard, John Roseboro and Wally Moon hit home runs off loser Tracy Stallard for the only Dodger runs. Howard slammed No. 21 in the second, Roseboro hit his sixth in the third and Moon also got No. 6 in the fifth.

Hunt's sixth home run, followed by Frank Thomas' single in the ninth, prompted Manager Walter Alston to bring in Bob Miller to replace Koufax who had struck out nine and allowed six hits.

Miller faced only one man, Jim Hickman, who was thrown out at first after Dick Tracewski failed to touch second to start a double play. Alston went to lefthander Ron Perranoski who struck out pinch hitter Tim Harkness but remained in trouble when Ron Fairly juggled a throw for an error. Pinch runner Al Jackson scored on a wild pitch to pinch hitter Duke Snider who ended the game by striking out.

The defeat mathematically eliminated the last place Mets. It was their 82nd defeat, dooming Casey Stengel's men to a sub-.500 percentage for the 162-game season.

Maury Wills reached base three times on a double, single and an error but was thrown out stealing in the first, the 14th time in 40 attempts. Last year when he set a record with 104 stolen bases, he was caught only 13 times in 117 attempts.

Rodriguez Drops Moyer On Rights

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Piston-punching Luis Rodriguez dropped Denny Moyer with clubbing rights in the eighth and ninth rounds then stopped him in the ninth round on a technical knockout Saturday night in a battle of recently deposed champions at Miami Beach Convention hall.

Referee Billy Regan called a halt to the uneven battle at 1:39 of the ninth after Moyer had gotten up glassy-eyed from his second knockdown, obviously unable to continue.

The Cuban-born Rodriguez, gunning for another shot at the welterweight crown he lost to Emile Griffith June 8 at New York, was a big leader on all cards when he began his devastating attack in the eighth.

He nailed Moyer with four smashing rights to the head in the eighth, the last one sending the Portland junior middleweight down for an eight count. Moyer was wobbly when he got up but the bell saved him from further punishment.

A terrific right in the ninth sent Moyer down again. He regained his feet at the count of five but Regan quickly stepped into end the fight.

It was the third straight defeat for Moyer. Earlier this year, he dropped two 15-round decisions to Ralph Dupas, losing his junior middleweight title and failing in his effort to regain it.

A crowd of 2,618, including member of the World Boxing Association here for their annual convention, paid $51,046 to see Rodriguez, a Miami Beach favorite, rack up the 23rd knockout of his career.

The fight started slowly and in the first round the crowd appealed for both men to "come on and fight." Rodriguez stepped up his attack in the second and pulled away to a commanding lead.

Judge Gus Jacobson gave Rodriguez a 79-73 margin. Judge Cal Gardner called it 80-71 and Referee Billy Regan 80-70. It was 80-74 on the Associated Press card.

Rodriguez weighed 151½, six pounds less than Moyer.

Brandt's Homer Carries Barber To 17th Victory

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Jackie Brandt supplied the offensive backing for Steve Barber's 17th victory Saturday night by lashing a 3-run homer, a double and a single to lead the Baltimore Orioles to a 6-1 triumph over the Kansas City Athletics.

The Orioles jolted Ed Rakow for four runs in the third inning. John Powell, who also had three hits, singled in the first run and Brandt homered with Russ Snyder and Powell aboard. It was his 10th homer of the season.

DIXIE WINNERS

Coach Praises His Champions

By RICK BRYAN
World Sports Editor

"I had no doubt we could go all the way."

This was the comment of Coach Lanis Pettit one day after his Monroe team defeated Kilgore, Texas twice in a row, 7-1 and 2-0, to win the first annual Dixie Senior World Series. Kilgore, which had beaten Monroe 1-0 earlier and was unbeaten going into the final day, was generally regarded the favorite.

"A lot of people thought we were going to be just the host team," Pettit said, "but I didn't have any doubts."

"Some of our boys were young, but every one of them was first string in high school. And they wanted it so bad they could have gotten it without a coach. All 16 came out to play."

PITCHING AND DEFENSE

"It was our pitching and defense that got it for us. We played good defense and we never had to make a pitching change except to save some of the boys for later games."

Three Monroe hurlers carried the load. John Elmendorf and Kenny Cupples both won two games apiece without losing in the series. The other pitcher Darryl Barnes was 1-1, but he pitched the one-hitter which gave Monroe a 2-0 win and the championship in the final game. And Barnes' defeat was a 1-0 three-hit decision to Kilgore earlier, an effort which would have been easily enough to win most games. Barnes also broke his own tournament strickout record of 11 by fanning 13 in the final game and set a total tournament strikeout record of 24 over two games.

"We only allowed seven runs in six games," Pettit said. "We figured we had the best defensive club out there. We didn't hit as well as we might have but our defense held up all the way."

EPPINETTE IMPRESSIVE

"Jay Eppinette was very impressive on third base," Pettis said. That's his natural position and he made some fine plays there. He has quick hands." Eppinette, he explained, had played a variety of infield positions, but was most at home on third.

"And with Joe Canal and Wally Rugg at short and second you can just forget about that position. You don't have any worries. That Rugg really keeps his head all the time. And Canal reacts very quickly.

Monroe did have some good hitting, Pettit continued. "We got the hits when we needed them, anyway," he said. "We left very few men on base."

He singled out Barnes, Canal and first baseman Richard Wilkerson for their stick work. "Rugg," he added "was a big help. He can really put the ball where they aren't, and his bunting is fine."

CAME RIGHT BACK

As a team, Pettit called Monroe, "as fine a bunch as I've ever had on one ball club. Whenever they got behind they came right back. They played that way throughout the tournament and that's what it takes."

"One boy who helped a lot," Pettit said, "was Butch Lee. He kept the scorebook, kept up with the opposition's players and generally kept me posted all the time."

"I thought West Monroe had a fine team," he said. "It was one of the stronger teams. They had some bad breaks like that Jones boy (David) getting hurt."

Jones, the West Monroe first baseman and one of the team's best hitters, pinched his left shoulder muscles and missed the game with Monroe. He is also expected to miss a week of football practice at West Monroe High.

"That Texas bunch, the coach, the manager, and all the boys were the nicest bunch of people we've met in a long time," Pettit said. "It was a pleasure to play against them."

WINNERS OF the first Dixie Senior World Series were the Monroe All-Stars who defeated Kilgore, Texas in two straight games Friday night for the crown. From left to right the all-stars are, first row: Darrel Barnes, Roy Holloway, Walter Beach, Wally Rugg, Gene Galligan, Larry Sheffield, Jay Eppinette, Lynn Accardo and bat boy Kenny Johnson. Boston Hammers Cleveland Crew For 10-3 Victory

BOSTON (AP)—Carl Yastrzemski strengthened his American League batting lead, driving in four runs with a homer and two singles, as Boston hammered Cleveland 10-3 Saturday.

Lu Clinton and Frank Malzone each added homers while Dick Stuart contributed a two-run single in a 14-hit attack which helped righthander Bill Monbouquette achieve his 16th victory of the season.

Working with only two days' rest, Monbo gained his winningest record in the majors on a 10-hit effort.

Yastrzemski boosted his batting average three points to .336. He extended his hitting streak to seven games when he hit a first pitch for his 13th homer with one on in the first inning. He singled his next two trips, driving in a run each time, before he was called out at first on a hairline play in the sixth as he bid for an infield hit.

Chuck Schilling produced four straight hits before the Indians could get him out. The Sox second baseman had a double and three singles, drove in a run and scored three.

Stuart's single in the five-run third sent his league leading RBI total to 87.

Writers Start Fund To Build Bronze Musial

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The St. Louis baseball writers will begin a fund drive to build a bronze statue of Stan Musial at the new St. Louis Riverfront Stadium in commemoration of the great career of the Cardinal star.

Musial, who broke numerous records, led the National League in hitting and won the most valuable player award several times each, announced his retirement last Monday after 22 years as a Cardinal. He will play his last game Sept. 29.

Mayor Raymond R. Tucker of St. Louis pledged his full support to efforts to pay "this great tribute to a great ball player who was even greater citizen of the city, state and country."

The baseball writers will sponsor a dinner as a focal point of fund-raising efforts on Oct. 20. At the dinner, Musial will be given the writers' Dr. Robert F. Hyland award for meritorious service to sports.

Charles Nagel of the St. Louis art museum said the statue, to make a sizable impression outdoors, would have to be about nine feet tall, minus pedestal.

Racer Killed

SEDALIA, Mo. (AP) — A race driver was killed Saturday when his car spun out of control at the Missouri State Fair track and overturned about 15 times.

ANOTHER CHAMPIONSHIP?

Mexico Sends More Little League Hopes

By JACK RUTLEDGE

This was the team that brought Mexico its only world baseball championship.

The present Obispado team, playing in the World Series Aug. 20-24, may be as good. It may not. Certainly, it cannot attract the attention created by those first winners in 1957 and 1958.

What became of these original players? Did they turn professional? Did they quit baseball? Has Monterrey forgotten them?

A check shows that of the Fabulous Fourteen who brought fame to Mexican baseball, only four are still active on the diamond and only two turned pro.

But Monterrey has not forgotten any of them. A large engraved plaque adorns a wall in the Central Patio of the Governor's Palace, a permanent reminder that the team is in Mexico's Hall of Fame.

The four who still appear on diamonds are:

Angel Macias, probably the most famous of the group, who pitched a perfect no-hit, no-run game against La Mesa, Calif., winning 4-0 during the Series.

Macias is now with the Mexican League team in Reynosa, affiliated with the Los Angeles Dodgers. But he no longer pitches. He plays in the outfield, or occasionally at shortstop. Still small, he has not gained enough weight to be a hard hitter. He is doing well, and some think he may yet make the big leagues.

Hector Torres, almost as famous as Macias, was a star in the 1958 Williamsport games. He is now with the San Francisco Giants organization. Torres is a left-handed pitcher.

The other two still active on the diamond are third-baseman Fidel Ruiz and Norberto Villarreal, both serving as instructors in baseball to grammar school students. They do not play on any teams.

All of the others have, through circumstances or necessity, turned to other fields. Many are workers in factories in Monterrey, Mexico's largest industrial city.

Some have moved to other areas with their families, or to take jobs.

Monterrey baseball fans still call them the "Glorious Little Giants" (Gloriosos Pequenos Gigantes) and are prouder of them than of their Mexican League pro team which is in third place today—11 games behind Puebla, 6½ behind the Mexico City Red Devils.

The present Obispado squad swept the national championship series in Mexico City to win the right to represent Mexico in the United States.

Purkey Drives In Needed Run For Reds' Take

CINCINNATI (AP) — Bob Purkey, who often has had his troubles with the Chicago Cubs, drove in the winning run with a sacrifice fly Saturday and got some pitching help for a 2-1 Cincinnati Reds victory over the Bruins.

First it was Bill Henry and then Al Worthington who came to Purkey's rescue when he weakened in the eighth. Joe Nuxhall finished up the ninth.

Purkey had only a 10-14 lifetime record against the Cubs going into today's game but he fanned nine and walked only two before weakening.

The unearned runs that won the game for the Reds came in the fourth. Charley Neal singled with one out and went to third when Andre Rodgers' bobbled Don Pavlitch's grounder. Leo Cardenas singled Neal home and Purkey lofted his sacrifice fly to Billy Williams, scoring Pavletich, aft-

Braves Hang 4-1 Defeat On Houston

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Lefthander Denny Lemaster scattered six hits and won his ninth game Saturday night as the Milwaukee Braves defeated the Houston Colts 4-1 for their fifth victory in the last six starts.

Hank Aaron, the major leagues' runs batted in leader with 102, drove in the first two Milwaukee runs with a bases-loaded single in the third inning when the Braves took a 3-0 lead. Hits by Del Crandall and Frank Bolling produced the other Milwaukee run in the fourth.

The only run off Lemaster, now 9-8, was Bob Aspromonte's fifth home run in the seventh inning. Lemaster struck out eight, including the side in the first inning.

Dick Drott started fort he Colts and was charged with his 10th defeat against two victories. He left the game in the third inning because of a pulled thigh muscle. Reliever Don McMahon inherited a bases-loaded, one out situation and Aaron greeted him with a two-run single. McMahon then walked Ed Mathews to fill the bases again and walked Gene Oliver, forcing in the third run of the inning.

First-round leader Joe Corbett of Grenada was one stroke off the pace after firing an even-par 72 on the Greenville Country Club course.

Tied for third place were Wayne Williams of Greenwood and Clayton Cole of Monroe, La., with 142s. Williams fired a 72 and Cole a 69.

Hank Gantz of Belzoni and Jimmy Hoppen of Bogalusa, La., were tied for fifth place at 144.

AAU SWIMMING

Miss House Ends Losses, Anchors Unit For Victory

HIGH POINT, N.C. (AP) — Carolyn House, the nation's top women's swimmer last year, ended a series of heartbreaking losses Saturday to anchor the Los Angeles Athletic Club medley relay unit to a first place finish and its second straight ream championship at the National AAU senior women's swimming championships.

Miss House combined with Cathy Ferguson, Cindy Ford and Margie Templeton to register a 4:44.4 clocking for the 400-meter event. They nipped top challenger Santa Clara S.C. by half a foot.

The victory protected the two-point lead that the defending champions had going into the meet's final event. It gave them a final total of 70 points to Santa Clara's 64.

Other winners Saturday included defending champion Sharon Finneran, unattached, of Los Angeles, in the 200-meter butterfly in 2:31.8, Robyn Johnson of the Northern Virginia A.C. of Arlington, Va., in the 200-meter freestyle in 2:15.6, and Barbara McAlister Talmadge of the Dick Smith Swim Gym of Phoenix, Ariz., in the platform diving with 307.95 points.

Miss de Varona earned the meet's individual high point trophy with her record of two firsts and two seconds, with Ginnie Duenkel of the Summit, N.J., YMCA runner-up with two firsts, a third and a fourth.

Miss House, however, provided the victory margin for the Los Angeles squad. A triple winner last summer, the blonde 18-year-old Californian had lost two races by a one-foot margin at this meet, including the 200 freestyle earlier in the day to Miss Johnson.

In the climatic 100-meter free leg of the relay, Carolyn overhauled 13-year-old Pokey Watson of Santa Clara in the final 20 meters to win by a two-foot margin.

In the race, the LA.. team had splits of 1:10:4 for Miss Ferguson in the backstroke, 1:22.9 for Miss Ford in the breast, 1:08.4 by Miss Templeton in the fly and 1:03.0 by Miss House.

The time of 4:44.4 set a championship meet record. Santa Clara was clocked in 4:44.8 with the combination of Miss De Varona, Claudia Kolb, Kim Worley and Miss Watson.

George Bayer Zooms To Lead

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—Big George Bayer, aided by a hole-in-one—his second this season — zoomed into the third round lead in the $40,000 Insurance City Open Golf Tournament Saturday with a 12-under-par 201.

The six-foot-five, 240-pound Bayer fired his ace on the 214-yard, par-3 ninth hole to go 11-under,, and increase his margin while coming in despite a strong cross wind. his three-round scores are 69-65-67 on the par 35-36—71 Wethersfield Country Club Course.

Big George, who will be 38 next month, leads Lionel Hebert by two strokes and Wes Ellis, the pacesetter in the first and second rounds, by three.

Bayer, who collected four birdies in addition to his ace, said he was "just trying to hit the ninth green," and even doubted he would reach it with his number one iron in the face of the strong wind.

Johnny Unitas Swings Victory For Baltimore

CLEVELAND (AP) — Johnny Unitas passed for two touchdowns and set up another as Baltimore whipped Cleveland 21-7 and balding Y. A. Tittle rallied the New York Giants to a 24-21 victory over Detroit Saturday night in a National Football League exhibition doubleheader watched by 83,218.

The crowd was the largest ever to see a pro football game in Cleveland's Municipal Stadium. The previous mark was 82,872 for a regular season game between the Browns and the Giants in 1960.

The Browns, making their first home appearance under new coach Blanton Collier, who replaced Paul Brown, showed little offensive punch in absorbing their second straight loss. Cleveland got beyond the Colts' 40 only twice. One threat ended when Don Shinnick intercepted a pass by Frank Ryan in the end zone and the other stopped on the Colt 33 when Jim Ninowski fumbled and the Colts' Fred Miller recovered.

The only Cleveland score came in the second period after Jim Kanicki recovered a fumble by Unitas on the Baltimore 16. Jim Brown cracked a yard for the touchdown six plays later and Lou Groza's conversion tied the score 7-7. But the Browns never were in the game after that.

Unitas, apparently determined to make up for last season's lacklustre performance, passed 22 yards to Dick Bielski for one touchdown and 41 yards to Jimmy Orr for another. He set up the third Colt touchdown, which came on a one-yard plunge by J. W. Lockett.

It was Baltimore's second straight pre-season victory without a loss.

Duck Season Is Improved

With Sam Hanna

Two Mallard Limit

Thanks to the hoopla, Louisiana is getting a much improved duck season this year, but it's still a far cry from the old days.

The Louisiana Wild Life & Fisheries Commission set the season Friday to open November 29th.

This takes in five weekends, plus both holiday periods for Thanksgiving and Christmas, thus giving the college hunters a chance to go.

All total, the Louisiana season will run for 35 days, or 15 days above the excuse of last year.

In addition, the U. S. Fish & Wildlife Service increased the bag limit to four, including only two mallards. Last year the Louisiana hunter could kill only one mallard daily.

This same federal agency handed down a framework from October 5th to January 5th for the Louisiana season, not to exceed 35 days. The commission acted Friday in a special meeting.

Considering the fact that the last day of the framework was January 5th, the Louisiana commission selected the best dates, in our opinion, since it will give the youngsters a chance to hunt during the holidays.

It also will give the North Louisiana hunter a break, especially since our waterfowl concentrations come later than they do in South Louisiana.

For hunters south of U.S. 190, a bonus of two scaup was added to the bag limit. North Louisiana wasn't included, because we have very few scaup here, if any.

The coot season will run concurrently with the duck season with a bag limit of eight and a possession limit of 16. The goose season was set for November 7 through January 15th, with a daily bag of five, possession limit five, with no more than two white-fronted geese.

But the season will be closed on Canadian geese — just as hunters will not be permitted to shoot canvasback and redhead ducks.

On the duck bag, the possession limit can include four mallards — but just two mallards per day. The season will open at noon on November 29th, closing at sunset January 2nd.

While these regulations are much stricter than the seasons of years ago, they certainly are a vast improvement over last year.

Director L. D. Young Jr. credited the congressional hearing conducted by Congressman T. A. Thompson of Louisiana as having much to do with the break for Louisiana.

At the same time credit should be given to Young and his staff for the splendid effort they put forth, not only this year but for the past two or three years.

Establishment of the season came as the U. S. Department of the Interior issued a report that forecast an increase in duck population in each of the four flyways.

This increase is expected because of better nesting conditions in Canada.

The report was made after two aerial and ground surveys of waterfowl breeding areas and from information derived from banding hundreds of thousands of ducks and geese on their breeding and wintering areas.

On a flyway - by - flyway report, the forecast said this about the Mississippi Flyway, which includes Louisiana:

"At least a moderate increase in the flight of ducks; little change in the flight of geese; small increase in coots."

The report also said, "There seems to be no question but the backbone of the drought period has been broken."

Louisiana's 1963-64 duck season is a step in the right direction toward better days ahead, or at least let's hope so.

Louis Gar Rodeo

A gar rodeo will be staged at Lake Louis this week, Thursday through Saturday, August 22-24, in an effort to cut down on the number of gar at the Sicily Island lake.

Fisherman Si Willing, who doubles as a Winnsboro radioman, is pushing the rodeo through his station, KMAR. He says the rodeo is being sponsored because of the "over - population of garfish" in Lake Louis.

Everyone can enter free-of-charge.

First prize for the most gar caught will be a $75 savings bond while a second prize of a $50 savings bond will be presented to the fisherman whose catch weighs the most.

A $25 savings bond for third prize will go to the angler who catches the biggest gar.

Two official weigh - in stations will be located at Kidd's Landing on Lake Louis and the Island Grocery Store in Sicily Island.

The contest closes at midnight Saturday and winners will be announced Saturday, August 24.

Report Shows Increase

This is brought out in a report by the Department of the Interior on federal excise collections on taxable hunting and fishing equipment.

Covering the period of July 1, 1962 through March 31, 1963 and comparing that period with a like period of a year ago, excise tax collections on arms and ammunition were $14,060,000, a 6.3 per cent increase over the $13,230,000 collected during the preceding period.

Sport fishing tackle excise tax receipts were $3,939,000, a 3.2 per cent gain over the $3,816,000 collected for the period a year ago.

Use of the federal excise tax on sporting arms and ammunition for wildlife work was authorized by Congress in 1937. Known as the Pittman-Robertson Act, after its sponsors in Congress, this legislation set aside the 11 per cent excise tax on sporting arms and ammunition for wildlife restoration projects.

The excise tax on sport fishing equipment is 10 per cent. This tax was earmarked for fisheries work in 1950 by the federal aid in fish restoration act, known as the Kingell - Johnson Act, also after its sponsors in Congress.

Money collected under these taxes is spent by the federal government in each of the states. In Louisiana's case, the state suffers a loss of money from the Dingell-Johnson Act because the state does not have a universal fishing license.

Little Man's Corner

The weather changed like fall and the little men made news afield.

Fishing wasn't so good in the heat during the first part of the week, but the rains and the cool snap changed that. Things picked up.

For instance, Sam Ruffino, a Monroe angler, landed a big bass in Black Bayou that almost went seven pounds. It missed it by an ounce. Sam was fishing with a purple worm.

Two Winnsboro fishermen, Jack Miller and H. W. Armstrong, landed the limit of large white perch on shiners at Lower Fool River.

At Lake St. John, Mrs. Sam Moss and Mrs. Louise Lee caught the limit of white perch. They were fishing with shiners in the Blue Hole.

W. C. Warren of Ferriday also got the limit of crappie there. Another Ferriday fisherman, N. G. Wall, landed the limit of bass in Old River. He caught them on crickets.

Lake Concordia produced bass limits for Mr. and Mrs. Jack Weber of Vidalia, Watt Carpenter of Vidalia and C. J. Beauvais of Ferriday.

Two other Ferriday fishermen, J. D. Keyes and Ed Jones got the limit of bass at Deer Park. Paul Klotz of Vidalia did too. Paul Yates of Vidalia did likewise while Buck Peden of Vidalia caught the limit of white perch.

Lake St. John also produced a 27-pound catfish, but the name of the fisherman was unavailable.

Spruill Added As Assistant At Winnsboro

The new assistant coach is a graduate of St. Joseph High School and received his B. S. degree in Physical Education from Mississippi College at Clinton in 1961. He starred in football and track while at Mississippi College.

NORTHEAST FOOTBALL

If Axiom Holds True, Tribe Has Good Line

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another in the series of position - by - position articles on Coach Jack Rowan's Northeast State Indians and their gridiron prospects for the 1963 season.)

If this holds true, the Indians of Northeast Louisiana State should have a good line this season. Three experienced sophomores, a junior and a senior tackle, along with some fine high school recruits, join Coach Jack Rowan in pre-season workouts on Sept. 2.

A starting tackle last fall before being injured in the USL game, Joe Alewine is expected to be able-bodied and ready to go at full strength this season. The 6-1, 215-pound one-year letterman from Groesbeck, Tex., will be the Tribe's lone senior tackle.

Bill Johnston, an East Central (Miss.) Junior College transfer, is the only junior among the tackle candidates. Johnston, who hails from Carthage, Miss., stands 6-1 and weighs 225. He enrolled at Northeast last February and was with the Indians in spring practice. Showing quick adaptability, he is expected to see plenty of action with the Indians.

Brightest spot in the tackle picture is a trio of second-year men, already being billed as possibly the best group of sophomore tackles in Northeast gridiron history. They are Alden Fontenot, Preston Hollier and Wayne Clements.

WAYNE CLEMENT

Hollier, 6-2, 215, and Fontenot, 6-2, 240, were high school teammates at Sulphur, La. Both have good speed and agility and are fine students of the game.

Clements, 6-2, 230, is an Istrouma of Baton Rouge product. "Clem" is a truly tough football player and one of the strongest boys on this year's Northeast squad.

Incoming freshman prospects at tackle will be John Segars, 6-2, 245, and Richard Wilkerson, 6-0, 200, bulwarks of Monroe's Neville High line last season; John McGehee, 6-0, 200, an outstanding lineman at Istrouma of Baton Rouge, and Ronald Sumter, 6-1, 220, a fine prospect from Byrd High School in Shreveport.

SOME HIS INTIMATES

Officials Speak On Wally Butts

ATLANTA (UPI) — One-by-one the top officials of the University of Georgia — including its president—took the witness stand in the trial of Wallace Butts' $10 million libel suit against the Saturday Evening Post.

To each official, Post attorney Welborn Cody put this question: "Do you know the character of Wallace Butts?"

Each witness in his turn replied "Yes."

"Based on that knowledge, would you say it was good or bad?" Cody asked.

The answer in each case was "bad."

The officials also testified they would not believe the word of Butts under oath.

Through it all, Butts, former head football coach and athletic director at Georgia, sat in stony silence, staring blankly at the witnesses. Occasionally he would blink his eyes. The Butts family —wife and three grown daughters —sat behind the plaintiff.

Butts had known these men for many years, and in the close circle of university life at Athens had been on intimate terms with some of them. Now they were all in a federal courtroom, facing each other from the opposite sides of a lawsuit, with Butts' reputation as a respected member of society and of the football coaching profession riding on the outcome.

This was the scene as testimony drew to an end in the Butts libel suit trial that has stretched over two weeks in the courtroom of federal Judge Lewis R. Morgan.

Monday, both sides will complete their closing arguments, Morgan will deliver his charge and the drawn-out, bitterly fought case will go to the 12-man jury.

The men testifying were University of Georgia President O. C. Aderhold, and athletic board members Dr. Harold Heckman, head of the university accounting department; William T. Bradshaw, who once played football under Butts; and R. H. Driftmier, chief of the division of agriculture engineering at Georgia.

Vicious Senators Bomb Minnesota With Ten Runs

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP) —Turning viciously on their tormentors, the Washington Senators bombed Minnesota for seven runs the first two innings and buried the Twins 10-0 Saturday behind Bennie Daniels' two-hit pitching.

Daniels, now 4-8, never let the Twins threaten. He gave up a line single to right by Don Mincher in the second and a single to center by Vic Power in the sixth, walked three and struck out three.

Minnesota never got a runner past first.

BLUEBLOOD LOSERS

Crewman Humbles Greats, Takes Big Travers Stakes

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y. (AP) — Racing's 3-year-old division was thrown into utter confusion Saturday when George D. Widener's Crewman humbled the so-called Big Three and ran off with the $81,400 Travers Stakes before the biggest crowd in Saratogas' history.

The fact that the first three finishers in the Kentucky Derby, Preakness and Belmont Stakes—the hallowed Triple Crown—were competing in the race made no difference to Crewman, who never competed in any of those blue ribbon events.

Behind him and thoroughly beaten at the finish was Chateaugay, winner of the Derby and Belmont, and Candy Spots, who took the Preakness and is the year's biggest money - winning thoroughbred.

Crewman flashed home 1½ lengths in front of another outsider, Mrs. Alfred J. Giordano's Hot Dust. Darby Dan's Chateaugay staggered home third, a length back of Hot Dust, and 2½ lengths ahead of Rex Ellsworths favored Candy Spots. Never Bend, the third of the Big Three was last.

The fourth place finish was the worst in the career for Candy Spots, who went into the 94th running of the 1¼ mile Travers with seven victories in ten starts this year. He had earned $594,881 and was the 6-5 favorite to take this big race.

Crewman, ridden by Eric Guerin, paid $41.90, $14.80 and $6 in giving Widener his fifth Travers and second in a row. Jaipur won last year in a terrific duel with Ridan and clinched the 3-year-old title, but that won't hold for this race.

Hot Dust, a 19-1 shot ridden by John Sellers, returned $11 and $4.70. Chateaugay, with Braulio Baeza up, paid $3.30. The time on a fast treak was 2:02 $2-5, well off the Travers mark of 2:01 3-5, set by Jaipur last year.

This was supposed to be the summit meeting among Chateaugay, Candy Spots and the Cain Hoy Stable's Never Bend, but the title will have to be settled another day.

Never Bend, last year's champion 2-year-old, took the lead at once and led for the first mile with Crewman never more than a length behind him.

Willie Shoemaker, who won with Jaipur a year ago had Candy Spots in third place as the field rounded the clubhouse turn.

The big crowd of 29,335, which spilled over into the infield, waited confidently for Candy Spots to make his big move but it never came. Never Bend, the third choice at 5-2 and ridden by Manuel Ycaza, began to fold on the final turn with about three-eighths of a mile to travel. Instead of Candy Spots or Chateaugay joining the battle, it was the unheralded Hot Dust who moved into the thick of the race.

Crewman took charge near the head of the stretch after a mile and Never Bend dropped back quickly. The winner was moving ahead at the finish, with Hot Dust coming up fast from sixth and last place.

Taylor Boosts Phillies To Win Over Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Tony Taylor's two-run double highlighted a four-run fifth inning and helped boost Philadelphia to a 5-3 victory over Pittsburgh in a rain-interrupted game Saturday night.

The triumph put the Phills in fractional control of fourth place, by only .0005 in percentage ahead of Cincinnati.

Taylor doubled home Bobby Wine, who reached base on an error, and Cookie Rojas, who ran for Frank Torre after Torre had driven in Clay Dalrymple with a pinch-hit single. Taylor's double to left put the Phils ahead 4-3 and knocked starter Bob Friend, 14-11, from the mound.

Johnny Callison singled off reliever Harvey Haddix, scoring Taylor.

Ryne Duren, Philadelphia's third pitcher, stymied the Pirates the rest of the way and won his fifth against two losses.

Back-to-back home runs by Bill Virdon and Roberto Clemente in the third helped power the Pirates to a 3-0 lead off Phils' starter Dallas Green. Dick Schofield drove in the Pirates' first run in the second with a sacrifice fly.

NOT FOR SELF BUT FOR OTHERS

The urgency of the hour calls for immediate action on the part of all true white Americans.

One of the greatest of all privileges is the right to vote. It should be the desire of every good white citizen to participate in the civic and governmental affairs of his country and state.

In recent years, the citizens of Louisiana have shown great apathy and indifference when it came to exercising their right to vote. This fact is evident when the results of recent elections are examined. In our Democratic Primary held in January, 1960, only 80% of the persons registered participated in that election. In the General Election for U.S. Senator held in November, 1962, only 39% of the registered voters balloted and less than 32% of the registered voters balloted on the Constitutional Amendments, that had been submitted to the people. When only about three-fourths of the citizens of voting age are registered, it becomes apparent that less than half of our people are exercising their right to vote and thereby assisting in the election and guidance of our various officials. Unless this trend is checked or reversed, it will ultimately result in poor or inefficient government in many areas.

Where the negroes are registering to vote, it has been found that they usually vote in blocs for officials or on issues. Should a large number of negroes be successful in registering, it is entirely possible for them to be the controlling factor in future elections, and, thereby, name your officials.

We, of the Madison Parish Rifleman's Club believe that if the negroes get in a position to name our officials, they will also be in a position to state the conditions for integration.

Believing integration to be morally wrong, we present the following articles, based on the word of God, to verify our convictions.

From a thorough study of the subject of segregation upon the light of the Scriptures we have come to the definite conclusion that the God of this vast universe is a segregationist. Genesis 10:32 says: "These are the families of the sons of Noah, after their generations, in their nations: and by these were the nations divided in the earth after the flood." (The Bible word for race is always Nation). After the flood, God makes a sharp division in the lands He alloted to Shem, Ham andJapheth, the sons of Noah.

Shem's descendants were to become the Semitic or Jewish race of people. They were granted "The Land of Israel" and also a large territory South and East of Israel extending to the Euphrates River. (Duet. 1:7-8 and Joshua 1:2-4).

The descendants of Ham were to become the black or negro race. The word Ham comes from an Egyptian word "Kem" which means black. Ham and his descendants were granted the enormous continent of Africa, one of the richest continents of the world.

The descedants of Japheth were to become the Gentile races or nations, Genesis 9:27. To Japheth and his posterity were "The Isles of the Gentiles." The Gentiles are living in their part of the world today.

Nimrod, a grandson of Ham was "a mighty one in the earth." Nimrod means rebel or "Let us Rebel." He became the commander of the builders of the Tower Babel.

Nimrod rebelled against both God's plan of Salvation and God's plan of racial segregation. Genesis 11:10 reveals the truth of this statement. "Let us make us a name" means that Jehovah God was left out of their plans. "Lest we be scattered abroad upon the face of the whole earth" means that this people ignored the instruction of God to go to their own respective land. God came down in mighty power confusing them with various tongues and scattered them. (Genesis 11:5-9)

Not only did God want these three races, or nations to be segregated, but He wanted to remove from them all temptation to reunite later on, so He "confounded their speech." Most Linguistic scholars now agree that all modern languages can be traced to the three "Parent Languages," the Semitic, the Aryan and the Turanian of which God brought into existence at the Tower of Babel.

In Genesis 24:3, we discover that Abraham was a segregationist even though he disobeyed God. God led Moses to devote a whole chapter in his book to segregation. (Deut. 7). In pronouncing a divine curse on interracial marriage Nehemiah said, "and I contended with them and cursed them; and smote certain of them, and plucked off their hair, and made them swear by God saying, "Ye shall not give your daughters unto their sons, nor take their daughters unto your sons or for yourselves." (Nehemiah 13:25.)

Jesus was a segregationist. He is the "only Begotten Son of God." He was with His Heavenly Father when He spoke to Abraham, Moses, and Nehemiah. He did not correct a single statement made by his Father. Jesus said, "Think not that I am come to destroy the law, or the prophets: I am not come to destroy but to fulfill." (Matthew 5:17-18). The Integrationist take the beautiful prayer of intercession by Jesus in the seventh chapter of the Gospel of John and twist it around to mean a social or physical nature. In verse 23 of the same chapter Jesus says, "I in them" (in union with them) which is the spiritual life. To further explain may we take you back to verse eleven when Jesus begins saying "and now I am no more in this world," which means He is referring to the spiritual life. We need not look beyond this Scripture for proof that the incarnation of God in Christ did not change His views on racial segregation.

If the integrationist want Scriptural authority for desegregation they will have to destroy God and write another Bible. The commandment, "Love thy neighbor as thyself" is misconstrued by the race-mixer. Do we really love our neighbors by forcing upon them things they do not like? The answer to this question is very obvious.

The first allegiance of an American Citizen is to Almighty God the Maker of all mankind. Acts 5:29 teaches us that, "we ought to obey God rather than men." It is high time that we the citizens of our beloved country place God above government. Our forefathers fought and died for the freedoms of this beloved land and we ought to be faithful in maintaining these freedoms of the generations to come if it means the shedding of blood.

The definition of integrate means to form into one whole, to unite, to melt down into one. That is exactly what the race-mixers want to do with our children. Once the blood of the white race of people has been mixed with negro blood, it can never be purified. No scientist or doctor has ever discovered a way to un-mix the blood. Once the two races are mixed, they are mixed forever.

America stands at the crossroads. If we accept integration, there is "No" turning back. We, as a race of people made by Almighty God will be lost forever. Our greatest heritage is our White blood which we have with pride passed down to our children. Are we going to forbid our children from doing the same for their's by permitting integration which will force the future generation to become a mongrelized race of people?

Louisiana has attempted, with its new registration system, to grant the right to vote to only those citizens who can show an elemental knowledge of citizenship.

The privileges of voting—like all other rights—carries with it an obligation to have at least some simple, basic knowledge of what voting is all about.

It is imperative that every white citizen who is eligible to register endeavor to do so at the earliest opportunity, by putting forth the necessary effort to earn this privilege.

This pamphlet has been printed and distributed throughout Madison Parish by the Madison Parish Rifleman's Club, P. O. Box 442, Tallulah, Louisiana, and inserted in the Sunday World by J. W. Holloway, Sec. Adv.

Signs In Green Wave Land Indicate Depressing Repeat

By RICK BRYAN
World Sports Editor

Tulane's luckless Green Wave got off to a depressing start under new head coach Tommy O'Boyle last year. For the first time since 1910, the Greenies failed to win a game.

"It was a long one," O'Boyle said in reference to the season. "We played some good football, but overall we didn't have the depth or talent to stay with the calibre of teams we were playing. Losing all ten was a tough way to break in a new head coach . . . especially when it happens to be me."

All indications point to more of the same this year.

Tulane, which may have the poorest recruiting power of any team in Louisiana, plays one of, if not the roughest schedule in the nation. Six of the Wave's 10 opponents, Texas, Alabama, Miami, Mississippi, Georgia Tech and Louisiana State, played in bowl games last season.

Looking over the Southeast Conference race, O'Boyle said, "Ole Miss, Alabama, Florida, LSU, Auburn and Georgia Tech loom as the front runners in my opinion. Mississippi State will be improved and could be a real darkhorse. Kentucky should be better and I know Tennessee will be a tougher football team.

"That leaves Vanderbilt, Georgia and Tulane and as the lower three. We have some fine football players coming back, but we do not have the depth and experience we need to have a top - notch college team. We lost some fine folks such as Ted Miller, Ron Thornton, Ernie Colquette, Grant Lyons and boys like that.

"I just hope we can surprise a few folks."

The Greenies lost 17 lettermen, including four starters off the 1962 club. They have 19 returning.

Only 10 men on Tulane's 60 man roster are seniors, however. Sixteen are juniors and 34 are sophomores.

"We'll have a number of sophomores playing for us," O'Boyle said. "Some of our youngsters showed a lot of promise this spring and I don't see how we can help but have a couple in our starting lineup and a lot of them playing for us."

By positions, the Greenies appear weakest at guard, center and quarterback. They have only one letterman at each of these posts.

End and tackle are graced by five lettermen apiece and there are three each at halfback and fullback.

"Our overall offense should be capable of scoring more," O'Boyle predicted. "Our young backs have a year under their belts and we have speed in Jerry Graves, George Cortez, Ron Chapoton, Jim Davis and a few others."

"Our passing game should be about the same with Clem Dellinger (195) our standout receiver, back at end.

"Al Burguieres (a 180-pound senior) came along magnificently in the spring. He was making plays better than any quarterback did all last year, and this sophomore boy David East (192, from Carthage, Tex.) looks like a real comer.

"Yes," he admitted, "Our defense was leaky last year, but we are hoping it will be better in 1963. I know we have spent a lot of time working on defense last spring and if we can keep free of key players being hurt, we should be improved."

Dave Landry (198), the only letterman guard, appears to have a berth on the right side of the line nailed down. He may be joined at the other guard post by soph Leon Verriere (215) who combines speed and power. Verriere missed last year because of a shoulder injury. Sophs Jay Crosby and Paul Anderson will help.

TOP ALL-STAR CANDIDATES: tackle Mike Calamari, end Clem Dellenger, center Jim Besselman, halfback Jerry Graves.
EXPECTED SEC FINISH: Tulane faces a murderous schedule without the horses to cope with it. Some vastly superior SEC teams will play weaker league slates. Tulane, wanting in depth and experience, must have outstanding performances from its sophomore crop to any kind of success this year. The big question seems to be whether Tulane, Vanderbilt or Georgia will occupy the league cellar.

BILLY LAIRD

ON HIS OWN NOW

Much Expected From QB Laird

RUSTON (Special) — No freshman has ever performed as sensationally in the Gulf States Conference as Louisiana Tech quarterback Billy Laird. Last year Billy was an understudy to incomparable Mickey Slaughter — this year as a sophomore he will be on his own.

Laird, the 5-11, 175-pound Woodlawn of Shreveport product, has all the tools. Tech's coaching staff is confident Laird will step right in where he left off last season, only this time with full-time status.

Billy has all the attributes of Slaughter and lacks only additional experience. "Laird is further along at this stage of his career than Slaughter was. We think he can't miss being another great quarterback," Tech Coach Joe Aillet said.

"Laird is a smart young man with a vast knowledge of football and is a team leader who takes command on the field as a quarterback should. His football ability was well demonstrated in his freshman year," Aillet said.

Laird's freshman credentials are excellent. Last year, he completed 42 of 68 passes for 584 yards and three touchdowns while having only two interceptions. He had a .618 completion percentage.

Although the ground game will be stronger, Tech is counting on the pro offense and the passing attack that goes with it. Laird is a key figure as the passer and ball handler.

One of Laird's ex-prep teammates could blossom into one of the league's top receivers this year. Wayne Davis, also a soph, caught 15 aerials for 162 yards last year. His presence should help offset the loss of Jerry Griffin, Tech's All-American end from Springhill who also graduated.

At the present, Laird must rate as the top quarterback in the GSC despite his youth. He ranked second in the loop in passing to teammate Slaughter last season.

Laird will get a test in the opener Sept. 28 against a powerful McNeese State team in Lake Charles. Slaughter passed the Pokes dizzy each of the last two years and there is no reason to think the Techmen will quit throwing when they have a good thing going.

Junior Golf Play Slated At Municipal

Johnny Myers announced Saturday that the annual Twin-City Junior Golf Championships will be held at Muny Golf Course on August 26.

All entrants who wish to qualify for the championship flight must do so between the 19th and 26th of August, with a prize going to the medalist.

All who do not make the championship flight will be entered in the first flight. All other entrants will be arranged in flights according to the following age groupings.

8-10-play 7 holes
11-13-play 18 holes
14-18-play 18 holes

All players from ages 8 to 18 are eligible, and due to the response this tourney has had in the past with Monroe area youth, a large turnout is expected this year.

There will be no entrance fee. For other details anyone interested in entering should call the pro shop at Muny at FA 2-2330.

Both games were decided upon at a meeting of the League managers Saturday night at L. B. Faulk American Legion Home.

PANCHO GONZALEZ

Pro King Shares Credit In Victory

LOS ANGELES (AP)—An old pro king, Pancho Gonzalez, was given a share of the credit Saturday for the United States' surprising doubles victory over Mexico in the Davis Cup American Zone semifinals.

"I can't tell you how much Pancho helped me," said Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif. "He made my game twice as good."

Ralston and Chuck McKinley of San Antonio, Tex., smashed the favored Mexican pair of Rafael Osuna and Antonio Palafox, the Wimbledon champions, 6-1, 6-3, 8-6 in sending the United States into an imposing 2-1 lead in the best-of-5 series.

The final two singles are scheduled today, with Ralston playing Osuna and McKinley facing Palafox.

Ralston said he thought Osuna was the best man on the Mexican team by far, adding:

"We didn't let Palafox play well. We knew he was off his game, so we kept all the pressure on him."

Reporters asked McKinley about his physical condition in his Friday game, a loss to Osuna. Commented McKinley:

"My only trouble Friday was that I lost. I felt better today, but there was nothing wrong with me Friday. I should've won. But there's no explaining it—except that Osuna was better than I."

Said Francisco (Pancho) Contreras, captain of the Mexican team:

"We lost today because the United States returns to our serves were perfect. There was just nothing we could do against such competition.

"Palafox is still playing worse than I have ever seen him play. But I'm hoping that tomorrow he'll find himself, and win the competition for Mexico. He is our key man."

American Davis Cup team Capt. Bob Kelleher lauded the tremendous effort made Saturday by McKinley. "Chuck just felt that he had to make up for yesterday" he said. "The boys talked it over and had a surprise that he had to make up for yesterday," he said. "The boys talked it over and had a surprise for me."

"Of course," Kelleher said, "I don't want to take anything away from Dennis Ralston. He played a tremendous game. Their percentage of errors was about as low as possible in this type of play."

At the First Baptist church of Wisner on Friday evening, August 16, Miss Robin Hammons became the bride of Charles Kenneth Thornhill, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Thornhill of Wisner. Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Hammons, also of Wisner, are parents of the bride. The Rev. Carlton Vance performed the double ring ceremony at 7 p.m.

An organ recital of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. John H. Owen of Corsicana, Texas, aunt of the bride. Mrs. Owen also accompanied the solist, Mrs. Howard Anderson.

Flickering tapers in wrought iron candelabra lighted the altar area, where four white floor standards of white gladioli, mums, and emerald fern were highlighted against trees of jade palm. A wrought iron arch and satin prie dieu completed the setting. Before the entrance of the bridal party, candles were lighted by Ronnie Thornhill, brother of the groom, and Robert Owen, cousin of the bride.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a wedding gown of white silk organza over mist taffeta with bodice and sleeves of Alencon lace. Panel effects outlined with lace were featured at each side of the full skirt which fell into a chapel train. Her bouffant veil of silk illusion was attached to a double crown of heart shaped pearls touched with small crystal beads. Her bouquet was a cascade of white bride's roses and tube roses centered with a yellow throated cattelya orchid. Her only jewelry was a strand of pearls, gift of the bridegroom.

Attending her as maid of honor was Miss Nancy Knotts. Bridesmaids were Miss Carolyn Osbourne of Marksville and Miss Bess Owen of Corsicana, Texas, cousin of the bride. Junior bridesmaids were Miss Dorrene Thornhill, sister of the groom and Miss Joan Hammons, sister of the bride. For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Hammons wore a sheath dress of rose beige crepe with a loose bodice of lace featuring short sleeves and a scalloped neckline. She wore a small beige hat of crushed chiffon and matching accessories. Her corsage was of green cymbidium orchids.

The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Thornhill, chose a blue lace sheath fashioned with scooped neckline and a short matching lace jacket with accessories to match. Her corsage was of yellow orchids.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents. The guests were received on the veranda by the members of the wedding party and the hosts. Near the receiving line Miss Jan Fulton, of Pineville, presided over the bride's books, which was placed on a round table holding a memory candle and the bride's bouquet.

The bride's table in the reception room, overlaid with a floor length gathered skirt of net over satin, was centered with a tall columned wedding cake, which was served by Mrs. Thomas L. Owen of Dubach, aunt of the bride. The bouffant net skirt was caught at each corner by wide white satin bows and clusters of green grapes topped with a feathered white dove.

Sunken Tile Tub New For Homebuilders

One of the newest trends in home bathing, following the popularity of the two-bathroom home popularized in the past 15 years, is an opulent sunken tile tub.

Most homes today have at least two bathrooms, so leading architects and designers have come up with the "plunge" or "Roman" sunken tub to give new character and grace to custom-built homes.

The "plunge" tub, while it sounds spectacular, actually can be fitted into a five-foot by seven-foot bathroom. Or it can take on the grandeur of Rome by being built in oval and free-form shape and surfaced with brilliant harmonious natural earth colors of ceramic tile.

60th ANNIVERSARY the Palace

On Dit'

by Denise

A charming party at Highland Park country club Wednesday afternoon honored two newcomers to the Twin Cities, MARILYN SARTOR and MARGARET TRULY. Hostesses were ALICE BENNETT and FRAN CURRY, who invited over one hundred ladies to meet the honorees between the hours of three and five.

Margaret chose for the party a dress of olive green silk styled with batteau neckline encircled with a wide ruffle collar. Marilyn was attired in blue silk, and Fran in a black eyelet embroidered sheath. Alice wore an aqua and gold silk brocade with straight lines and tie belt. All wore nosegays of pale blue carnations.

Blue flowers were used throughout the reception area, with aqua daisies in a crystal container on a low table near the receiving line. The refreshment table was centered with an antique epergne filled with blue lace carnations, white stock and lycompodium. White tapers burned in silver candelabra at each sdie.

Those who poured were NANCY BENNETT, JENNY REYNOLDS, PEGGY FOLDS, and TOMMIE SARTOR. Trays of goodies, which included assorted finger sandwiches, rolled sandwiches, cheese straws, cookies and fudge squares, were passed by JO ADAMS, MARY LEE KING, KITTY LINER and JIENA CARPENTER.

Parties for out-of-town visitors are best when the guest of honor is one of our own: a former resident or an "almost native" such as BETTY NOE, here this week from New Orleans visiting the JAMES A. NOES on Fairview. Betty was named guest of honor at an afternoon party in the home of VIRGINIA GUERRIERO on Pargoud boulevard Tuesday. The hostess used all white and green flowers for the party. Arrangements of vinca decorated living room and den.

In the dining room, stock, white chrysanthemums and tuberoses were arranged in an epergne which centered the table. Punch was served at one end and bottled soft drinks opposite. Finger sandwiches, chicken or shrimp, were served, with miniature Boston cream pies. Old friends of the honoree were invited for a visit between three-thirty and five.

Also here for this party was CINDY WAKEFIELD, former Monroyan now living in Evansville, Indiana. Cindy was home for a visit with her parents, the WILL WALTONS, in JACKSON, Mississippi, when Virginia called her to come over for Tuesday afternoon. Cindy and the boys, WAKE and WALTON, were here at the Holiday Inn for several days, getting in visits with Monroe friends.

House guest of BETTY and PRENTICE GRAY last week was BETSY PATERSON of New Orleans. Betty and Betsy were classmates at Newcomb college, and Betsy with her husband BERT, lived in Monroe for several years. On Thursday Betty invited about fifteen ladies for an afternoon party. Arrangements of magnolias and snow on the mountain decorated the living room. The refreshment table was centered with pink roses.

NEWCOMERS to the Twin Cities, Mrs. James A. Truly and Mrs. George M. Sartor, center, were honored at a coffee party Wednesday, August 14, at Highland Park Country club. Mrs. Fred Bennett, Jr., at left, and Mrs. Richard Curry, seated, were hostesses for the party from three until five in the afternoon when a large number of ladies called to meet the honorees.

Several other parties were planned for Betsy while she was in town. LOUISE and NAJ KLAM were hosts for dinner, as were CHUNKY and HARRY LEMERT. Luncheon hostesses were MARY HENRY, JULIA SANDERS of Bastrop, and ADA GRUBER. A gay and unusual party was planned by MARIE LOUISE SNELLINGS, who served mint juleps in her tree house overlooking the river.

Today's poem is the oft-quoted "The Day Is Done," by Henry Wadsworth Longfellow:

The day is done, and the darkness
Falls from the wings of Night,
As a feather is wafted downward
From an eagle in his flight.
I see the lights of the village
Gleam through the rain and the mist,
And a feeling of sadness comes o'er me,
That my soul cannot resist:
A feeling of sadness and longing,
That is not akin to pain,
And resembles sorrow only
As the mist resembles the rain.
Come, read to me some poem,
Some simple and heartfelt lay
That shall soothe this restless feeling,
And banish the thoughts of day.
Then read from the treasured volume
The poem of thy choice
And lend to the rhyme of the poet
The beauty of thy voice.
And the night shall be filled with music,
And the cares that infest the day,
Shall folds their tents, like the Arabs

Thomas-Lewis Vows Pledged In Memphis

Miss Dianne Lewis became the bride of Purvis Thomas Jr. in a candlelight service at 8 o'clock Friday evening, August 9, at Speedway Church, Memphis, Tenn. The Reverend James E. Berkhead officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride's parents are Mrs. Jerri Lewis and Paul Lewis of Memphis, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Purvis Thomas Sr. of Lake Providence.

Escorted to the altar by her father who gave her in marriage, the bride wore a street length wedding dress with fitted basque of Chantilly lace, a sweetheart neckline, short sleeves, and full skirt of bridal satin. Her finger tip veil of illusion fell from a demi-hat of petals and she carried a purple throated white orchid mounted on a white Bible.

The bride's only attendant was Miss Toni Gammon who wore a white polished cotton with pink cumberbund and an organdy overskirt. Her corsage was of pink carnations.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Lewis chose a pastel floral chiffon with harmonizing accessories. Mrs. Thomas, mother of the groom wore a beige linen sheath, harmonizing feathered hat and palemino shoes. Both mothers wore pink carnation corsages.

The young couple will live in Memphis, where after a short wedding trip they will be at home at 1624 Goodbar.

COOLING TIP

If you have a quarry tile terrace here's one way to make it serve to keep your home cooler by several degrees. When the day is hottest and most unbearable, thoroughly hose down the waterproof quarry terrace. The evaporating water from the terrace will make the surrounding air cooler and more pleasant.

Betty Rose Haddad Weds John Thornton Shelton

Miss Betty Rose Haddad and John Thornton Shelton were united in marriage at a double ring ceremony followed by a nuptial mass performed by the Rev. Father Richard Fale in St. Matthew's Catholic church at eleven a.m. Saturday, August 17. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Joe Haddad of Monroe and the late Mr. Haddad, while the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Louis A. Shelton of Alexandria.

The church was decorated with white gladioli and chrysanthemums in gold altar vases at each side of the main altar. Similar arrangements were repeated at the side altars. Music was provided by Mrs. Della Williamson at the organ; and Mrs. Waymon Etier, cousin of the bride, soloist. Phillip Gordon Grant of Bastrop and Joseph Robert Correro, both cousins of the bride, were altar boys.

The bride entered on the arm of her uncle, William Haddad, who gave her in marriage. She wore a bridal gown of white silk taffeta designed with draped bodice and elbow length sleeves. Handrun Alencon lace was appliqued on the empire waist and controlled skirt which swept into a full chapel train. A tiny lace covered pill box hat held her veil of silk illusion. She carried a cascade of white Japhet orchids with white roses and tuberoses.

Mrs. Gordon G. Grant of Bastrop, cousin of the bride, was matron of honor, and Miss Patricia Frances Grant, also of Bastrop, was her cousin's maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Jeannie Marie White of Shreveport; Miss Carol Jane Haddad, cousin of the bride; Mrs. Edgar M. Rea III of New Orleans; and Mrs. Patsy Cooper Sumlin of Delhi. Their floor length gowns of aqua silk organza were styled with scoop necklines, short sleeves, and bell-shaped skirts. Waist lines were accentuated with belts of white polished cotton printed with aqua roses. They wore pillboxes of aqua silk organza and carried white cymbidium orchids and tuberoses arranged with variegated California foliage.

Flower girl was Gina Marie Grant, cousin of the bride, of Bastrop. She wore a floor length gown of white silk organza featuring aqua panels in back of the gathered skirt. She carried a white straw basket tied with tuberoses and white bows and filled with flower petals.

Jerry Gwinn of Shreveport was best man, with Michael Foster, cousin of the bride, as ringbearer. Ushers were William Joseph Haddad and Michael Dennis Haddad, brothers of the bride; Edgar M. Rea, III, of New Orleans; Jack Hugh Pankey, Anthony James Correro, cousin of the bride; Joseph Albert Wall of Alexandria; William Thomas Crowe, III, of Ruston.

RECEPTION

Following the wedding, a reception was held at the Paragon club. Mrs. Haddad, mother of the bride, was attired in an aqua silk chiffon dress featuring a side drape caught with a jeweled pin. She wore dyed to match shoes and a hat of aqua silk chiffon. The groom's mother, Mrs. Shelton, chose champagne colored chiffon with bone accessories. Her tulle hat was in graduated colors of black, taupe, beige, and bone. Both received corsages of white Japhet orchids.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude E. Valentine of Shreveport are grandparents of the groom. Mrs. Valentine wore for the wedding a sheath of mauve lace with self jacket trimmed in peau de soie. She chose bone accessories and a corsage of white Japhet orchids

Guests arriving for the reception were greeted at the door to the ballroom by Mrs. Paul Goldman. Mrs. Pete Haddad invited them to register in the bride's book, which was placed on a table decorated with tuberoses and a memory candle. The tiered cake which centered the room was cut by Mrs. A. E. Fontana and Mrs. Katie Ladart. Mrs. Jasper Haddad and Mrs. Robert Hill Easterling alternated at the punch bowl.

The bride's table was centered with a cupid epergne with white stock and white pompon chrysanthemums. At each side were cupid candelabra with white tapers. Mrs. Cotham Haddad, Mrs. Louis Savana, and Mrs. Sam Correro assisted. Rice bags were distributed by Linda Correro, Kathryn Fontana and Kathy Masters.

DRESSMAKERS BEWARE

Before you make a dress from that beautiful bolt of material have it laundered or drycleaned frist, advises the National Institute of Drycleaning. Not that it may be dirty. This is simply a wise precaution since the material may not have been preshrunk.

If you preshrink the garment at home by soaking in clear water or by steaming before you cut the pattern, be sure to straighten the fabric before drying. If the warp yarns aren't perpendicular to the filling yarns you may cut the fabric off-grain.

Sportive Look 'In' For Fall

The sportive look--wrap-around skirts, vests, bulky mohair sweaters--will be "the look" this autumn on high school and college paths. And every woman student can have the "look" within a price range that appeals to the budget-minded.

Right now, culottes and wrap-around skirts are heralding the back-to-school clothes season. In plaids, flannel, wide-wale corduroy, they are vying with vests for top fashion position. The vest craze will go on, because American designers have done so much to bring it to the front and keep it there. A student can assemble a complete outfit with "the layered look"--skirt, blouse, vest, jacket--right down to knee socks.

Sweaters, which are basic, sound security for students, are attracting attention. One all-wool style, in sophisticated colors of camel, gray or terra cotta, has a blend of 75 per cent imported mohair and 25 per cent lamb's wool. There's a great variety of style in sweaters, too. Cardigans and turtle, boat and V-necks are neck and neck in the back-to-school race.

In patterned sweaters there are paisleys, floral, geometric and Norwegian-inspired designs. Several of these patterns are graduated with the larger designs at the bottom, forming borders.

Fell Wedding Planned In West Monroe

An early fall wedding is foretold today with the announcement of the engagement of Miss Roxie Fannie Stark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Stark of West Monroe, and James Arvel Harrell, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Harrell, also of West Monroe.

The ceremony is planned for Tuesday, September 10, at 7:30 p.m. in Ridge Ave. Baptist church in West Monroe. The Rev. A. T. Mitchell, former pastor of the church will officiate.

Miss Stark has named her sister, Miss Troyce Annette Stark, as her only attendant. The bride-elect is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Idus Whitman of Choudrant.

The prospective groom will be attended by Lonnie D. Shows as best man. Mr. Harrell is presently serving with the U. S. Navy. The couple will live in West Monroe.

Washer Way To New Color Is Easy Job

Singing tones of brilliant Mediterranean color are growing favorites for home decorations. If one of these clear, bright hues in a new chair, rug, or other addition to your home is making your pastel draperies, slip cover, or bedspread look drab, you can change the picture quickly. Take the easy washer way to new color that will put a vivid glow on the older fabric.

Your automatic washer is the key to perfect dyeing. Whatever you can launder in the washer, you can tint or dye at home the same way. Today's improved coloring products have improved power to give clearer, more lasting colors. Your washer does away with the need for tiresome stirring, too. It distributes new color evenly, with no danger of streaky patches, as the article moves steadily through the dye bath.

Here are tips from the American Home Laundry Manufacturers' Association on using the washing machine to give new color to anything washable. Before washing, measure the item you want to brighten and jot down measurement. A little gentle reshaping may be necessary after coloring. Next, weigh the dry article so you can get enough dye by checking package directions when you buy. Then wash, but don't dry your candidate for new color. It should be damp when going into the dye bath.

Fill the washing machine with very hot water, unless package directions call for a lower temperature to tint delicate fabrics. Check the instructions on how to dissolve the powdered dye correctly. You can run the machine briefly to be sure dye is thoroughly mixed through the water, then turn it off before you carefully add the unfolded damp article to be dyed. Keep the water agitating until the desired shade of color is achieved.

MR. AND MRS. EDWIN L. BLACKWELL

Annie Parks, Mr. Blackwell Wed In Church

Marriage vows of Miss Annie Sue Parks and Edwin L. Blackwell were pledged Sunday afternoon, August 11, in Ridge Ave. Baptist Church in West Monroe. The Rev. Edgar L. Wiggins performed the double ring ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack B. Parks of West Monroe, while the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Murphy Blackwell of Monroe.

Twin baskets of white gladioli stood at each side of the blue-covered altar. As guests were being seated by the ushers, Bob Parks, brother of the bride, and Murphy Blackwell, Jr., brother of the groom, a prenuptial concert was presented by Miss Diane Landreaux at the organ.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was wearing a street length dress with bodice designed with alternating rows of tucks and white lace. Her headdress was a shoulder length mantilla of white lace. She carried a white Bible topped with white feathered carnations.

Miss Sue Savage, maid of honor and the bride's only attendant, wore a dress of pale blue embroidered satin. Her bouquet was a nosegay of white chrysanthemums. Archie Gilliland attended the groom as best man.

A reception was held in the church parlors after the ceremony. Mrs. Parks chose for her daughter's wedding a dress of beige cotton with blue-embroidered waist. She wore beige accessories and a white carnation corsage. Mrs. Blackwell was attired in pink silk with lace insertions. Her small hat was of pink blossoms, and her corsage of white carnations.

A floor-length net skirt covered the bride's table, which was centered with a silver epergne filled with white chrysanthemums and greenery. Tall white tapers in silver holders burned at each side. The wedding cake, which was decorated with a bride and groom standing on an aisle leading to the altar, was cut by Mrs. Weldon E. Russell. Punch was served by Miss Linda Stracener. Mrs. Bob Parks sat at the guest register.

The young couple left on a short wedding trip to Hodges' Gardens, and later will be at home in Alexandria. The bride, a graduate of West Monroe High school, attended Northeast Louisiana State college. The groom is a graduate of Neville and of Northeast, where he was a member of Sigma Tau Gamma.

CLEAN UP CRUMBS

Even the odor, as well as actual traces of food, attracts various insects which you don't want in your kitchen! So be sure to wash all the crumbs and spills from the stove and cabinet shelves after each meal. And give the bread box and canisters a thorough sudsing once a week.

COOL WRISTS

Wrists are sensitive to temperature changes, and influence the entire body accordingly. Each time you wash your hands with soap, let cold water run over both wrists.

This "treatment" not only helps to reduce excess body heat, but also removes dirt and sticky perspiration which causes discomfort.

YOUR PROBLEMS

Association Teaches Better Than Dictionary

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I don't know if this is the kind of a problem I should be bothering you with but I am only 12 years old and I don't have much love life yet to speak of.

Well, to get to the point, I am crazy about horses. After many years of begging, my folks are finally buying me a horse in September. Now I need to know how to talk horse talk. I've got to get hold of a horse dictionary right away so I will be able to use words like gelding, filly, stud, withers, stallion and yearling.

Please tell me where I can get such a dictionary. I want to start studying now so I won't be ignorant in the horse-circles. — No Horse Sense Yet

Dear N. H. S. Yet: I know of no horse dictionary and furthermore, even if I did I wouldn't recommend it.

The best way to learn "horse talk" is by being around people who talk it. That's the way THEY learned.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm 17, a girl, and very much worried about my little brother. He is 12 and getting completely out of control.

Dad died two months ago and mom had to go to work right away. This left me in charge of the house and my brother. He used to be obedient and polite and never caused any trouble. Now he sasses me, leaves the houes whenever he feels like it and comes home when he wants to.

I don't know where he is most of the time or who he is with. When I try to talk to him he tells me I am not his boss and we end up in a fight. My mother is too exhausted and too nervous to argue with him. Daddy was always the one who made the decisions in our family concerning my brother and now that he is gone I have inherited the job.

Please help me, Ann, before my little brother goes bad. — A Sister

Dear Sister: This is a critical time in your brother's life and I urge you to get help from an adult male. An uncle would be ideal, or a friend of your father. Perhaps your clergyman can come to the rescue.

Your approach to the boy should be gentle. He resents your taking his father's place as the authority in the family. Try to be soft-spoken, and above all, let him know you love him.

Dear Ann Landers: Two years ago I invested $10,000 in a small business. For my $10,000 I own 20 per cent. My partners are four men who are not related to me, but they are all related to each other.

The payroll looks like their family roll call. Before I sat down to write this letter I checked and this is the way it reads: A sister-in-law, two brothers-in-law, a son, two daughters, an uncle, three nieces, and a nephew.

The business is doing well, but I have the feeling it would do better if we got rid of some of the relatives. It was recently decided that two of the relatives will be sent to Europe at company expense to "look at items we might buy."

The trip is a phony and I'm burned up about it. What can I do about this boondoggle? — Hot Under The Collar

Dear Collar: Sell your twenty per cent and remove yourself from the list of ulcer candidates. What you make on the investment cannot compensate for what you stand to lose.

Confidential to THE GO BOY FROM PERTH AMBOY: So what good are her dimensions if she has a computer instead of a heart? What you describe is a terrific construction job without a central heating system.

Are you going steady? Making marriage plans? If so, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Before You Marry — Is It Love Or Sex?", enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your probelms. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self - addressed envelope.

Soda Remedy For Outdoor Skin Hazards

Take pity on your poor skin in summer. It gets well salted and dried by the ocean, fried to a crisp by the sun, bitten by insects and subjected to poison ivy, oak and sumac. So try and protect it from these occupational outdoor hazards as much as possible.

Remember to rinse yourself off well in the shower after swimming in salt water. Use a protective lotion when sunning. One with an oil base not only helps screen out the burning ultraviolet rays, it helps compensate for the sun's drying effect. If you're going to work in the garden or sit around on the terrace, apply an insect repellent to exposed arms and legs and keep it handy so that if bugs get brazen, you can repeat the application. As for poison ivy, oak and sumac, the only thing you can do is learn to distinguish them from other harmless vegetation. The leaves of both poison ivy and oak come in threes, are about three inches long, shiny, green in summer and red in fall. Poison sumac is a large shrub or a small tree with seven to thirteen leaflets growing out on a reddish colored stem. It, too, is green in the summer and red in the fall.

If your skin does succumb to one of these threats it's nice to know that there's a pound of relief for all these summer afflictions parked on your kitchen shelf . . . baking soda. If it's not there where it should be it's as close as your nearest grocery store and can be bought for as little as fifteen cents. For dried skin, that's inclinced to flake and itch or for skin that's sore from a sunburn the soda goes in the bath . . . a cupful of it. Have water cool for the sunburn. Your only role here is a passive one. Lie in the tub and relax. Soda, which is mildly detergent, takes care of the cleansing as well as the soothing detail. And pat yourself dry when you emerge from the tub. Don't rub.

Soda in paste form . . . made by mixing a palmful of it with a few drops of water, is the RX for the insect bite. It will stem the urge to scratch and it's scratching that often leads to infection.

As for poison ivy, oak and sumac, once symptoms appear . . . redness and small white blisters . . .mix a heaping tablespoon of baking soda in a cup of good hot water. Apply the mixture generously while still hot and allow it to dry on the skin. You can repeat this every hour if necessary, but one application is generally enough to quell the itch and that's your main objection, for scratching causes the rash to spread. The soda also helps to dry up the little blisters.

Cathedral tapers flanked by baskets containing fan - shaped arrangements of white gladioli decorated Hilly Methodist Church for the wedding of Miss Patsy Laurice Larance and Dennis Wayne Fleniken at 6 p.m. Saturday, August 17. The Rev. Jerry A. Means officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Larance of Hilly, while the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Fleniken of Mansfield.

Mr. Larance escorted his daughter to the altar and gave her in marriage. Her dress of white silk organza was styled with a Sabrina neckline outlined with Chantilly lace. The full skirt, edged with two wide rows of lace, extended into a queen's train at the back. Small organza held her waist length silk illusion veil. The bride's bouquet was a yellow - throated white orchid in a cascade of white roses; her only jewelry, a diamond pendant, gift of the groom.

Attending the bride were her sister, Miss Virginia Larance, maid of honor; and Mrs. Carl Hampton Bussey, III, Miss Carole Sue Worsham, and Miss Patricia Pigue, bridesmaids. They wore dresses of emerald green silk organza over taffeta and lace. Organza roses accented the backs of the bouffant skirts. They wore matching pillboxes with veils and carried small round bouquets of pale yellow roses.

Mr. Fleniken was his son's best man and groomsmen were Pete Larance, Terry Fleniken, Edward Domingues, George Patterson, and Charles Domingues.

The bride's parents entertained with a reception at home following the ceremony. Mrs. Larance was attired in a dress of green lace with matching accessories and an orchid corsage. The groom's mother, Mrs. Fleniken chose beige lace lace with a corsage of orchids.

The refreshment table, overlaid with white organza, held the cake and punch services at opposite ends. The bridesmaids' bouquets were used with candles to form the centerpiece. Mrs. James B. Warren and Mrs. Jerry Riggs served.

Mrs. Jim Newnam sat at the guest book. Rice bags were passed by Joani Warren and Natalie Nelson. Others who assisted were Miss Carol Ann Larance and Miss Nancy Worsham.

GET THAT DUST

Open shelves — for books and knick-knacks — are an open invitation for dust to settle. Wipe them off every week or so with a cloth wrung out of soap or detergent suds.

Color In Face Needed With Beige Fashion

Once regarded as a color that only a few light blondes, vivid redheads, and brunettes could wear, beige fashions now are considered complementary with almost any complexion and hair coloring when make-up requisites are applied with the necessary color emphasis. To look your best against this subtle but fashionable background color, beauty authorities suggest these make-up tips as a general guide in giving your features the necessary color accent.

Never try to tone down your skin to blend with beige. Instead, wear a foundation make-up in your color range, but one which contains a greater amount of rose tone. The color-emphasis of today's eye make-up also has added to the popularity of beige. Therefore, any woman who wears such requisites in the correct shades will never hear anyone say that this costume color looks drab on her. Green, blue, and lilac eye shadow, for instance, put life into the face and provide reason for the subtle background color.

MR. AND MRS. MALCOLM ODELL HODNETT

M. O. Hodnett, Miss York Wed In Jonesville

The wedding of Miss Patsy Nell York and Malcolm Odell Hodnett was solemnized Thursday, August 8, at 7:30 o'clock in the evening in the First Baptist Church of Jonesville.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mayo York of Jonesville and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Tooke of Minden.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a full length gown of peau-de-soie. The empire waistline effect was fashioned with a handclipped French imported lace which fell in a long chapel train. Her fingertip veil of French silk illusion was attached to a dewded queen's crown. She carried a white Bible topped with a white orchid encircled with pink sweetheart roses.

Serving as bride's attendants were Miss Marcyle Carter, maid of honor; Miss Frances Ford and Lorene Brandon. They wore identical dresses of pink peau de sole with organza overskirts and matching slippers. Each carried a cascade of elegan twhite miniature mums and sweetheart roses.

Lighting the candles were Kay Martin and Martha Gayle McNair. They wore pink polished cotton dresses with overskirts of organza, matching slippers, and wrist corsages of pink sweetheart roses.

Ushers were Henry McClure, Lynn Dalton and Robert Tooke of Minden.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. York was attired in a blue silk sheath with matching accessories and an orchid corsage. Mrs. Tooke, the groom's mother chose a pink dress with white accessories and she also wore an orchid corsage.

Following the wedding, the bride's parents entertained at a reception in the church fellowship hall. Mrs. Francis S. Price registered guests in the bride's book, which was placed on a table decorated with the maid of honor's bouquet.

The refreshment table was covered with pink satin with an overskirt of net. White mums in silver bowls and white tapers in silver branched candelabras made a reflection in a large mirror which was outlined with fern. Twin punch bowls were placed on each end of the table, Hattie Joplin and Margaret Keeth served punch. Lush potted ferns and baskets of magnolia foliage were placed at vantage points through the reception parlor.

Carolyn Joyce Ross, M. F. Edwards Are Wed

Miss Carolyn Joyce Ross and Marion Francis Edwards pledged their marriage vows at a home wedding Friday, August 9. The Rev. A. W. Coody, pastor of the Vidalia Methodist church, and great-uncle of the bride, officiated at the double ring ceremony at three in the afternoon.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben B. Ross, in whose home at 2537 N. Twelfth street, the wedding was held. J. M. Edwards of 3802 Bon Aire Drive is father of the groom.

Mrs. Gerald D. Herzog served as her sister's matron of honor and only attendant. She wore a navy blue silk suit and carried a bouquet of miniature white chrysanthemums.

Families of the bride and groom attended the wedding and the reception which followed at the home of the bride. White damask covered the table, which was appointed with a milk glass punch service at one end and the tiered bride's cake at the other. White mums and tall white tapers in a milk glass epergne formed the floral centerpiece.

Following the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Edwards left on a wedding trip to New Orleans, where they will make their home while the groom is attending Tulane University Law school. He previously attended Ouachita Parish high school and Northeast Louisiana State college, where he was a member of the Tau Kappa Epsilon.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Prime Factor Is Interest

By MRS LESLIE CLARK
Guest Writer

Now that most garden clubs are compiling the year's program and new clubs are organizing, consider these things. What constitutes a Good Garden Club member? Louisiana's "How To" for Garden Clubs, published by the Louisiana Garden Club Federation, lists "interest" as the primary requirement. "Interest in gardening and in learning the skills required in the arts related to gardening, such as improved methods of horticulture, landscaping and flower arrangement. Next is the ability to work with others in accomplishing a desired end. Then, there is the faculty of seeing over the garden wall the world that lies beyond. A broad outlook is acquired through experience and contact with the outside world by becoming acquainted at first hand with the needs and interests of others; by identifying oneself with community progress, with highway beautification, the preservation of wildlife, developing an interest in national resources, an appreciation of National Parks and an eagerness to fight whatever threatens to destroy the beauty and value of the priceless gifts of God."

KEEP INFORMED

It is recommended that a progressive garden club member subscribe to and read "The National Gardener" and the "State Bulletin" to keep in touch with the Garden Club Movement. Interest grows by taking an active part in projects of ones club, by accepting the responsibility of a chairman-ship or office when asked; and enjoying the association of fellow - workers. The more one puts into the club, the more the club gives in return.

Club Etiquette:

A light tap of the gavel is sufficient to signal for attention or order. If it becomes necessary for a presiding officer to pound with the gavel, it shows ignorance of the proper use of the gavel, or is a reflection on the club members. Our custom is to give the out-going president a gift at the end of the club year. It is a hard decision to fall upon the shoulders of someone. Unfortunately it has been known to happen, that one outgoing president would receive a very inexpensive gift while another out-going president would receive a very expensive gift-this because she had wealth or social position. This is not good ethics and should never happen. If one has wealth she can buy the nice things she wants. A designated amount should be decided upon by the membership and set aside for this purpose. A gift certificate would eliminate all doubt. Let's be just and constant garden club members.

Concerning the Flower Show: Accept without criticism your judges' decision. They have devoted long hours and hard work to achieve their position.

This week our guest club will be the Lake Enterprize Garden Club of Wilmot, Arkansas. Watch for them on our Garden Center T. V. program, Wednesday. This is a last reminder of the Home and Garden Week at L.S.U. in Baton Rouge, Tuesday through Thursday.

Give attention to your violets this month. Cut off foliage and fertilize plants with cottonseed meal. I find, by working it into the soil, the flies and that unpleasant odor can be eliminated. Continue transplanting early spring flowering bulbs. Put in your order for bulbs for October planting. Plant some zinnias for fall bloom. Transplant iris if you didn't do this in July. Cut dead tips from foliage and work bone meal in soil. Remember to plant something new or unusual for our State Flower Show next year. Let's promote that ole Knowing, Growing, Showing theme.

State Artists Will Display Their Work

Approximately 150 paintings and drawings by Louisiana artists have been entered in the Town and County Art Show to be held as part of Home and Garden Week at Louisiana State University, Baton Rouge, August 19-22, says Mrs. Ruth F. Thompson, assistant editorial specialist with the Agricultural Extension Service.

The show will include works in all media, and will be on display in Pleasant Hall from Monday, August 19, through Thursday, August 22. It is being held in cooperation with the Louisiana Art and Artists Guild.

CHAIRMAN

Mrs. T. O. Woods, representing the Guild, is chairman of the reception committee. Albert Marino, also representing the Guild, is chairman of the committee which will hang the exhibit. Guild members will be present during Home and Garden Week to direct visitors to the exhibit areas.

In connection with the show, the Guild is sponsoring two speakers during the week. Mrs. Brenda Carter, assistant director of the Louisiana Art Commission, will give a slide lecture on the Italian Renaissance in Pleasant Hall at 1:30 p.m. on Tuesday

Robert Wiggs, assistant professor of fine arts at LSU, will give a talk entitled "Inside Art" at Pleasant Hall at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday.

DISPLAY

An exhibit of artists' materials will be on display on the Mezzanine Balcony of Pleasant Hall during the week. A professional oil painting kit will be given the artist whose work is selected as the most popular by viewers of the exhibit.

Assisting Mrs. Thompson as coordinating chairman for the show is Mrs. E. J. Sherburne, Louisiana Art and Artists Guild. Dr. Wayne Robichaux, LSU Agricultural Extension Service, and Dr. Lee Taylor, associate professor of sociology at LSU, are advisers.

KAARE GRANSHAGEN

Gardening Difficult In Norway

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

You won't think your gardening is so difficult after you read about Kaare Granshagen, whose garden at Alta, Norway, is 625 miles north of the Arctic Circle.

Granshagen has produced 25,000 tulips in his two hothouses this year. He expects to be eating grapes very soon.

Granshagen, 49, and his wife settled at Alta 15 years ago because he liked the valley. His family has helped brighten a rather barren region with flowers.

Once the electric power failed during a long, dark winter night. He built a fire in his hothouse to protect his plants against freezing. Many plants died from smoke. The next year he brought hin auxiliary power.

PLASTIC SHEETS

Beneath the glass of his 500 square meters of hothouses he hangs transparent plastic sheets as insolation.

When the sun vanishes for more than two months in winter, the plants are under constant artificial light.

In summer, the sun shines day and night from May 18 until July 28. The abundant sunshine, the gardener says, makes vegetables crispier, especially cabbages and carrots.

School children come to Granshagen to see how an orange tree grows. The modest man says the oranges are not very large, "but we like the taste."

While the snow was still deep outside, Granshagen sowed a thousand cabbage and tomato plants indoors.

NEW DAFFODILS

Four new daffodils and one tulip will be introduced this fall by the George W. Park Seed Co., Greenwood, S.C.

The daffodils are the Giant Trumpet, reverse, bicolor Silvretta; DeMol's hybrid split daffodils from trumpet types, Ahoy and Gold Collar; and the Butter-fly-type Senerade.

SOUTHERN GARDENER

'Magic Lillies' Bloom Late

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

The blooming of the "magic lilies" has been late this year. Also, instead of blooming all at once, they have come up over a long period of about three weeks even in the same patch. In some gardens, the last ones are just now blooming.

Unlike the red spider-lilies (lycoris radiata), these pink ones (L. squamigera) do not have evergreen foliage, so the bitter winters do not effect them unless there are extremely cold periods during the daffodil season when the spider-lilies are making buds in their bulbs for their July-August blooming season.

Riding through the country, one sees lone clumps of these giant pink spider-lilies right out in the blazing sun in beds of flowers like zinnias and marigolds. The spider-lilies would look better in some shade in the edge of woods or underneath the trees. Some people like to plant them with nothing growing around them and or leaves over them so that the naked tall green stems can be enjoyed when they arise suddenly out of the soil in July and August.

COMBINATION

One of the most beautiful combinations for a shady location is the hardy begonia (B. evansiana) with the pink spider-lily planted here and there amongst it. The bright red touches in a patch of this begonia and the contrasting shades of bronze and different greens go well with the tall green stems and orchid pink flowers of the spider-lilies.

If you do not like the purple - and pink - magentas of gardens in August, you can eliminate as many of them as possible from your garden. With purple phlox, purple crape myrtles, purple liriope, purple althaeas and many, many other purples, the job will be a big one. Some magenta-haters long ago decided that, since they couldn't "lick 'em", they might as well "jine 'em" and have simply brought in more of the violets into their color schemes along with white flowers and grey foliage plants.

DEPENDABLE

If you decide to "jine 'em", there are many dependable August flowers which will help you. Many of these have been discussed at length in August columns of the past few years. One of the best is the native purple cone flower. The variety, White Lustre and the variety, the King are two very tough perennials for sun in July and August. Incidentally, the King is more pink than violet.

Perhaps the very best of the large bush roses for August is the old variety, Mrs. B. R. Cant. Gardeners who are accustomed to modern roses and have no teas need to be warned not to prune this one except to shape it a little and remove old wood. Let it make as big a bush as it will and cover itself in August with large flat deep pink roses.

Trips Lead To Materials

By AUDREY H. DAWSON

When you are on that last camping, fishing or vacation trip to the mountains or seashore this season, be on the lookout for interesting plant materials, native or wild. Such materials as dock, dried corn tassels, seed pods from locust, red bud, poplar, cattails and water locusts are excellent for fall and winter flower arrangements.

We usually wait until Thanksgiving and Christmas, and it's too late to find these interesting items in the wild. Many of the prominent annuals blooming during the summer may be dried. These materials properly dried will retain their natural color and form.

Make cuttings of your favorite plants during August. Cuttings that may be taken include: Camellias, azaleas, photenia and sasanguas. A root inducing substance such as hormodin and rootone should be used.

HOME, GARDEN WEEK

Topics which will interest gardeners at Home and Garden Week on the LSU campus August 19-22 are:

"Native Plants," "Lawns for Louisiana Homes," "Flower Arrangements for Home," "Birds of our Gardens and Shore," "Conservation and Soil Fertility," "Roses," and "Making Arrangements from Your Own Garden." It's a full week of an opportunity for you to have an educational experience at your University.

Forty homemakers of our Ouachita Parish will leave tomorrow to attend the annual event.

They are: Mrs. A. C. Goodling, Mrs. Jerry Lovett, Mrs. James McDaniel, Mrs. T. A. Fuller, Mrs. Pete Griggs, Mrs. R. J. Wright, Mrs. C. E. Hathaway, Mrs. R. L. Smith, Mrs. Clarence Zeigler, Mrs. Lee Braddock, Mrs. Lake Oxford, Mrs. Will Davis, Mrs. W. R. Baird, Mrs. Steve Mathews, Mrs. James Lindsay, Mrs. D. R. Bryan, Mrs. Roy Calloway, Mrs. L. A. FREEZING DRIED FOODS

Freeze drying is a new processing method which removes the moisture from fresh foods and permits them to be stored for as long as two years without refrigeration. The U. S. Department of Agriculture specialists recently ran taste lists on 28 freeze-dried foods to see how they rated when compared with canned and frozen items. They found three freeze-dried foods definitely better than canned or frozen; 15 equally as good and 10 poorer.

The top three were beef noodle soup, shrimp creole and one brand of chicken noodle soup. As good as canned or frozen were swiss steak, beef stew, creamed chicken, shrimp, shrimp salad, creamed shrimp, crabmeat, crab salad, scrambled eggs, sausage, diced ham, chili with beans, and chicken rice soup.

Poorer than canned or frozen were beef steaks, diced beef, sliced beef and gravy, two brands of diced chicken, chicken salad, chicken stew, chicken rice casserole, peas and one brand of mushroom soup.

In general, freeze-dried foods rated higher when used in prepared dishes than alone.

The seal of the U. S. Testing Company and the statement that an advertised product has been tested and approved by this company are well known to readers. But they will appear no longer, because the company has agreed not to permit its clients to use them. The Federal Trade Commission charged such advertising was misleading because it might give consumers the impression that the product had been tested and approved by the U. S. Government. The U. S. Testing Company is a private company which tests products for a fee. From now on it cannot use the words United States in advertising the tested product to the public.

A THOUGHT

Home Noise Reduction Achieved

NEW YORK (UPI) — If the man of the house comes home ready to snap off his wife's head and finds her all too ready to retaliate, noise may be the culprit.

Some medical authorities feel noise is not only a contributing factor to irritability, but an actual hazard to physical health and often has the psychological effect of bringing on such ailments as nausea, headache and fatigue.

There may not be much you can do about the booming, blaring, piercing clamor the man of the house must endure in the business world, but there's a lot you can do to quiet the racket on the home front.

Sound conditioning is a concern of many companies — acoustical products makers, which make mechanical equipment and others. Studies have shown that household noise can be reduced appreciably — it can be absorbed, blocked and, of course, cut down at the source.

SMALL COST

A homes magazine, Better Homes & Gardens, recently reported on a study which showed it would cost only about $600 extra for quality noise control in a new home.

One of the most important ways to reduce the noise level in a home is to cut down the reflection of sounds from hard walls, floors and ceilings. There is a wide variety of ceiling tile available — in white or colored surfaces, with or without patterns. Surfaces are punched, drilled, straited or grooved to catch and trap sound waves. They are easily installed on furring strips, in channels or on solid surfaces with adhesive or staples.

CARDROOM-DEN in a New York apartment has old playing cards, vaudeville and minstrel posters and the top of an old beer barrel on the wall. Ray Austrian, who arranged the hangings, focused attention on the function of the room while blending with Victorian furnishings.

Special Art In Hanging Of Pictures

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newfeatures Writer

All the emphasis on art in the home has made picture hanging an art in itself points out an expert in the business, Ray Austrian.

You don't slap pictures up on a wall to fill up space. They must be artistically arranged so that the collection of mass flatters the space, and in itself becomes an artistic pattern.

"Most people do not understand art, much less the arrangement of it, unless they've studied art," he explains. "Everyone seems to be looking for advice in this art renaissance."

HANGS PICTURES

Austrian hangs pictures that people own, but also he does entire rooms to order, supplying all the wall art. He does building lobbies and ofhang pictures where they don't belong. He won't sell a picture unless it is right for the place it is to hang and won't sell picture groupings unless he hangs them.

"When we select pictures for a home we take into consideration personal background, places in the world the people have visited and wish to recapture, art tendencies that have been liked and seen and a particular love of an activity."

He has framed tattered Confederate flags, and a flag that was at Waterloo, pictures of famous men, belt buckles, autographs, pipes, precious jewels, old letters. He has just placed a quail wishbone on black velvet for one romantic couple.

"They didn't want to break it when they made a wish on it years ago, and now decided to frame it."

MIXED MEDIA

Austrian will hang mixed media — oil paintings, etchings, engravings, dimensional things — "but we don't believe in reproductions of any kind, such as the so-called masterpiece reproduced on paper," he says.

It's a waste of time and money to pick up art willynilly to fill up wall space, says Austrian, whose New York shop, The Picture Decorator, is jammed with some 25,000 prints, 100 oil paintings, 400 moldings, and innumerable fabrics used for mats.

"It's not uncommon to spend a few dollars on a print and very much more to frame it," he says.

Pictures should move and flow in a room, he advises, stressing that art need not cost a lot of money. He has put pictures in the living room of a young couple for $100 and has done elegant apartments for $5,000. He travels to many countries for art and frames.

Home Ceremony Unites Miss Horton, Mr. Wright

A ceremony in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Oden Horton, united Miss Eleanor Claire Horton and Paul Kendall Wright Jr., in marriage Friday evening, August 16. The vows were heard by the Rev. Loyd E. Williams at 5 p.m. at 112 Rosewood Drive, Monroe. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Kendall Wright of West Monroe are parents of the groom.

An improvised alter area was formed by fern covered wrought iron candelabra at each side of the prie-dieu. Large arrangements of white Fuji chrysanthemums and white aisle posts marked the path to the altar. Candles were lighted by Miss Pamela Wilson who wore a dress of white pima cotton with white accessories and a corsage of daisies and ivy sprays.

A pre-nuptial concert was provided by Miss Biddy Dupree, pianist, and David Noel Norris, soloist.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father, who gave her in marriage. She was attired in a suit dress of alabaster imported cotton brocade styled with soft rolled collar and three-quarter length sleeves. Her hat was a high grown pillbox covered with white tucked organdy adorned with a large white rolled rose. She carried a white satin covered Bible topped with white glamellias and garlands of stephanotis.

Miss Noel Standley was named maid of honor, with the bride's sister, Miss Margaret Horton, bridesmaid. They wore mint green two-piece silk sheaths with ringlet hats trimmed with bows of mint green silk. Their bouquets were green daisies with sprays of ivy.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Horton, chose to wear a pale pink silk sleeveless sheath with a white chiffon shell style hat. Her corsage was of pink glamellias. Mrs. Wright, mother of the groom, wore green silk sheath with scooped neckline and blouson effect. Her white chiffon hat was adorned with white velvet bows and her corsage was of emerald green glamellias.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at home. Guests were greeted at the door by Mrs. Clayton Calhoun, and Mrs. W. G. Haynes Jr. Miss Pamela Wilson presided at the guest book, which was placed on a table covered with a white linen cloth and centered with white chrysanthemums in a silver compote.

The bride's table, draped with floor length white satin, was covered with a full net skirt circled with sprays of ivy. The tiered bride's cake, topped with wedding bells, was placed in the center of the table and was served by Mrs. Charlie Peters, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. J. C. Loftin. Mrs. D. G. Wilson and Mrs. Morris King alternated at the punch bowl.

For traveling, the bride wore a white suit with pink accessories and the corsage from her bridal bouquet. Upon their return, the couple will live in Monroe.

Mrs. Wright is a graduate of Neville High school and attended Northeast Louisiana State college. The groom attended West Monroe High school and Marion Military Institute in Marion, Alabama. He will attend Northeast Louisiana State college this fall. He is a member of Kappa Alpha Order.

Why Grow Old

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Whenver I see a striking resemblance between a mother and daughter it always alerts me to observe the small differences which make one look older than the other.

Strangely enough, this is not always a question of wrinkles or sagging facial contour. With today's know - how and the many creams and oils and moisturizers available, most women fend these off for many years.

The other day, while sitting in a hotel lobby, I saw a startling example of daughter and mother look - alikes. They were both very pretty, and could have passed for twins had it not been for the difference in ages.

The mother's face was remarkably free of lines, but nevertheless, I felt that she was not a young mother. What gave this impression of age? What had happened to the mother to make the difference?

Manner of moving: The walk of the older woman lacked the elasticity and aliveness of the younger one.

Posture: The posture was not extremely poor, but the back was slightly rounded. However the giveaway was the way the mother held her head. She led with her chin. Her head protruded forward.

The mother's expression lacked the aliveness and the awareness of her daughter's. There was a certain resigned quality on her face as compared to the eagerness and alertness of her daughter's expression.

When indulging in such observations, I am always impressed with the fact that no big change made the difference. The sum total of any small changes were responsible. Most of these can be very gradually.

Jan Busby, Phil Corder Wed In Chase

Phil Milton Corder of Monroe claimed as his bride Miss Margaret Jan Busby of Chase. The wedding was performed by the Rev. William O. Busby Jr., brother of the bride, in Chase Baptist church Friday, August 16, at six p.m. Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Busby of Chase, while the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Bonner Corder of Monroe.

Tall tapers in candelabra interlaced with greenery formed a background for the altar. Baskets of yellow gladioli stood at each side. Music was provided by Mrs. Bonnie Stedman at the piano and Mac Craig, soloist.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a full length wedding gown of peau de soie with long sleeves and bell-shaped skirt. Her veil was a Spanish mantilla of white lace draped over her head to form a train at the back. She carried an orchid surrounded with carnations and lilies of the valley.

Attendants for the bride were Miss Doris Busby, her sister, maid of honor; Miss Sarah Sloan of Bastrop and Miss Cloy Lea Byrd, Ferriday, bridesmaids. They wore sheaths of emerald green peau de soie with overskirts of the material and headdress of matching bows and veiling. They carried long stemmed yellow roses.

The groom named his father as best man; and groomsmen were Doug Stedman, Alan Petty, and James Jenkins.

A reception was held in the church parlors following the wedding ceremony. The bride's table, wihch was covered with a white linen cutwork cloth, was centered with the bouquets of the bridal party, flanked by burning yellow tapers. The tiered bride's cake stood at one end with the punch bowl opposite.

When the young couple left on their wedding trip to Natchez and Vicksburg, the bride was wearing a two-piece sheath of plum colored linen with white accessories and an orchid corsage.

Mrs. Corder, a graduate of Gilbert High school, is presently a senior at Northeast Louisiana State college. The groom, a Neville High school graduate, also attended Northeast. The couple will live in Monroe.

THE HOUSE OF THE WEEK

Tidy Ranch Proves Small Homes Can Sparkle Too

CHARMINGLY DIFFERENT: This elegant little ranch contains seven full rooms in modest dimensions of 51'4" by 45'. A courtyard graces the entrance, and inside cathedral ceilings and angled walls provide a dramatic difference. It has three bedrooms, 1 1-2 baths.

FLOOR PLAN: Carporch could be added later, or eliminated altogether without hurting architectural symetry. Inset shows how basement also could be eliminated, with heater and laundry equipment occupying stair well area. Basic house contains 1,297 square feet.

DRAMATIC DECOR: Cathedral ceiling and handsome stone fireplace are immediate eyecatchers in this strikingly different living room. At right is dining room, with door leading to terrace. Splayed end wall and judicious use of glass create excellent opportunities for imaginative interior decorating.

Everything from its arresting facade to its angled interior wals. and dramatic cathedral ceilings marks this as one of the most creative designs ever to appear in the House of the Week series.

That's a powerful claim, but the fact that this house contains a basic area of only 1,297 sq. ft. makes it a safe one.

Architect Samuel Paul, who has accepted the challenge of strict space limitations many times in the past, has shown more clearly than ever in this elegant little design that small homes can be just as imaginative as large ones.

Dimensions of the house are only 51'4" by 45' over-all, which means it will be quite comfortable on a 65' lot. The design is number J-89 in the House of the Week series.

Among its more striking features is what architect Paul calls a carporch — a roofed area, open at one side, which can serve as a sheltered parking area or as a covered addition to an entrance court.

Another exciting innovation, included as an aid to creative interior decorating, is the intentionally angled walls of the living, dining and family rooms. In addition, the three bedrooms plus the living and dining rooms have sloped ceilings which conform to the size of each room.

Best of all, these interesting innovations aren't inordinately expensive, as their sparkling difference might suggest. As always, Paul has kept one eye on economy throughout the design.

For the exterior of the house Paul used basically only one material, vertical siding, so as not to detract from the unusual shape which is the source of its charm. The shape and location of the windows, a few flower boxes, a touch of plywood and some stone veneer facing the entrance court provide colorful accents.

ADDITIONAL DETAILS

An important detail that might go unnoticed at first glance is that all three bedrooms plus the living room, dining room and kitchen are corner rooms, with a resulting abundance of light and air.

A nice entrance foyer serves as a visual addition to the living room but at the same time keeps traffic out of the room and efficiently funnels it to any one of the three activity areas — sleeping area, formal area and informal area, all of which are clearly zoned with the latter two properly interrelated.

A low planter adjoins the linen closet at the foyer, and the closet also has a high planter above it. The combination forms a pleasant entrance to the living room. As an optional feature Paul has included a striking corner fireplace, the type that can be viewed from any part of the room, which helps to define the dining room boundary. An optional barbecue uses the same chimney on the patio outside.

The kitchen has a double bowl corner sink and a new type cooking ensemble which features a double oven at eye level over an extra wide range top.

A breakfast bar, which has a step-saving lift-top, divides the kitchen and family room. In addition to the bar there is plenty of room for a table in the kitchen.

A lavatory is well located near the service entrance and the kitchen. The main bath is convenient to the formal area as well as the bedrooms.

There are two major optional features. One is elimination of the basement, in which case laundry and heater equipment would go where the basement stair is located. The other is elimination of the carporch entirely, or delaying its construction until you can better afford it.

When built, the carporch will provide an additional 260 cubic feet of storage space besides its more obvious benefits. It also will be the key feature in a charming entrance courtyard which could be developed with low stone benches, flower beds, perhaps a reflecting pool or fountain.

J-89 STATISTICS

A one-story house containing seven full rooms including three bedrooms and 1½ baths. Basic house contains 1,297 square feet not counting 296-square-foot carporch. Optional partial cellar would contain 1,042 square feet. Storage area in carporch contains 260 cubic feet. Over-all dimensions are 51'4" wide by 45' deep.

A full study of this architect-designed House of the Week may be obtained by writing THE HOUSE OF THE WEEK c-o the Monroe Morning World, Monroe, La. and enclosing 50 cents to cover cost of handling and mailing. Please specify House Plan J-89.

Little Expected To Be Gained From Hoodlum

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hoodlum Joseph Valachi's appearance before the Senate Investigations subcommittee promises to add little if anything to what's already been told by the Justice Department about the crime syndicate called "Cosa Nostra," informed sources said Saturday.

The hearing will undoubtedly be spectacular, with all the publicity of a full-fledged Senate investigation. Some law enforcement officials are known to be concerned lest this publicity, piled on top of the attention already given Valachi, may severely hamper their future investigations.

Valachi, who has been spilling the story of his criminal life to investigators for a year, may name a few more names involved in the multibillion-dollar organized crime empire. But an informed official said that's about all—beyond a repetition of the essentials of stories that already have been made public.

Many veteran law enforcement officers fail to see any "major intelligence breakthrough" in Valachi's testimony that will aid the fight against organized crime.

MONROE DISTRICT

Oil, Gas Activity Doubles In Area

New acitvity exactly doubled last week in the Monroe Oil & Gas District, while the number of completions in the 15 parishes was cut about in half. The number of wells actively drilling or testing remained approximately the same.

District Manager Duncan S. Cook's weekly report, just released, showed promise of booming activity in the immediate future, with 32 new locations staked in nine north Louisiana parishes, 12 of them in the Monroe Gas Field.

The number of completions, however, fell to four, found in three parishes, down from nine during the week preceding, and seven a week before that. The finals included two in Tensas Parish, one in Rapides and one in Union Parish, the Monroe Field.

Of the new locations, 10 were in the Monroe Field of Union Parish, and two in Ouachita Parish, the Monroe Field. Others and their numbers occurred in Catahoula Parish, six; three each in Concordia, LaSalle and Avoyelles; two each in Rapides and Tensas and one in Morehouse.

About the same at 15 as last week was the total on active rigs. There were 16 working wells in the district at the close of the week before, which was unchanged from the 16 of the week before that.

Only well active in Ouachita Parish was in the Calhoun Field, drilling in sand and shale at 8200 feet.

Locations at week's end numbered 85, of which 49 were listed as drilling. Eighteen wells were plugged and abandoned, pushing the inactive total up slightly to 90. There were no recompletions.

Cook's report on the completions and active rigs included these data:

COMPLETIONS

RAPIDES PARISH, N. Big Island Field — Crow Drig-States Oil Co's Paul-Belgard no. 2, located in sec. 27-5-3E, depth 5280 ft.

TENSAS PARISH, Wildcat Field — The Hunter Co's J. N. & J. L. Donnell no. 1, located in sec. 34-13-10E, depth 8010 ft.

Locust Ridge Field — Colorado Oil & Gas Corp's J. Washington et al Unit no. 1, located in sec. 25-11-11E, depth 9200 ft.

Lee Wildcat Operations Are Deepened

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — C. A. Lee deepened his wildcat in Madison County Saturday, the Hardeman no. 2, sec 24-9n-1w, to 10,500 feet after logging numerous oil shows on mud pits.

The venture drilled below 10,150 feet with original contract depth being 10,300 feet. Several months ago the same operator drilled the Hardeman no. 1, about one half mile northwest of the present well.

The abandoned wildcat encountered faulting conditions but failed to log any shows. The test is about four miles southeast of the Bentonia Oil Field.

Pan American Petroleum Corp. drilled below 4,100 feet in its potential new gas field find in Chickasay County and neared contract depth of 4,200 feet. The wildcat recovered gas on drill stem test run in open hole at 3,482-3,522 feet. A core at 3,547-70 feet logged about 21 feet of gas sand that was not drill sted tested. The well is located in the black Warrior basin area of northeast Mississippi.

Production tests were underway at Jones-O'Brien Inc. and Callon Petroleum Com pan y ' s no. 5, Hogue 5n-4w, Adams County wildcat, on the Glasscok towhead near the Mississippi River. Operators were testing commercial worth of a wilcox sand at 5,924-37 feet.

Pan American Petroleum Corp. drilled below 15,800 feet in its deep Claiborne County wildcat, the Campbell Est. no. 1, sec. 51-13n-3e, with the venture scheduled to be drilled to 16,500 feet. The well had original contract depth of 13,000 feet but was amended to deepen to 16,500 feet.

In Rankin County, Love Petroleum Co. and Carleton Billups were continuing tests on pumping their discovery, the Rhodes no. 1, sec. 7-5n-5e. The wildcat was reported to be pumping 145 barrels of oil per day from a rodess sand at 10,239-59 feet. Testing operations have been underway at the well for about four weeks. The new discovery was about one mile north of the discovery well of the one-well Pelahatchie Field.

Also in Rankin County, California Co. drilled below 12,489 feet after running electrical log in its wildcat the west no. 1, sec. 34-8n-3e, located near the Barnett reservoir.

Humble Oil and Refining Co. has permitted its deep Hancock County wildcat, the Weston Lbr. Co. no. 1, sec. 6-9S-15w, a 14,500 foot try.

At Lazy Creek in Pike County, Furrh, Murray and Mayflo Oil Co. completed their Wallace no. 1, sec. 9-4n-8e, pumping 125 barrels of oil per day from a sand at 10,745-50 feet.

In the Gitano field of Jones County, Larue-Smith Production Co. completed the Powell no. 3, sec. 9-9n-13w, flowing 234 barrels of oil per day.

At Carmichael in Clarke County, Berry and Thurber completed their Keeton - Carmichael no. 1, sec. 5-1n-17e, pumping 44 barrels of oil daily from a sand at 3,787-92 feet.

A&N producing services finaled its Mt. Vernon no. 8, sec. 83-7n-2w, in the Lagrange field of Adams County. The well pumped 37 barrels of oil per day from a sand at 4,611-16 feet.

At West Lincoln County, Marshall R. Young completed the Central Lumber Co. no. 3, sec. 19-6n-8e, pumping 47 barrels of oil per day from a sand at 10,568-94 feet.

Peaceful Latin Revolt Is Seen

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP)—President Kennedy said Saturday "a peaceful revolution is under way in Latin America and this gives promise of a better life to millions."

The President, speaking on the second anniversary of the Alliance for Progress, said he is "heartened by the advances that have been made in a short space of time."

Kennedy's remarks were recorded on color film at the White House Friday for distribution by the Organization of American States and the U.S. Information Agency. They were released here.

The President, spending his seventh consecutive weekend with his family on Cape Cod, spent part of the afternoon playing golf with a house guest, New York investment banker Charles Spalding.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS average of 60 stocks recorded a new high when it closed at 276.4, up from 272.3 a week ago as indicated in the chart. It was the third consecutive week that the average had advanced. Led by food and livestock the commodity index declined this week to 157.8 from 158.8 in the preceding period. (AP Wirephoto)

Mart Makes Big Advance During Week

NEW YORK (AP)—Stimulated by progress in tax-cut legislation and hopes that the Aug. 29 deadline for a nationwide rail strike would be averted, the stock market last week made its biggest advance in four months.

Rails rallied despite the fact there was no solid news during the trading week on which to base expectations that the railway labor dispute would be settled. The arbitration agreement came well after the market close.

Legislation which would provide nearly $12 billion in tax reductions was approved by the House Ways and Means Committee, however, and this gave investors something to chew on, even though the eventual passage of the tax cut had some hurdles to clear.

Wall Street also was encouraged by glowing reports from the auto industry and news emanating from a press preview of Chrysler's new 1964 line.

More basically, the economy seemed sound in view of news that industrial production in July had set a record for the fifth straight month and a Washington forecast that the nation's output of goods and services this year would reach a record of $580 billion or more.

Stock market action was highlighted by progress among the motors, steels and a wide variety of issues which were moderately-priced and seemed to reflect increasing public participation in the market. Swirling rumors about certain especially situated stocks served to excite interest among speculators and added zip to the market, even though most of the rumors proved unfounded.

Among the market wheelhorses, Pennsylvania Railroad ended the week up 1¼ at 20, U.S. Steel up 2½ at 49¾ and General Motors, up 1⅜ at 73.

Polaroid gained 3¾, Richfield Oil 3⅜, Amerada 3 and Trans World Airlines 3.

Volume for the week leaped to 22,798,850 shares from 18,461,610 the previous week and was the largest since the week ended June 15 when 22,949,040 shares changed hands.

The Dow Jones industrial average advanced 10.93 to 719.32.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 4.1 to 276.4, a new historic high which topped the previous peak of 275.9 reached May 3. It was the biggest gain since the week ended April 6 when the average rose 5.6.

A flurry of trading in foreign issues to beat a new tax enlivened an otherwise dull performance in the bond markets last week. The heavy dealings in foreign bonds did not seem to have much price significance although they pushed over-all turnover of bonds on the New York Stock Exchange to the highest level since the first week in June.

ON STRIKE FEARS

Nation Balanced By Rail Dispute

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The off-again on-again threat of a paralyzing national railroad strike dominated business developments last week.

It appeared briefly to have lifted late Friday but later Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, leading settlement attempts, declared "We're by no means home."

The cliff-hanger situation that had made businessmen jittery for months took a turn for the better when the five operating unions agreed to arbitration of the two key issues in the work rules dispute.

But the agreement proved conditional, and efforts were renewed to reduce the understanding to concrete terms.

Railroad management, willing to arbitrate for months, said it would accept Wirtz' latest proposal.

This critical situation put a drag on the stock market but it posetd a good gain, mainly on encouragement from progress of the tax cut bill in Congress.

The House Ways and Means Committee approved an across-the-board reduction but some cold water was thrown on the outlook by statements of influential senators that the legislation had a poor chance of getting through the Senate.

The automobile industry raised the curtain on its 1964 model year amid optimism that it will be the third good year in a row.

The railroads eventually would like to get rid of 40,000 firemen and 65,000 employes altogether.

With the deadline nearing, the 156-member Committee of General Chairman of the AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen met in Washington.

As approved by the House Ways and Means Committee, the tax reduction would apply to income beginning Jan. 1, 1964. Two-thirds of the individual reductions and a little more than half of the corporate reduction would come on 1964 income and the balance on 1965 and subsequent income.

The individual cut would average 20 per cent and the corporate tax would be reduced from 52 per cent to 48 per cent by 1965.

Chrysler Corp., which racked up an excellent gain in production and sales during the 1963 model year, kicked off 1964 by showing its new entries in San Francisco.

The firm spent $125 million in preparing its new line but the changes weren't startling. Chrysler appeared to be betting that it could keep its sales gain going without radical departures from 1963 styling.

Automobile production fell during the week to an estimated 18,000 passenger cars, lowest of the year and down from 41,862 last week.

General Motors completed its 1963 model run the previous week and Ford did so during the week. Chrysler, American Motors and Studebaker already were building 1964s. Ford starts its 1964 run Monday and General Motors' 1964 production will begin Sept 3.

Steel production skidded again for the fourth straight week. It dropped to 1,748,000 tons, an estimated 56.3 per cent of operating capacity.

No improvement was expected until vacations are over and automakers get their assembly lines running full blast on new models.

Cattle Prices About Face In Trading

United Press International

Cattle prices did an about face this week and started on a climb that many traders expect to last until mid-September. The value of cattle in the Midwest had been slipping for four consecutive weeks.

A higher wholesale dressed beef trade indicated that enthusiastic supermarket demand helped do the trick. Word that the recent flood of record-breaking heavy cattle are at last taking the shapes of steaks, roasts and hamburgers also attracted shipper and packer buying.

Dealers apparently chose to ignmore the fact that receipts at the 12 midwestern markets were 6,000 head above a week ago.

Slaughter steers sold steady to 25 cents per 100 pounds higher with Sioux City up as much as 50 cents. Heifers traded steady to 50 cents higher, although St. Louis and St. Joseph recorded 50 cent drops, cows steady to 50 cents higher, bulls steady to 25 cents higher and vealers steady to $1.00 up.

Weights commanded more influence with prices than grades in most markets. For example, a load of high choice and prime 1400 pound steers at Chicago sold around $24.75 to $25.00 one day this week, while a load of choice steers weighing 1150 to 1250 pounds was $2500. A USDA spokesman said that heifer buyers were invading the steer market for the lighter weights.

Choice steers at Chicago averaged $24.80 this week against $24.59 last week and $28.31 a year ago. Cattle in the Windy City hit $26, the highest point in three weeks.

Meanwhile, farmers watched prices for hogs work lower. Lower dressed pork trade called the punches. The downturn on barrows and gilts ranged from 25 cents to $1.00 lower with sows 50 lower.

A trade source attributed the lower prices to reports that meat production was above the year ago level for the 12th straight week with pork and beef accounting for the bulk of the increase. Stronger competition from poultry was another bearish influence.

SHOWS LITTLE CHANGE

Grain Is Steady During Past Week

CHICAGO (AP) — Except for some moderate net losses in soybeans, the grain futures market showed little change this week from generally quiet and mixed transactions on the Board of Trade.

The government's August crop report was the major trade influence of the week and was construed as decidedly bearish in Monday's market. However, prices showed periods of firmness during the week and finished with some of those losses recovered.

The report gave speculators a rather hard jolt with its forcast of a record 1963 yield of 723.2 million bushels, compared with last year's production of 675 million. The corn estimate also was a bit bearish.

Within a day or two, after analysts had re-assessed the soybean outlook, prospects began to seem a little more promising for speculators on the bull side of the market.

In one important aspect, they found the supply at the start of the next crop year actually would not be much larger than the one with which they started the current year. From it, they have a carryover estimated at only 15 million bushels.

Moreover, speculators who doubted that the yield could be that large reminded that it could be cut in the September or subsequent estimates sufficiently to restore the possibility of a tight supply late in the year. They pointed out that in other recent years, the Department of Agriculture had revised its figures from time to time, usually downward.

Since the report was issued, direct advices from the producing areas of both corn and soybeans have been somewhat more conclusive, too. Both crops now have developed to the point at which they show yield prospects.

Corn is well advanced generally and is providing producers fairly exact indications of production because the ears already have filled. In soybean fields, the number of pods and how they are filling has shown experienced crop appraisers what they can expect.

However, there have been conflicting reports on that. Some spot checks have indicated good pod fill. Others have not. At week's one point reported receipt of some new crop soybeans from a field which yielded only 11 bushels an acre.

At the end of the week, wheat was 1 cent a bushel lower to 1½ cents higher, September $1.79⅞-80; corn ¼-1 cent higher, September $1.22½; oats ½ lower to ½ higher, September 62⅞ cents; rye ⅞-1 cent higher, September $1.27¼; soybeans 1⅛-3⅜ lower, August $2.57¼-⅝.

Kroger Shareholders have authorized 750,000 shares of a new class of $50 par value cumulative preferred stock at a special meeting at the Company's General Office in Cincinnati. A total of 491,276 shares of the new issue is earmarked for use in acquiring Market Basket, a 56 store Los Angeles supermarket company, through an exchange of stock.

It was announced earlier that Market Basket shareowners would be offered one share of the Kroger Preferred stock for two shares of Market Basket common stock. The offer must be accepted by holders of 80 per cent of Market Basket common stock to become effective.

No Comment On Halted Talk

HYANNIS Port, Mass. (UPI)—The White House was silent Saturday on published reports that President Kennedy called off a scheduled speech at Georgia Tech in October at the request of Gov. Carl E. Sanders.

Presidential aide Kenneth O'Donnell wrote Georgia Tech earlier this week saying the President had to cancel the speech because of "recent circumstances."

The letter, to Tech President Edwin D. Harrison, did not elaborate on "recent circumstances."

Asked for clarification Saturday, Presidential Press Secretary Pierre Salinger replied that he had nothing further to say about the matter.

Australian Waters Offer Big Pleasure

At a depth of 40 feet the divers scooped up handfuls of Pieces of Eight and found several hundred ivory tusks, part of a cargo valued in old records at $500,000.

Divers have since rushed to the scene from all over Australia. Which points up how remarkably skin diving has rocketed to popularity in Australia.

More than 30,000 Australians now swim deep for recreation. To match that number the United States would need on a de capita basis five million skin diving sportsmen.

Australian underwater conditions particularly favor skin diving.

Southern waters are warm for eight months of the year, northern waters for 12 months. Underwater visibility in many places exceeds 120 feet at depths of up to 60 feet.

Easily the most rewarding waters for all these are those of the Great Barrier Reef, which fringes the continent's north - east coast for 1250 miles.

BARRIER REEF

Since Dutch, Portuguese, Spanish and British navigators began exploring the South Pacific early in the 17th century hundreds of ships have run afoul of the Barrier Reef.

A few years later the Pandora, carrying Bounty Mutineers captured in Tahiti, was smashed to pieces on it. In 1899 a hurricane drove 55 pearling luggers to total destruction on shoals out from Bathurst Bay in northern Barrier Reef waters.

Tales passed down for centuries insist several ships now long entombed in Barrier Reef waters carry treasure, but by far the leading attraction for skin divers is the fantastic and beautiful marine life.

Of this Captain Alan Villiers, the Australian windjammer sailor who skippered "Mayflower II" across the Atlantic, wrote:

"Australia's Great Barrier Reef is one of the natural wonders of the world. Not only are the various forms of coral seen here flourishing and beautiful, but all the ocean and beach life is exaggerated. Marine animals, elsewhere small, grow here to enourmous size; those which are elsewhere drab here sport gorgeous colors."

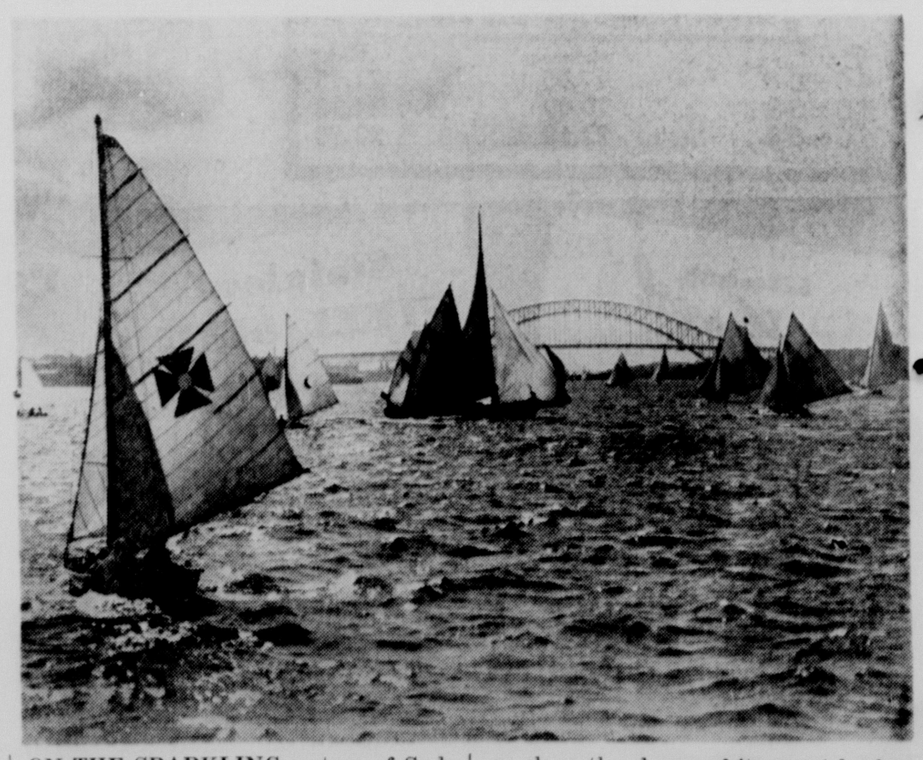

PACKAGE TOURS

Underwater exploration at the Reef has become so popular that cut - rate package tours exclusively for skin divers are now opearting. For these the destination is Heron Island, which probably offers the world's most spectacular coral reef viewing.

Skin divers' tours operate from September through November, when the water off Heron is so clear it seems invisible.

But you don't need to swim deep to view Barrier Reef wonders. All of the dozen resort islands have glass-bottomed boats. One of them, Green Island, also features an underwater observatory.

But if the big enticement is a chance to come across pearls or Pieces of Eight, you'll need SCUBA equipment. You can take along your own or hire it locally.

ON THE SPARKLING waters of Sydney Harbor, yachts spread their bright sails to gather in the salty breeze and absorb the mellow sunshine. Sydney, Australia's largest city, has grown up along the shores of its great harbor and the Pacific Ocean and the life of its active, vibrant people remain close to the sea.

This is the ... of Indonesia war ... as it celebrates ... anniversary of its ... independence from ... That declaration pl... chain of is... more than four years ... Breakfast ... and led to a ... States of Indonesia.

BLOOD SPILLED

The blood ... for freedom has led at le... some people here to feel a touch of scorn for Asian neighbors such as the Philippines and Malaya. In the words of one Indonesian, these countries had their independence "handed to them on a silver platter" by the United States and Britain.

Today this country of 100 million people boasts the largest standing army in Southeast Asia —400,000 men with modern weapons, including guided missiles. This military force provides the muscle which President Sukarno's "guided democracy" regime flexes from time to time in pursuing its policy of neutralism.

Sukarno's tactics, at least once, have paid off handsomely on his terms. The disputed territory of West New Guinea became the Indonesian province of West Irian last May 1.

PRICE TAG

The 150-foot concrete monument bearing the statue of the man with the shattered chains commemorates the West Irian victory.

But that victory had a high price tag.

Sukarno has said Indonesia poured 70 per cent of its "national potential and ability" into the military buildup which it used chiefly to confront the Dutch during five years of the West Irian crisis.

The burden includes a debt of —according to unofficial estimates —close to $1 billion for weapons obtained over the years from the Soviet bloc on credit.

The result: a further heavy strain on Indonesia's economy. Inflation has pushed many consumer goods out of the reach of the man in the street. A laborer, when he works, may earn the equivalent of a nickel a day.

Impartial economic observers insist there is nothing approaching starvation in this potentially rich agricultural country. But there are shortages. A million tons of rice has to be imported each year.

RECENT POINT

At one recent point the rupiah —officially pegged at 45 to $1— hit a black market peak of 1,250 to $1.

Grumbling is loudest on Java island, which holds 60 per cent of the country's population. The discontent has provided ammunition for the two-million-member Communist party, biggest outside the Iron Curtain.

An attempt is being made to achieve Indonesia's first balanced budget by the end of next year.

The government has turned to the West, particularly the United States, for financial assistance. This is under discussion in the American Congress. A proposed amendment to the foreign aid bill would omit this country unless President Kennedy feels such aid is vital to U.S. interests.

The rupiah's open-rate value has dipped to 915 to $1 and there are reports of a slight leveling off in prices of cement and textiles.

But a new confrontation has started up with Malaya over its plan to merge with Singapore and the British Borneo territories in a Malaysia Federation.

HELP FOR HOMEMAKERS

DEAR HELOISE:

For those who must iron extra-big, long, white, company tablecloths on an ironing board (not by an ironer) here's my suggestion:

When the cloth has been washed, dampened and is ready to iron . . . fold the tablecloth like a paper fan.

This means to fold in an accordion-pleated fashion. I usually fold it in half before making the pleats if the cloth is wide.

Put the cloth in your freezer until frozen. (I leave mine overnight.)

When you get ready to iron the cloth you can "peel" it apart and iron one section at a time—while semi-frozen.

The cloth will not dry out and the end of the cloth will be as damp as the beginning by the time you get to that part of it.

Rosemary Baugh

Ladies . . . it works! It's absolutely fantabulous. Thanks for this hint!

Love,
Heloise

TRICK OF THE WEEK

DEAR HELOISE:

I wonder how many people have picket fences . . . or any kind for that matter . . . which must be painted.

After painting our fence every two years for the last ten, I discovered that a paint roller speeds up the work like magic and covers every spot.

On picket fences we thin the paint well, and after rolling it on, "feather" with a paint brush.

"Feathering" means to take your paint brush and go over it. We learned that it is not the brush marks which take time when applying paint but the spreading of the paint itself!

For people who paint and do not like the texture of rippled marks—they will find that a roller still can be used if the paint is diluted with a thinner and a brush used immediately afterwards to cover these marks.

TYPING TACTICS

DEAR HELOISE:

Here is a hint for former secretaries who find themselves typing at home for their husbands:

I used to type at the kitchen table but was never comfortable, as regular tables are too high.

Then one day I thought about using my adjustable ironing board. I adjusted it to the correct height and now have more table space than if I had a typing table!

Comfortable Now

HOOK AND LINE

DEAR HELOISE:

Just how would you keep a store-bought shower curtain from flapping over the edge of the shower? Every time I take a shower, my bathroom floor is a mess of water!

Tom

Dear Tom,

I would look for a fishing equipment store and buy some fish line weights!

Now . . . since you cannot sew, I would also stop at my dime store and buy a small package of safety pins. I would run the safety pins through the fish line weights and attach them along the bottom of my shower curtain.

These weights will keep the shower curtain from flapping. It is the water pressure which sends the shower curtain flying!

Since you cannot control your water pressure, why not use these little fishing gadgets? They work!

BUTTONS UP

DEAR HELOISE:

I put a roll of shelf paper in an empty wax-paper box and use the metal cutter on it to cut the shelf paper. This gives me neat, evenly-cut sheets when I line my shelves.

To speed the sewing on of buttons: double the thread, then thread your needle and knot both ends. With every stitch you will be putting four, threads through the button instead of two.

FLUFFY MASH

DEAR HELOISE:

I always add a tablespoon of milk to the water in which I boil my potatoes. It seems to make very white and fluffy mashed potatoes instead of grayish-looking ones.

Another thing I do is add a grated apple to ground meat to give it a different and delicious flavor! No matter how it's cooked . . . it's delish!

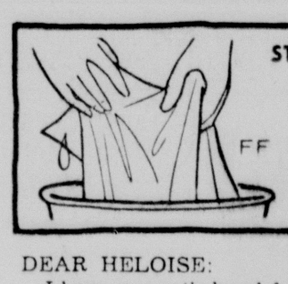

Mrs. E. E. Segerson

Grated apple added to your meat loaf recipe makes it a wonderful change!

STATIC QUO

DEAR HELOISE:

I eliminate static electricity in my slips by using a very light starch in them. Works for me.

DEAR HELOISE:

I keep my pet's bowl from slipping and sliding across the floor when he "licks the platter clean" by taping or gluing a jar rubber on the bottom of his bowl.

POTTED PLANTS

DEAR HELOISE:

Please tell women when training ivy and philodendron that if they will use pipe cleaners— which may be purchased at any drug store—to fasten the vine to a stake . . .

It will keep from bruising the stem!

The pipe cleaner may be gently twisted to hold the vine in place. As the vine begins to cling and take shape these pipe cleaners may be easily removed or loosened without damaging the plant.

Rx FOR SPLINTERS

DEAR HELOISE:

When a child gets a splinter in his hand or finger, I apply an ice cube on the splinter for a few minutes before I remove it.

I find that this numbs the area and you will be surprised how painless removing a splinter becomes!

WHAT? NO-NO-NO! WHEN THE PLAGUE CAME, YOU CAME! YOU AND THE GOVERNMENT DOCTOR!

YOUR BRAVERY AND NURSING SAVED MANY; IT WAS YOU WHO GAVE YOUR BLOOD BY TRANSFUSION TO MY WIFE AND THE BABY SON I NEVER SAW!

I DIDN'T KNOW YOU EVER HEARD ABOUT THAT!

WHEN I RUSHED HOME ON LEAVE I WAS TOO ANGRY AT THE FATE THAT HAD TAKEN THEM TO DARE EVEN TO SPEAK! AFTER THE WAR I'D WAITED SO LONG I WAS ASHAMED TO SPEAK OF YOUR DEED!

YES! BUT I DID NOT THINK OF THAT WHEN I BLEATED LIKE A SHEEP OVER OUR PRESENT NEED!

"A WEEK TO THINK IT OVER"? WE'LL HAVE THE TWENTY-FIVE MILLION IN OUR PUEBLO BANK TOMORROW!

MRS. KATE, SISTER OF MY TRIBE, YOU MAY NOT CLAIM TO BE ONE OF THE "FIRST AMERICANS", BUT TO MY PEOPLE YOU WILL FOREVER BE THE NUMBER ONE AMERICAN!
